Compliments and Money.
Keep Off the Ether.
A New Eye for Science.
Even Champagne, Perhaps.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE late ambassador to Spain, Alexander P. Moore, leaves $100,000 to Victoria, Spanish queen. This will please the queen but probably not as much as Mr. Moore's compliment, when he told her she looked like his deceased wife, Lillian Russell.

Those that saw Lillian Russell will realize what a compliment that was.

MEN did not dream, 10 years ago, that there would be "no trespassing" signs located in the ether, surrounding our planet.

Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, says an ether accident almost happened to the voice of King George welcoming naval delegates in London, radio carrying his voice across the oceans.

A station in Chile, changing its wavelength for better transmission, upset the king's speech. New York told Chile to get out of the way. Chile did, and the broadcast was successful. Mr. Aylesworth predicts that radio will help to establish peace.

IN the next war radio will be most important. Science will be asked to interfere with radio operations on the enemy. Eventually men may decide to abandon war, not out of decency, but because it will have become too complicated and costly.

SCIENCE has found a way to make the great telescopic mirror 200 inches in diameter. The quartz will be sprayed at a temperature of 3,000 degrees.

The quartz, ground to powder and melted, is sprayed as paint for automobiles is sprayed. The telescope's lens will be as big as the floor of a room 17 feet square and cost $6,000,000. The best telescopes now penetrate space to a distance of 150,000,000 light years. The new telescope is expected to reach 600,000,000 light years into space, and, perhaps, to show some proof of Einstein's "limited universe." They will have to look farther than that to find any limit.

IT is hard for us to imagine anything as hot as 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

To a dweller on the sun, it would be hard to imagine anything as cold as that. The sun's temperature is 50,000,000 degrees centigrade.

IMPORTANT in the prohibition struggle is an announcement by Gov. Roosevelt, of New York. He demands "home rule" for states, with each state deciding what percentage of alcohol constitutes an intoxicating drink.

The law now says that only one half of one per cent alcohol is legal. Gov. Roosevelt's idea would make four or six per cent beer, ten or twelve per cent wine, even fourteen per cent champagne, for the tired business man, legal, with the Legislature's approval.

THERE will be many long fights in our politics, now almost exclusively "prohibition," at a time when other things need attention, particularly the problem of unemployment.

THE British Bishop of Durham warns the official British church against mixing politics with piety in their prayers aimed at Russia's government. He says Russia's church fell when czardom fell. And asks himself anxiously "whether the Church of England, if a similar crisis should come, would disclose any stronger hold on the people?" He would have Christians asking the Lord to interfere with the government of another country to go about it carefully.

MEANWHILE, latest reports from Russia show 48 churches, four cathedrals, and 34 religious shrines closed. One city uses all church bells for making industrial instruments.

And, in the presence of many peasants, six priests of the Russian church have "repudiated" their calling, declaring that religion is only a cloak for "counter-revolution."

It is not stated what force or other means was used to compel the priests to make this confession.

GERMANY lost the war and built the Bremen.

England won the war, and can't afford to build a ship to compete with the Bremen, because "50,000-ton ships would prohibit investment."

American shipbuilders say we also could not afford a 30-knot 50,000-ton passenger liner because it would cost $30,000,000 and lose money, even with a government mail contract.

THE chain store idea spreads. Best & Co., one of the oldest, most successful New York stores, establishes its second suburban branch, for the convenience of customers and to help solve the traffic problem.

Big stores in great cities will soon have many branches in outlying districts. John Wanamaker, when he first put a thick carpet on the floor of his store, and was told that it was extravagant, said "nothing is extravagant that increases the comfort of the customer."

Branch stores will increase the comfort of the customers, bring more people to the main central store and greatly increase the value of advertising in newspapers of large circulation.

CHICAGO establishes a market for trading in "hog futures." Thus you will be able to sell a pig that you don't own, have never even seen. Pigs rise to the level of wheat, stocks and bonds, and ought to be proud.

THIRD JAIL STAY GIVEN THOMPSON

Porter Questions Coal Deal, Asks to Audit Bank Books; Princess Ignores Uncle

By JOHN P. COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 3.—J. V. Thompson, former millionaire coal land owner and banker, was granted a third extension of his parole on contempt proceedings and saved from a jail sentence at least until July 7 by Judge J. W. Dawson in Orphans Court here today.

The extension, bitterly opposed by counsel for the Messmore estate and the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, was allowed to give Thompson more time to complete a supposed coal land deal that would permit him partly to recoup his lost fortunes.

An effort to have Thompson's bank books brought into court and audited, failed.

INDICTMENT OF BLONDE ASKED

True Bill Against Dague Also Sought; Early Trial in Officer's Slayng Likely

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, March 3.—Indictments on charges of murder, felonious shooting and highway robbery were to be asked against Irene Schroeder, blonde trigger woman suspect, and her sweetheart, Walter Glenn Dague, before Lawrence County's grand jury today.

The couple is accused of slaying Corp. Brady Paul, Pennsylvania highway patrolman, and wounding Patrolman Ernest Moore in a gun battle on the New Castle-Butler road December 27.

They also are charged with the death of an Arizona deputy sheriff, wounded in an exchange of shots with the fugitives just prior to their capture in the Maricopa County desert country, where they were cornered after their flight across the continent.

PLAN EARLY TRIAL

An hour or two will be required for swearing in the jury members, following which the district attorney is expected to ask for true bills against Dague and Irene, who have been confined to the Lawrence County jail here since their return from Arizona a month ago.

If they are indicted today, Lawrence County authorities declare, they will be called for trial next week. Mrs. Schroeder will be called first, it is thought, the defense having the privilege of asking seperate trials.

TAXI FOES HIDE NEXT MOVES

Both sides in the taxicab strike are reticent today on what their next moves will be.

Miss M. Emmilinne Pitt, Federal labor conciliator, called on Mayor Charles H. Kline this afternoon, presumably with reference to the strike.

Rumors that the men are considering making a peace offer to the company were dispelled by unofficial statements of the taxicab union committee.

"Everything is quiet. A peace offer is one thing that the committee is not working on," was the opinion of several members of the committee.

The strike is now in its fiftieth day. It started January 19.

A benefit midnight show was held in the Highland Theater, 721 North Homewood avenue, which lasted until early today.

No statements were made yesterday by either side. There was no response to repeated telephone calls made to the company headquarters in the William Penn Hotel.

Grandmother Wins Appeal, Cleared in Sex Pamphlet Case

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today unanimously reversed the conviction of Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, of Brooklyn, on charges of sending alleged obscene matter through the mails to Mrs. C. A. Miles, in Grottoes, Va.

No retrial was ordered and under the terms of the decision Mrs. Dennett is freed from the charge, which grew out of the mailing of a copy of her brochure, "The Sex Side of Life," to Mrs. Miles.

The pamphlet which Mrs. Dennett sent through the mails was one she wrote 15 years ago for the guidance of her two sons, now grown, with children of their own.

The pamphlet has been distributed by churches and social organizations for 10 years.

TAFT IMPROVED, DOCTORS SAY

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—After a visit to the Taft home at 2:25 p. m. today, Dr. Thomas A. Claytor said there was no change in the condition of the former president and chief justice, who had been reported as improved in a formal bulletin issued during the morning.

His physicians early today said he continued to take some nourishment; that his condition has improved slightly, and that unless a change developed from arterio sclerosis that "his span of life is undetermined."

Despite this encouraging word, the doctors still felt the former president and chief justice was waging a hopeless fight that could end in but one way.

ANNIVERSARY TOMORROW

In view of the doctors' bulletin, it seemed probable that Mr. Taft would live until tomorrow—the twenty-first anniversary of his inauguration as president.

Today there was but little reminder of the pomp and splendor

Fever-Stricken, Wales May Be Ordered Home

LONDON, March 3.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales may be forced to return to England immediately after recovering from the attack of malaria which has forced him to interrupt his hunting trip in the East African jungles, reports from Nairobi, Kenya colony stated today.

The Prince is now resting comfortably in the government house at Nairobi where it was stated his fever was "following the normal course" and that his highness was "expected to be quite well in a few days."

Nevertheless, dispatches received here today pointed out that jungle malaria invariably leaves its victim extremely weak and that it was unlikely the Prince would be permitted to finish up his hunting program.

The Prince's illness was diagnosed as sub-tertian malaria. The attack was said to be mild.

MORE SNOW FLURRIES DUE HERE

Only Slight Relief Promised From Cold and Icy Streets; Storm Downs Mail Plane

Pittsburgh today had dug itself out of the worst blizzard of the winter, a blizzard which cost two lives and imperiled a Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail plane.

With only slight relief promised from the cold wave, and further snow flurries due, the district faces several more days of ice-covered highways.

One victim of the cold was Martin Madden, 50, carpenter, of Erma avenue, North Braddock. In a field off Wolf avenue, North Braddock, he was found frozen to death by Walter Klinser, of North Braddock, today.

In an alley in the rear of Jones avenue, Lawrenceville, Mrs. Bertha Short, 54, Negro, of 10 Mahon street, was found unconscious. She died en route to the hospital.

The five-inch blanket of snow that fell in the city and county for 20 hours not only caused discomfiture on ground but made flying for Harry Sievers, air mail pilot, a hazardous business.

Unable to find the Cleveland airport, Sievers, who had taken off from Bettis Field, brought his ship to earth in a whipping wind

20 FLEE FIRE IN N. BRADDOCK

Twenty persons, one an aged woman invalid weighing 245 pounds, were driven from their homes, and a policeman suffered burns in a fire which destroyed a dwelling and a garage, and damaged a three-story apartment building in Oak street, North Braddock, early today.

The flames were fought by fire companies from North Barddock, Swissvale, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Forest Hills and Rankin.

Mrs. Linka Klein, 66, an invalid, of 1535 Oak street, was carried to the street by her husband, Albert Klein, 74, and Nicholas Santo, a son-in-law. Mrs. Charlotte Roth, 25, of Cleveland, and her son, Bernard, 3, together with Santo's wife were assisted to a place of safety. Mrs. Roth is a daughter of the Kleins.

TAKEN TO RELATIVES

Mrs. Klein, suffering from shock and exposure, was taken to the home of relatives in Turtle Creek.

Flames spread to the apartment building in 1533 Oak street where Steven Kovach and wife, occupants of the first floor; Michael Lellicoth, his wife and five children, on the second floor, and Michael Jacobs, his wife, and

U. S. Granted Test of Rum Buyer Guilt By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—The government today was granted a review by the Supreme Court to test whether the purchaser of liquor, who gives an order for its delivery knowing that the order involves illegal transportation, is guilty of conspiracy with the bootlegger to violate the federal prohibition law.

The case was set for April 14.

The government said the case did not involve whether the purchaser is equally guilty with the bootlegger but raises the question whether the man who placed the order had conspired with the seller.

The importance of the controversy was emphasized by the government in requesting the review. It raised the question in the case of Alfred E. Norris, a New York banker, who placed orders with Joel D. Kerper, of Philadelphia.

AIR LINER RUINS SEEN ON PEAK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 3.—(INS.)—Mounted men today spied on a San Bernardino Mountain peak the wreck of the Western Air Express passenger liner, missing since a week ago Sunday, and immediately began a struggle to reach the plane and discover whether its three occupants still lived.

Hope that Pilot James E. Doles, his aide, Albert W. Bieber, and the steward, John W. Slaton, had survived the crash and partial burning of the plane dwindled.

Doles took off from Kingman, Ariz., ferrying an empty ship here about noon Sunday, February 23, and vanished in a blizzard that night.

The wrecked plane, one wing burned and the fuselage twisted, was seen by J. P. Barber, a rancher, living two miles from Lake Arrowhead.

Judge Martin Rests, Hope for Recovery

Physicians attending Judge Richard W. Martin, ill at his home, 5807 Stanton avenue, said this morning that the patient passed a comparatively comfortable night. He is suffering from pneumonia.

Late Saturday night Judge Martin suffered a relapse, and yesterday morning physicians administered oxygen. Although the patient's condition is still serious there is hope for his recovery, physicians say.

TRAP PAIR IN THEATER ATTIC

Light Reflected From Pistols Held by Gunmen Is Only Target to Guide Officers

DETROIT, March 3.—(AP.)—Two policemen, with only a reflected beam of light from a robber's pistol as a target, shot and killed two men attempting to rob the safe of the Harper Theater in Harper avenue, at 4 a. m. today.

The gun battle in which powder burns were the only injuries received by either policemen occurred in the dark attic of the theater above the main floor of the auditorium.

The robbers were identified as Phillip J. Twomey, 30, and Leo Garbada, both of Detroit.

LIGHT FLASH ONLY TARGET

Patrolman Donald Bondy and Sergt. Isaac Farley, who were cruising in the neighborhood, followed the robbers into the attic after Bondy had discovered the men in the building. Assistance had been summoned after the policeman was fired upon.

Unable to see the robbers, Farley and Bondy flashed their pocket lights into the corners of the attic.

A reflected beam of light from the pistol of one of the thugs gave the policemen a momentary target and they opened fire. Their fire was returned, but the firing ceased before the police guns were emptied.

The robbers, who had crawled on the iron pipes paralleling the roof near a ventilator, fell to the thin plastering of the ceiling. Garbada's body fell part way through.

RADIO ALARM

Patrolman Bondy, walking a beat in Harper avenue, saw a light on the second floor of the theater. He called into the office, thinking it was the night watchman.

He became suspicious upon hearing a strange voice assure him "everything is all right," and ran to a landing near the office.

Five shots were fired at him from a dark corner at such close range that Bondy's face was powder burned, but he was otherwise uninjured and retreated to the street, where he asked a passerby to summon assistance.

TOLEDO, O., March 3.—(AP.)—William J. Malone, 40, watchman, fought to his death here late last night to defend the offices of the Standard Oil Company from a gang of safe-robbers armed with a machine gun.

Malone killed one robber, wounded another, and the rest of the gang fled.

The dead robber was identified today as George Clark, 36, of Baltimore. They said he was arrested in Washington October 13, with Wilbur Hand, of Toledo, as a suspicious person.

Hand, who was wanted at Bucyrus, O., where he forfeited bond and escaped after being convicted of a $30,000 bank robbery year there, escaped.

Police said the safe robbers had shot Malone apparently without warning. The watchman returned the fire and shot Clark between the eyes. Another bullet wounded one of Clark's accomplices. Then the gang fled.

The machine gun, stationed to command the entrance to the oil company's office, was discovered in a school across the street several hours later. It had not been used.

FILING MOORE'S WILL DELAYED

The will of the late Alexander P. Moore, former Pittsburgh publisher and ambassador-designate to Poland, who died recently in Los Angeles, will be filed for probate here this week. Due to the fact that several witnesses to the will live outside the state a special commission will have to be sent to interview them, which is causing delay in filing the instrument.

An interesting feature to the will is the bequest of $100,000 to Queen Victoria Eugenia, of Spain. A number of other bequests were made to relatives, and an annuity fund is created for Alexander P. Livermore, son of a New York broker.

On his last trip to Pittsburgh Mr. Moore was said to have given gifts of bonds to members of his family and close friends.

Haiti Cheers White When He Kisses Negress' Hand

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 3.—(AP.)—William Allen White, newspaper publisher of Emporia, Kan., and member of President Hoover's investigation commission here, excited the entire populace of this capital last night.

While a parade of Haitian women passed before White, who was standing at the gate of the Hotel Excelsior, one of the women, an aged Negress dressed in black, stepped in front of him and said: "Please, Commissioner, deliver us."

As she spoke she bowed. White clasped her hand, bowed himself and then kissed her hand. For a moment everyone was quiet. Then there was a roar of wild cheers.

Charges that Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, American high commissioner in Haiti, was a virtual dictator were made before the Hoover commission today by Antoine Rigal, president of a group of seven organizations representing several thousand persons.

Rigal said President Borno was holding office illegally and was "only a puppet in the hands of Russell."

day. He had nothing to say. E. S. Higgins, vice president, left Saturday night to spend the week-end with his family in Philadelphia.

There were plenty of the usual rumors floating about. These ranged from predictions that a peace offer would be made today by the men to the company to "inside information" that the taxicab strike is just starting and will spread to several other industries.

Careful investigation of every rumor found no person in position to know the facts willing to substantiate any rumors.

CRUSADERS TO ACT

That the men are prepared for a long battle for 40 per cent and recognition of the union and that the company is just as determined not to recognize the union is the only obvious conclusion that can drawn from reliable sources of information.

The "Crusaders," an organization started recently to arouse sentiment among younger citizens against the Eighteenth Amendment, has announced that it will take a hand and try to end the taxicab strike "as a matter of civic betterment." The announcement was made by Edgar D. Mason, a member of the organization, who said that the Crusaders' committee of 20 will meet in executive session tomorrow at noon in the William Penn Hotel.

"Our only interest in the taxicab situation," Mason said, "is to assist in solving a civic problem."

Telephone Fails, Telegram Calls Emergency Cab

The telephone went bad today at the taxicab drivers' union headquarters, in the McGeagh Building. However, those who want emergency cab service seem to know how to get it.

At 8:46 a. m. a telegram was received from E. R. Long, of 1318 Reddour street, asking for a cab.

of that day more than a score of years ago. A lone policeman paced back and forth in front of the mansion on Wyoming avenue, a chilly breeze from the Potomac swept over the lawn. Few passed the house and there were few callers.

DOCTORS FIRST CALLERS

Except for the arrival of the day nurse the departure of his night attendant and the arrival of servants, the doctors were the first callers today. After their visit they issued the usual formal bulletin. It read:

"The former chief justice had a good night. He continues to take some nourishment. A few days ago his condition was very critical, but he has slightly improved and unless some further sudden change occurs, due to the arterio sclerosis, his span of life for the present is indeterminate."

counsel table from Thompson, her uncle, as arguments were made. No sign of recognition passed between them. With the princess was her blind son, Gerald T. Fitzgerald.

"I don't believe there is any coal deal pending," declared Congressman Stephen G. Porter, representing the princess. "If there is, the deal could be consummated as well in jail as in the streets of Uniontown."

"Do you know any reason why a further postponement would benefit any such deal?" asked Porter of Judge Dawson.

"I do," replied the court.

GRILLING REFUSED

Porter demanded that Thompson's bank books be produced in court, showing his accounts with the Riggs National Bank, Washington; First National Bank, New York; Union Trust Company and Mellon National Bank, Pittsburgh; the Union Trust Company, of Cleveland, and the Second National Bank of Uniontown. The court refused.

A request that Thompson be put on the witness stand for questioning also was denied.

Contempt proceedings against Thompson resulted from his failure to meet obligations to the Emma Messmore estate and the estate of John Niccolls, father of the princess.

Charges of embezzlement brought by the princess' son, Gerold, against Thompson resulted in his arrest on a train at Altoona last fall, after he had been sought for months. He is charged with embezzling $131,000 of the Niccolls estate, left to children of the princess. Thompson gave bail for court trial, which has been set for March 17.

U. S. AND JAPAN NEAR ACCORD ON ARMS

Reed and Matsudaira Make Progress on Tokio Demand As Britain Waits Outcome

LONDON, March 3.—(AP.)—A tentative agreement between the United States and Japan on the Japanese demand for a 70 per cent ration was said to be near today.

Excellent progress was reported to have been made in conversations between Senator David A. Reed, American delegate, and Ambassador Matsudaira of the Japanese delegation.

These two old friends have been discussing the Japanese-American problems informally in private, and their talks will continue this week.

BRITISH WATCH RESULT

It was understood the conversations have been along lines of exploration of the whole field of possibilities, especially the possible increase of Japan's ratio in submarines as compared with capital ships under the Washington treaty. They also are trying to devise some scheme whereby the date of laying down of cruisers by one country would control the right of the other country to construct additional cruisers.

The United States has now become prime mover in the negotiations with Japan, while Great Britain is awaiting the outcome. The previous British negotiations with the Japanese, extending two or three weeks, are said to have resulted in a complete deadlock. The British are being kept informed of the progress of the American-Japanese conversations.

Meanwhile the experts' committee which has been considering the classification of special ships, has reached an agreement and its report has gone to the printers.

Return of France Awaited: U. S. to Stay, Says Adams

LONDON, March 3.—(INS.)—With the prospects for the early return of a French delegation to the five-power naval conference better than they have been at any time during the last two weeks, delegates of the other four powers returned from their week-end vacations today ready to map out programs which will help accelerate the negotiations.

An executive session of the American delegation was scheduled for today at which many important matters were to be discussed. Not the least of these was a petition of 1,000 prominent Americans urging that the American delegates strive for actual reduction of armaments.

AMERICANS TO STAY

Meanwhile, Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams struck a note calculated to discourage pessimistic statements regarding the ultimate success of the conference. In a radio address broadcast across the ocean, he stated the American delegates would remain in London "until their task was finished."

He outlined the progress already made at the conference as follows:

1. A virtual decision on the method of limitation.

2. An agreement to have a treaty restricting submarine attacks on merchant ships.

3. Near-conciliation of the Anglo-American naval programs.

4. Good prospects of settling the American-Japanese disagreement over the heavy cruiser ratio.

VICTORY SEEN FOR TARDIEU

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT, International News Service.

PARIS, March 3.—With Premier Andre Tardieu's second cabinet generally regarded today as reasonably certain of winning a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday, it was expected a new French delegation would return to the London naval conference Thursday.

The new delegation will follow a naval policy at the conference almost identical to that followed by the previous French delegation. It is taken as a foregone conclusion that the delegation will stick by its guns for a minimum of 725,000 tons of naval strength by 1936 unless compensation is made France in the form of a security pact.

For this reason, although it is believed Tardieu will remain nominal head of the conference delegation, it is more than probable that Aristide Briand, foreign minister in the new government, will be the actual head.

Dague Cousin Faces Second Murder Trial

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 3.—Harry Durbin, 23, of Calis, W. Va., went on trial today before Judge James Shipman, of the Marshall County Circuit Court, charged with the murder of John Dowler, 35, of Cameron.

It is the second time that Durbin has faced trial, the jury failing to agree upon a verdict at the first trial. Durbin is alleged to have shot Dowler, after he had accused him of being friendly with his wife. Durbin is a full cousin of W. Glenn Dague, who is held in the Lawrence County jail, charged jointly with Irene Schroeder, with the murder of Brady Paul, Pennsylvania highway patrolman.

three children, on the third floor, were compelled to flee.

Firemen were unable to save the Klein-Santo home, while the interior and upper walls of the apartment building, which was owned by Joseph Lellicoth, were damaged.

The garage of Max Seltman, a grocer, was destroyed. Three automobiles in the place were saved when John Ridella, of North Braddock, succeeded in getting them out before flames swept the building.

PATROLMAN HURT

The fire was discovered almost simultaneously by Councilman Nathan Beck, of East Pittsburgh, and Police Lieut. James Kelly and Patrolman Andrew Daniels, of North Braddock. Daniels was burned on the neck when hot slate from the Klein home fell upon him.

Mr. and Mrs. Santo, who occupied the first floor, entertained friends last night in honor of Mrs. Roth, and had retired only a short time before being awakened by the odor of smoke.

Fire Chief John Nebel, of North Braddock, and Charles Stack, of East Pittsburgh, estimated the damage at $15,000.

All vehicular traffic in Ardmore boulevard near East Pittsburgh, was at a standstill, while firemen fought the flames. Fire hose blocked the highway. Five through motor coaches were included among the many automobiles halted by Police Lieut. David Bennett and Patrolman Edward Crowley of East Pittsburgh.

U.S. JOBLESS AID URGED IN SENATE

La Follette Calls 'Red' Cry Injustce to Unemployed; Wagner Assails Hoover

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Hoover administration was called upon today in the Senate to take immediate steps to relieve widespread unemployment throughout the country.

In a three-hour debate, airing the numerous unemployment riots, a handful of senators accused the administration of "drawing a red herring across the track of economic depression" by seeking to foment a new "Red scare." Among charges made were that private detective agencies had provoked Communist disorders, that the Hoover administration had provoked increased unemployment and that the government was doing nothing to get the jobless back at work.

ASSAILS TARIFF EXCUSE

"What answer does the administration offer for unemployment?" Wagner asked. "'Delay in the tariff hits business.' This story emanated from the White House and was featured in almost every newspaper in the country on February 19. I would spend little time on such artificial attempts at myth making if it were harmless. But they are not harmless, because they divert attention from the real, substantial and permanent causes of unemployment."

The President, Wagner said, issued a statement on January 6 stating that the unemployment situation had passed the corner and was improving. This was after the government figures were in direct odds to those of the American Federation of Labor.

"Yet, miracle of ciracles, the report of the Labor Department for January showed a decline in employment over December of almost 2 per cent and a decline in amount of wages paid out to employes of 4½ per cent."

"ACT LIKE OSTRICHES"

La Follette rose to say that "the time has come to stop our 'hush, hush' policy and our acting like ostriches about prosperity in the United States. Unemployment is serious and the immediate aspects should be gone into at once.

"An attempt has been made in the last few days to divert public attention from the unemployed by starting a red scare. This is reminiscent of Palmer and Daugherty. Statements are given out that there is to be a red uprising March 6 and I read in the papers that the Department of Justice in Chicago had raided Communist meetings and come into possession of Communist literature calling for this demonstration. Happily the Department of Justice here claims no knowledge of this.

"Matthew Woll, who is acting president of the Civic Federation and a vice president of the American Federation of Labor, is circularizing Congress today with what purports to be this call. This is a grave injustice to the millions of American men and women who are out of employment through no fault of their own to drag the red herring of Communists across the trail.

FEW REDS, HE SAYS

"Everyone knows that the reds and the communists are negligible. It is quite obvious that the few who remain would attach themselves to the coattails of the unemployed. But I protest this attempt of painting as red honest workingmen. What other way can they draw attention to their plight than by demonstrations?"

Administration senators struck back when the Hoover policies were attacked.

Senator Robinson (Rep.), Indiana, insisted the responsibility so far as the government was concerned rested upon Congress.

2 Youths Held for Quiz at Bellefonte

State highway police are detaining two youths at Bellefonte until Pittsburgh police ascertain if they are wanted here.

Information received over the state police telegraph wires gave their names as Earl Young, 24, of Kane, and Edward Christenson, 26, of Dubois. Police say one youth was armed and the pair had considerable money.

Perfect Hand, No Tricks, 'Grand Slam,' Divorce

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—The woman who held 13 diamonds and did not take a trick wants a divorce.

The divorce bill, filed in behalf of Mrs. Lila Grey Colyer, tells of a bridge game in April, 1928, in which Mrs. Colyer and her husband, Edward C. Colyer, who takes his bridge seriously, were partners.

The Colyers were slightly behind, on a hand for game and rubber. Mrs. Colyer drew 13 diamonds.

As they say over the radio, west (the dealer) bid a heart, Colyer (north) passed, (east) bid a spade and Mrs. Colyer (south) made it a no trump. She finally got the bid at six no trump. Since her opponents led first and she could never get in the lead, Mrs. Colyer lost every trick.

When the last card had been played and Colyer saw that his wife had held all the diamonds, (here's where she charges cruelty), he picked up the nearest thing—a cut glass grapefruit bowl—reached across the table and hit her.

on a baseball diamond near Cleveland's lake front. A truck rushed the mail to the postoffice. None was injured and the plane took off again for its hangar.

Weatherman Brotzman predicted gradual relief from the cold, but he added that the thermometer would hardly rise above 20 degrees today. The ice which covers the highways and pavements will not melt for several days, the weatherman warned.

DRIFTS CLEARED AWAY

Railroad and street railway officials late Saturday ordered all available maintenance men out to clear their rights-of-way. Within a few hours drifts which had threatened traffic communications were removed and the highways kept clear the remainder of the night and yesterday. Little interruption to street car service in the city was reported, and trains were running on schedule.

The Bell Telephone Company reported that many of its wires were broken by the weight of snow and sleet, but that there was no general crippling of service.

Greatest discomfort was reported by automobile drivers coming into Pittsburgh from outlying districts, especially from the mountains. Many highways were buried under snowdrifts, and for hours highway officials worked in digging them out. More than 400 men with 90 trucks were detailed to keep the roads clear.

Snow Drifts Block W. Virginia Roads

WHEELING, W. Va., March 3.—Northern West Virginia was visited by one of the worst snowstorms of the season yesterday and last night, and Ridge roads are drifted as high as fences, and completely blocked in places. William Henry, of Roneys Point, W. Va., marooned in a snowdrift, was rescued by state troopers under Sergt. A. M. Long. His feet and hands were badly frozen.

Munich Police Ban King Ludwig Movie

MUNICH, Bavaria, March 3.—(AP.)—The police today prohibited showing of the newly-completed film entitled "Ludwig II, King of Bavaria," on the ground that public safety would be endangered.

Royal relatives of the late king sought an injunction against the production on the ground that not only the king but some of his living relatives were depicted.

Youth With Toy Pistol Killed As Robber

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—A 21-year-old youth who sought with a glass pistol to act out the wild criminal adventures he read in books met death from a real pistol in the hands of a champion marksman of the police force.

John Rykacvensky had robbed Isidore Holtz, a taxicab driver, with his glass pistol and was escaping in Holtz's cab when Patrolman John Dempsey saw the cab careen over a sidewalk and crash into a garage on South First Street, Brooklyn.

Rykacvensky leaped from the cab, his glass pistol still in his hand. Dempsey fired at him once. The bullet struck the fugitive in the head and he died instantly.

His brother Joseph said John worked regularly at a job and his chief recreation was in books.

COLD GRIPPING WEST BREAKS

DENVER, Col., March 3.—(AP.)—Clearing skies and a slowly climbing mercury gave promise of relief today for the Rocky Mountain region after a cold spell of the last few days that reached a climax with the coldest weather reported since January.

Butte Flat, Mont., was the coldest spot in the region yesterday with a mercury reading of 23 below zero. In Butte at the same time it was 8 below and Helena's minimum temperature of 12 below came within two degrees of equaling the lowest mark ever recorded for March 2. The 14 below record was established in 1886.

Pittsburgh Teacher Dies in California

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lena Leonard Fisher, professor of religion at the University of Southern California and author of several books on religious subjects, died here yesterday. Mrs. Fisher came here with her husband, Dr. John F. Fisher 10 years ago from Pittsburgh. Dr. Fisher is dean of the University of Southern California School of Religion. Mrs. Fisher was a native of Pittsburgh. She is survived by her husband and a daughter, Mrs. Alan Demp Laing, Los Angeles.

106-Day Dance Marathon Faces Labor Law Curb

DETROIT, March 3.—(AP.)—A marathon dance which has been going along for more than 106 days at Eastwood Park, East Detroit, appeared about to end today with the state commissioner of labor and industry moving to stop it after local and Macomb County authorities failed to interfere.

The marathon has gone on uninterrupted since last November 18. Five couples are still competing.

Several pastors of the district attacked the marathon dance in their Sunday sermons. The Rev. Roland Travers, of the Mount Clemens Baptist Church, who has been waging a campaign against the dance, referred to it Sunday as "in many ways the saddest, most heart-breaking affair I have ever attended."

Eugene L. Brock, state commissioner of labor and industry, announced he would seek warrants for arrest of the persons conducting the dance. Michigan law forbids employment of women for more than 54 hours a week, or 10 hours in any one day. If warrants are not issued he plans to subpena the dancers as witnesses at an investigation and stop the marathon that way.

When the marathon started the dancers were allowed 20 minutes of each hour for rest. This has been shortened to 10 minutes and now is being shortened one minute each day.

The winning couple in the contest is to receive a percentage of the gate receipts and thus far first prize amounts to more than $20,000, according to announcements from the management of Eastwood Park.

HOPE FOR 137 ON ICE GONE

MOSCOW, March 3.—(INS.)—Hope was virtually abandoned today for 137 fishermen and 135 horses carried out into the Caspian Sea on a huge ice floe according to messages from Astrakhan.

Word of the catastrophe brought airplanes and tugs to the scene in search of the floe and its human cargo but according to latest reports no trace of the missing men and horses had been found.

It is feared all were hurled into the sea and drowned by the breaking up of the ice cake.

VILNA, Poland, March 3.—(INS.)—Efforts to recover the bodies of 36 persons who lost their lives when two horse-drawn wagons carrying them across Lake Sviencian, near here, broke through the ice, were being made today. The victims were returning from an all-night wedding party when the tragedy ocurred.

Assessors Called In to Take Oaths

County commissioners today notified registry assessors in boroughs and townships to call at the commissioners' office tomorrow or March 12 to be sworn in. The assessors will sit at polling places March 18 and 19 to enroll electors.

PRAISES SOVIET ON RELIGION

DALLAS, Tex., March 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Dieffenbach of Boston, editor of the Christian Register and opponent of fundamentalism, said here in an address that "the same thing is happening in Russia as happened in this country in its founding days."

He said the Soviet seeks not to expurgate religion but rather to stamp out the last vestige of the monarchial religion of czarism. Russia seeks, he said, a religion which will not be an opiate of the people but an invigorating inspiration to them, such as was assured this country by early American patriots.

Only a religion based on the consent of the people who intelligently believe in it, Dr. Dieffenbach declared, is found efficacious.

Counterfeit U. S. Bills Flood Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP.)—The press published warning today that great quantities of counterfeit American bills have been encountered in Mexico. The denominations were of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100.

The workmanship was said to be so well done that it was difficult for any but an expert to recognize the counterfeits.

American Woman Gives Mansion To Mussolini

ROME, March 3.—(INS.)—Mrs. Harriet Wurtz, widow of a former United States diplomat, today offered to Premier Benito Mussolini her magnificent villa on Janiculum Hill.

The gift carries with it $50,000 for upkeep. Premier Mussolini accepted the estate, announcing it would be turned over to public use after Mrs. Wurtz's lifetime.

JAPANESE SHIP SINKS, 30 LOST

TOKIO, March 3.—(AP.)—A telephone message from Aomori to Rengo News Agency today said that the steamer Fukuju Maru struck the rocks off the coast of Aomori prefecture during a blinding snowstorm and sank this morning. Steamers answering her distress call reported they were unable to find a trace of the crew which numbered more than 30.

HEARST PARTY VISITS SICILY

ROME, March 3.—(Universal.)—Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, who, with a large party recently toured Egypt, arrived at Palermo, Sicily, aboard the steamer Espera.

Mrs. Hearst, with Gladys Kemp and Adelaide Monroe, will tour Sicily until March 6, when they plan to leave for Naples. They are expected in Rome on March 10, where they will stay at the Hotel Ambassador.

Other members of the party, including Mrs. Alve Belmont, Consuelo Vanderbilt Balsan, Col. Balsan and William Vanderbilt, reached Naples this morning. They continued on the same boat to Genoa, whence they will journey to Paris.

Catholic Radio Hour Opened by Cardinal

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The National Catholic hour, a religious program to be broadcast every Sunday at 6 p. m., over the National Broadcasting Company's network, was begun last night under the auspices of the National Council of Catholic Men. Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York inaugurated the hour.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that produced the snowfall over this section Saturday night and Sunday is now off the New England coast. There is still considerable cloudiness over the lake region and the Atlantic Coast states and snow flurries are in progress in many places. High barometric pressure covers the entire West, the center being in the form of a narrow ridge extending from Wyoming southeastward to Texas. Highest barometer reported, 30.66 inches at Lander.

There was a decided drop in temperature since yesterday over the states east of the Mississippi, even to the southern extremity of the Florida peninsula, but there is no zero weather except in Canada and several of the more elevated stations in the Rocky Mountains. The temperatures are rising over the Plains states.

Elinor Smith's Altitude Try Delayed

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., March 3.—(AP.)—Miss Elinor Smith yesterday postponed her proposed attempt to break the women's altitude record. Her decision was because of the difficulty of getting a barograph which would register more than 20,000 feet.

She said she expected to get such a barograph today, and plans to make the altitude attempt Tuesday.

The present record of 24,600 feet was achieved by the late Mrs. Marvel Crosson, who was killed in a crash last year.

COAST CLEARS QUAKE DEBRIS

BRAWLEY, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—Although its populace still was slightly nervous, Brawley went back on a business-as-usual basis today after cleaning up the debris left by a six-day siege of earthquakes.

Bricks that fell from the walls of buildings and glass which crashed to the sidewalks during the heaviest shocks were hauled out of town quickly. Supplies of glass also were rushed here from Los Angeles to repair the damage to store fronts.

The quakes began last Tuesday and were felt throughout Imperial Valley, from Calexico, on the Mexican border, to Calanpatria, near the Salton Sea. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slight quivers were reported, some of them felt only in the northern end of the valley, the center of which is here.

City Engineer J. C. Park said the structural damage here would approximate $100,000.

D. H. LAWRENCE, NOVELIST, DIES

NICE, France, March 3.—(AP.)—D. H. Lawrence, noted British novelist, died here today after a lengthy illness.

David Herbert Lawrence was regarded as one of the most powerful of the novelists who came into prominence shortly before the World War.

Although police prosecution of his novel "The Rainbow," in 1915 seemed for a time to have checked his fertility, he subsequently became known as a painter and published other novels and poems, plays and essays.

Some of these later works also were prosecuted. In the summer of 1929 some of his paintings and books were seized in a raid at a public exhibition in England.

Other books of Lawrence's with which the police have interfered are "Women in Love" and "Lady Chatterley's Lover." His best known novel is "Sons and Lovers."

Lawrence married Frieda von Richthofen, sister of the German air ace, in 1914.

Coolidge Ends Vacation To Dedicate Dam

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—(INS.)—The California vacation of former President Coolidge and his wife was to end today with their departure for Globe, Ariz., where tomorrow Mr. Coolidge will dedicate the dam which is to bear his name. The dam site is 35 miles from Globe.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—The 50 worshipers in the tiny Presbyterian church at Cambria, a hamlet near here, were joined yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

The former President and first lady, who have been spending several days at the San Simeon ranch of William Randolph Hearst, 15 miles from Cambria, arrived unannounced in the town of 250 population, and proceeded to the church. They took seats and were not recognized immediately.

The Rev. T. A. Mitchell, pastor, announced the guests. He and his flock shook hands with the tourists after the services, and as the members of the congregation departed they commented to each other on the friendliness of the couple.

WICKERSHAM'S APPEARANCE IN SENATE SET

Committee to Get Views on Proposed Dry Inquiry; Mitchell to Be Heard

International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 3—Attorney General William D. Mitchell and George W. Wickersham, chairman of the President's law enforcement commission, will appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Monday, March 17, in connection with the proposal for a Senate inquiry into prohibition enforcement, it was announced today. The date was fixed at Wickersham's request although some members of the committee wished to hear him sooner.

RESOLUTIONS PENDING

Two resolutions by Senators Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, and Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana proposing sweeping inquiries, have have been pending before the committee for several weeks. Action on them was held up pending comment from Mitchell and Wickersham.

The Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission will hold its hearing on the proposal of Representative Dyer (Rep.) of Missouri, to recommend legalizing of 2.75 per cent beer on March 12, Dyer announced today.

With other congressional liberals and anti-prohibition organizations preparing to close their main case before the House Judiciary Committee tomorrow for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Dyer is preparing to advocate beer and light wines before the Wickersham commission as an immediate step toward solution of the question.

URGES BEER

"The sale of a decent legalized beverage," he said, "would remove this real menace to American homes which are converted into distilleries for the making of highly intoxicating liquor in the presence of women and children."

Breckendridge Long of St. Louis, assistant secretary of state in the Wilson administration, is slated to be the first witness for the anti-prohibitionists when they renew their demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment before the House Judiciary Committee tomorrow.

CANADA TO CURB LIQUOR FLOW

OTTAWA, Ont., March 3.—(INS.)—New legislation designed to stop the flow of Canadian liquor into the United States by cutting off the supply at the source will be introduced in parliament tomorrow by Premier Mackenzie King, it was learned today.

The proposed legislation, which has the full backing of the administration, would comprise the most sweeping measures yet taken to prevent contraband liquor from flowing across the border.

The Canadian government proposes not only to cut off the supply at the source, namely the distilleries, but also contemplates drastic measures to prevent liquor shipments from clearing from Canadian ports.

All motor boats on the Great Lakes, sea-going vessels, motor vehicles and airplanes will be rigorously inspected before clearing for American ports.

According to sponsors of the bill six big distilleries in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec are the chief sources of the $30,000,000 worth of whisky which is said to go over the border annually into the United States.

Burglar Shot Dead, Betrayer Is Held

DENVER, March 3.—(AP.)—Betrayed by a friend, William De Marko, 26, was shot and killed by two Denver patrolmen yesterday as he knelt in front of a safe with a kit of tools in the office of the Puritan Products Company.

The man who informed police of De Marko's intent to rob the safe, H. M. Erickson, 25, was in jail here booked for investigation. Police said Erickson told them that he had planned to aid De Marko in robbing the safe, but changed his mind.

3,000 at Funeral Of Army Officer

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—About 3,000 persons here attended the funeral held at Mifflinville for Lieut. Karl Zimmerman, 30, who died of heart trouble while on naval duty in the Philippines. Lieut. Zimmerman was a graduate of the United States Naval Academy.

Heroic Dog Gives Life Rescuing Family in Fire

FORD CITY, Pa., March 3.—When fire swept the home of Mitro Buriak of Rossford, a German police dog raced through the rooms barking and jumped on the bed of Mr. and Mrs. Buriak until he awakened them. The dog then ran to the second floor where he awakened all of the children.

When the family was out of doors, the dog realized that one of the children was still in the burning home. He ran back in and climbed the blazing stairs as firemen carried the child down a ladder. In the fire and smoke-filled rooms the dog groped for the child until the room fell in and buried the faithful animal.

Passport Forgotten, Aid Rushed Miss Morrow

LONDON, March 3.—(AP.)—All the resources of international telephones, telegraphs and fast mail were brought into play over the week-end to save Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Miss Elizabeth Morrow from delay at the hands of the French immigration service.

Miss Morrow did what everybody does abroad, forgot her passport. Morrow's office was notified by telephone before she left Victoria station, but the passport arrived after the train pulled out.

The London embassy, by fast action, then communicated with the Paris American embassy over telephone and telegraph lines and the French foreign office telegraphed the French port authorities to admit the Morrows without question. Meanwhile the passport was sent to Miss Elizabeth by fast mail.

HOOVER LAUDED, ASSAILED ON FIRST YEAR

Wisconsin Senator Attacks On Tariff, Parley, Jobless; Colleague Praises Efforts

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The end of President Hoover's first year in the White House today found two of his three important legislative pledges fulfilled, and the third pending in Congress, but with his supporters and critics clashing violently over his record.

"President Hoover has made good," declared Senator Arthur Capper (Rep.) of Kansas, but Senator Robert M. LaFollette, (Rep.) of Wisconsin, pointed to the President's silence on tariff rates, the deadlock at the London parley, increased unemployment, his silence on the Farm Board's efforts to stabilize wheat, and his alleged "friendship" for the power trust as proving his first year's record futile.

The President, however, has procured from Congress the enactment of his program of farm relief by which the Federal Farm Board and a $500,000,000 relief fund were established. He likewise caused the creation of a Law Enforcement Commission. His pledge for "limited changes in the tariff" still is pending in Congress with the public in the dark as to whether Mr. Hoover favors the high rates of the House bill or lower rates.

YEAR OF FACT FINDING

Announcing that he spoke as "an observer," Capper said:

"It seems to me this first year of President Hoover's has been a year of fact finding, a year of work on data and blue prints, a year of foundation laying. These are the mark of the engineering mind."

Capper said the President had admirably handled the six major problems facing him at the outset of his administration. The problems were listed as farm relief, law enforcement including prohibition, limited tariff revision, inland waterways, preparation for an economic crisis and promotion of world peace. He asserted the tariff bill, when finally enacted, would be "in line with President Hoover's program," adding that the President was pleased with the Democratic-Insurgent's action in slashing high industrial rates.

In the recent stock market crisis, Capper said the President performed a "masterly piece of work." He added the London naval conference would have "good results, though perhaps not to the extent that many hoped."

ASSAILED ON FARM AID

LaFollette saw an entirely different picture. He was uncertain how the President stood on tariff rates and declared "the time is not far distant when the executive must show his hand." La Follette also was dissatisfied with the President's attitude toward farm relief, declaring one of Mr. Hoover's "close friends"—Julius M. Barnes—had led the fight against the Farm Board's efforts to stabilize wheat.

"None knows whether the President approves the effort of Mr. Barnes to hamstring the modest program for handling of wheat inaugurated by the board," said LaFollette.

"All the farmers know is that after pledges made during the campaign that they would be given relief, the prices of their staple products are lower than at any time since President Hoover took office."

LaFollette saw only a gloomy future for the London parley.

CITES JOBLESS RIOTS

The Wisconsinite also chided the President for numerous public appointments to the courts and Federal commissions. Touching on the appointment of Claudius H. Huston as Republican National chairman and Huston's connection with the Muscle Shoals lobby."

Citing widespread unemployment and "jobless riots" in many cities, LaFollette closed by declaring that issues confronting Hoover's administration call for "courage and leadership."

Firebug Spreads Ether in Building

CHICAGO, March 3.—(INS.)—Authorities today sought a pyromaniac who is believed to have scattered ether through a 36-apartment building here yesterday and then twice applied a torch, driving 92 occupants to the street.

Several persons were overcome and firemen had to rescue nine from the burning building. An examination showed that ether was used to spread the fire, police said.

Aviatrix Sees Sights After Hop to Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Florence Lowe Barnes, American aviatrix, was busy sightseeing here yesterday after completing the first flight made by a woman pilot from Los Angeles, Cal., to Mexico City. She made the flight by easy stages and was accompanied by a mechanic.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 3.—Risking her life to prevent injury to six boys playing marbles in the street, Mrs. Ethel King suffered injuries when she swerved her sedan into a parked truck. The car was badly damaged.

Former Postmaster Fined Over Liquor

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 3.—C. K. Spragg, former clerk of courts and postmaster in Waynesburg during the Wilson administration, was fined $200 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the liquor laws. Spragg, together with John Westfall, also a former county clerk, were arrested by state police for transporting a small amount of liquor on the Waynesburg-Jefferson road. Westfall will be tried this week. Both are political leaders.

CHICAGO CRIME RAIDS RENEWED

CHICAGO, March 3.—(INS.)—With police cells throughout the city filled with 814 prisoners taken in raids on gang haunts during the week-end, authorities today continued their offensive against racketeers, bombers and hoodlums.

Squads combed gang dives, night clubs and soft drink parlors in the wholesale roundup. Crime victims yesterday viewed 265 of those seized in the raids when they were paraded at a detective bureau showup.

Eight of those arrested carried guns and as a consequence face penitentiary terms if convicted.

Among those arrested were "Mike De Pike" Heitler, reputed vice overlord; James Belcastro, once suspected as a member of the "bomb trust," and Louis Clemente, who was questioned in connection with the election murder of Octavius Granady.

FLIERS' BODIES HELD IN NORTH

MOTORSHIP NANUK, NORTH CAPE, Siberia, March 3.—(AP.)—Arctic storms across Southeastern Siberia yesterday prevented airplanes from taking off for Alaska with the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American aviators killed November 9, when their plane crashed in the fog 90 miles southeast of here. The bodies will be taken to the United States for burial. For four days the storms have held planes to the ground.

Wreckage of Eielson's plane was found January 25 and the bodies recovered later. They were brought to North Cape by Com. Mavrick Slipenov, Russian aviator who was in charge of the searching party which found the bodies.

Man and Woman Face Death by Garrote

MATANZAS, Cuba, March 3.—(AP.)—This city may soon be the scene of the execution of a man and a woman in the garrote chair within a few seconds of each other.

Mario Jordan was sentenced to death by the Criminal Court here for killing Narcisso Lopez. Senorita Angelina Trujillo was given the same penalty for having murdered her sweetheart, Enriqure Horta Oliver.

Both executions were set for dawn, March 13.

Natrona Firemen Extinguish Oil Blaze

Allegheny Steel Company officials today were investigating the cause of a fire in the oil house of the plant of Natrona late last night. Natrona volunteer firemen prevented a disastrous blaze by breaking in a door and rolling flaming barrels outside.

SCOUTS OPEN FUND DRIVE

At a meeting of the East End Boroughs Scout officials, held at Wilkinsburg, it was definitely determined to launch the financial drive for 1930-31 during the week of March 15-22.

A district chairman, his name to be announced later, was appointed to serve the communities of Wilkinsburg, Forest Hills, Edgewood, Swissvale, Rankin, Braddock, North Braddock, East Pittsburgh, Turtle Creek, Chalfant, Wilmerding, Pitcairn, Trafford, Oakmont, Verona, Universal and the Penn, Patton, Plum and Wilkins townships.

It is estimated that 8,000 boys of Scout age reside in the district, of which only 1,200 are receiving the benefits of Scout training. The goal for the campaign was fixed at $40,000.

1 DEAD, 13 HURT IN DOCK FIRE

NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—(AP.)—One person was burned to death and 13 were injured last night in a fire which destroyed a dockboard warehouse and wharf leased by the Anderson, Clayton Warehouse and Compress Company and seared a warehouse of the Alabo Company on the river front, causing damage estimated at $3,000,000.

A charred body was found in the steamship Scantic, which caught fire while docked at the burning wharf, later breakingd free and drifting to midstream. Discovery of the unidentified body was reported to police by the crew of a fire tug which boarded the ship after extinguishing the fire. The fire-swept ship was anchored several miles down the river.

The injured were caught aboard the steamship. The ship was powerless to move with her boilers cold and caught fire while members of the crew were entertaining visitors, including several women and children. Some of them saved their lives by leaping into the river.

A streak of flame ignited the dress of Mrs. Elizabeth Dattam of New Orleans, and Charles Lunn, of New Orleans, member of the Scantic crew, seized her and jumped overboard. He swam her to safety by clutching her hair.

TRADE NORMAL SOON-LAMONT

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—A prediction that American business activity would speed up to a normal rate within two months was made today by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, who said slowing down in the last three months had not been as extensive as had been feared, and that the approach of spring and warm weather would increase employment.

"My own opinion is that during the forepart of this year American industrial enterprise has had inevitably to slow down," he asserted.

"That slowing down seems to be passing over and with the usual increase of out-of-door work in northern states as weather conditions moderate. We are likely to find the country as a whole enjoying its wonted state of prosperity."

Flees By Window And Returns Same Way

Thomas Stokes, 36, of 617 Cabot way, eluded a deputy sheriff armed with a warrant from desertion court by leaping from a second-story window, his wife Hilda testified in Morals Court today. That was Friday.

Yesterday Stokes came home drunk, crawled in through a window and brought part of the window frame in with him, his wife testified. He was turned over to desertion and non-support Court by Magistrate T. D. Jones at the wife's request.

PARIS EACHES, SOLON, DIES

READING, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—Paris Evans Eaches, Republican member of the State Legislature since 1921, died here late yesterday. He was 58 years old.

Eaches, a machinist by trade, was born in Reading and lived here all his life. He was a past president of the American Federation of Railroad Workers, and to the fore in many fraternal organizations.

A familiar figure in the House he was always active in legislation of benefit to sportsmen, and was an ardent bowling, baseball and fishing enthusiast. He was chairman of the State Game Committee since 1929.

SUNDAY MOVIES FACES VOTE

WHEELING, W. Va., March 3.—A final decision is expected Tuesday night in the case of Sunday movies for Wheeling when City Council is expected to decide whether or not an ordinance will be passed which would prohibit the opening of the theaters.

The Wheeling Ministerial Association has requested that the ordinance be passed and presented a petition signed by 3,000 citizens. The theater owners on the other hand presented a petition signed by 10,000 theater attendants who demand that they remain open on Sunday. The theaters had been open since December 26 each Sunday.

Canada Puts Bars Up Against Immigrants

OTTAWA, Ont., March 3.—(INS.)—Because of serious unemployment the Canadian government has decided to restrict immigration from Britain and Europe and henceforth will offer no special inducements to immigrants. The only British immigrants permitted will be those paying full ocean fare. Central and Southern Europeans will be subject to quota.

The Austin Auxiliary of the Ben Avon Presbyterian church will hold its annual dinner and election of officers in the church rooms at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

EX-CONVICT OFF TO WEST, RICH

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—With approximately $1,250,000 in travelers' checks in his pockets, Charles T. Davis, of Brooklyn, one of the world's richest ex-convicts, was en route in a private car from Clinton Prison, Dannemora, N. Y., to a California ranch.

Davis has just completed eight years of a 10 to 20 years sentence for shooting to death a detective in Davis offices in Brooklyn. During his stay in prison, his wife, Mrs. Henrietta Davis, built up his surgical appliance business from a $25,000 concern until it brought $2,496,020 on the open market last year.

Disagreement between the husband and wife as to the disposal of the business resulted last February 5 in a court settlement. Mrs. Davis and her two children were awarded part of the assets and the husband received his share.

Mrs. Davis plans to remain for the present in Brooklyn, with her younger son Luther, 13, while the other son Austin, 21, will live with his father in California.

Davis killed the detective and wounded another and an insurance investigator when the three sought to question him about a stolen motor car. He was at first adjudged insane, but later was convicted of manslaughter.

NEW WAR SEEN IF U. S. DISARMS

"The London conference is the forerunner of the greatest war the world has witnessed," Sender Garlin, editor of the Coal Digger, declared in his address on "The London Disarmament Force," last night at the Workers' forum in Walton Hall, held under the auspices of the the Communist party.

"The capitalistic nations are seeking to establish a more economic method of warfare," he continued. "They aren't thinking of doing away with war—if they were there wouldn't be so much talk about battleships. There would be more talk of of those new instruments of death, chemicals and germs.

"The London conference is being held to give the nations of the world a breathing spell. Under the present capitalistic and imperialistic forms of government, it is foolish to talk of disarmament.

"In Chicago, for example, would Al Capone dare to venture forth without his body guard? Why, no! He'd be 'knocked off.' And that's just what would happen to United States if she disarmed herself. She'd be 'knocked off.'

"There cannot be peace so long as world conditions are as they are today."

MERRY DEL VAL NEAR PIUS X

VATICAN CITY, March 3.—(INS.)—Twenty-one cardinals and high diplomatic officials this morning participated in the funeral mass for the late Cardinal Merry Del Val, former papal secretary of state.

Among those present was the Marquis Del Val, brother of the deceased dignitary.

Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred College, blessed the body at the conclusion of the service. Burial took place this afternoon when the late cardinal's body was laid next to that of the late Pope Pius X, in accordance with his expressed wish in his will.

It was learned today that Pope Pius XI also has expressed a desire to be buried as near as possible to the tomb of Pius X.

The cardinal bequeathed his entire fortune to the Congregation for the Propagation of Faith, with the expressed desire that it be used for the missions of the poor.

Wilkinsburg Church Raises $50,200 Fund

Observing its twenty-first dedication anniversary, the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Wilkinsburg conducted a one-day fund campaign yesterday and raised $50,200.

Seeking a fund of $40,000, the congregation conducted the campaign during various services of the day. Bishop W. F. Anderson of Boston, preached at morning and evening services. The fund will be used for paying off a mortgage and other church uses. The celebration marked the beginning of the second year of pastorage for the Rev. John M. Versteeg.

DE RIVERA SON, FOE WOUNDED

PAMPLONA, Spain, March 3.—(INS.)—Miguel de Rivera, son of Gen. Primo de Rivera, deposed dictator of Spain, was slightly wounded today in a duel with swords with Capt. Antonio Reixa, of the Spanish army. His opponent also was wounded slightly.

The duel climaxed an exchange of "insults" between the two men.

Young De Rivera has issued a number of challenges since his father's fall from power, as a result of attacks upon Primo's record by his political opponents. He is well-known in artistic circles in New York, where he spent several months last year.

"I went to the Canned Goods Fair,
The prunes and the tunes were there—"

HAVE you, too, heard the Cannery racket — the little tin-clad "Sound" operas and jazz numbers so genially welcomed here by the delicatessen set?

To some theatre interests this is a heart-warming clamor. It means economy for them, hence greater profits.

To persons of sound musical taste, it is ludicrous and impudent—an affront to the intelligence and taste of the theatre-going public. They see in the talkies no excuse for resort to Canned Music.

If you, dear reader, are one of those who recognize that machine-made sound cannot take the place of living orchestras and organists in the theatre . . . if you deplore corruption of musical appreciation and discouragement of musical talent . . . if you see no reason why you should forego the pleasure of real music in the theatre to enable an economy whose benefits you do not share, TREAT YOURSELF TO A SIGH OF RELIEF, SIGN THE COUPON BELOW. Then mail it!

CALL ARCHDUKE IN GEM QUIZ

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Archduke Leopold, of Austria, sausage salesman, occupied the center of interest today in the investigation of the mysterious sale for $60,000 of the historic diamond necklace which Napoleon gave to his empress, Marie Louise, on the birth of their son.

The archduke, grand-nephew of the Archduchess Marie Theresa, former owner of the necklace, had ideas for making a fortune from the necklace. He was under subpena to appear at the district attorney's office today to tell what he knows of the sale of the necklace to D. M. Michel, a jeweler, by Charles Townsend, a former officer in the British colonial secret service, who vanished in Palm Beach recently.

The archduke said that he was present when the necklace was sold and that the jeweler had promised to give him the silver setting when he had removed the diamonds. He said he planned to have other stones set in the necklace and sell it for $500,000 on the strength of its historic value and the publicity which has been given it.

Mrs. Victor Eisenmenger, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., appealed to District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain last Friday to help her locate Townsend, explaining that the archduchess had not heard from him since she sent the necklace to him here with power of attorney to sell it.

Mrs. Eisenmenger, who has engaged counsel, said that if it could be shown that the necklace, which contained 47 diamonds, had been sold for less than its actual value she would bring suit to have the sale voided.

STEPS AT KENNA STATION ASKED

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang today submitted to Council an ordinance for the construction of concrete steps costing $1,500 on Brosius way from Warrington avenue to Nutmeg way.

Wooden steps formerly occupied Brosius way and were removed to permit the erection of a wall for a gasoline filling station extending 14 feet into the 20-foot alley. The gas station is owned by County Road Commissioner Edward M. Kenna.

Owners of property abutting Brosius way protested against the elimination of the steps to provide room for the wall and Lang ordered Kenna to make room for new steps.

U. S. Tourist Gored By Bull in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, March 3.—(INS.)—Verne Jensen, an American tourist visiting Mexico aboard the steamer Dorothy Alexander, was in a serious condition at the military hospital in Mazatlan, state of Sinaloa, today as the result of being gored in a bull ring.

Accompanied by his wife, Jensen took in the bull fights at Mazatlan yesterday and when the toreador had concluded his performance, stepped down into the ring. The maddened bull charged him and tossed him all about the ring before he could be rescued.

Blue-Eyed Youth Peddles Poems in Hollywood, Gets Cigar, Meal

By DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.

YOU may have harked to a slew of funny ones, but the chap who rang Hollywood doorbells and offered his poems for sale is the h[illegible]

In the course of his footy travels this lad doorbelled the Sam Ornitz home. Mrs. Ornitz answered the summons.

"Would you like to buy some poetry, lady?" He was a young, blue-eyed lad of about twenty.

"I don't think so," replied Mrs. Ornitz, startled.

"It's good poetry," wistfully. "And it's only 25 cents for three poems."

MRS. ORNITZ yielded to the novelty of [illegible]. She gave him the [illegible] cents. She read the poems. She [illegible] them to him. Was this the sort of thing for a boy like him to be doing? He [illegible]. Before he departed he learned that a W[illegible] lived at that house.

A few evenings later the plodding poet returned. He caught Sam Ornitz at home. Now Sam, who is a W K [illegible] and scenario-wright, has a [illegible] interest in individuals. His interest was maintained when he opened the door and heard a voice ask:

"Are you the writer who lives here?"

Sam asked the lad to come in. He dined him. He gave him a cigar. He listened to his life—all of 20 years—story.

"What are you going to do about yourself?" he inquired.

"I'm going to [illegible] the name of a small Arizona town," the boy said.

"Why?"

"Well, it should be the rainy season down there. Every time it rains in that town people get fed at restaurants for nothing. But it don't rain very often. It ought to be raining there now though," squinting at the cigar.

A little later he left. Maybe he's riding a freight to that town in Arizona. Maybe he's still peddling poetry from door to door.

Lupe Velez

Fatty Arbuckle

ROSCOE FATTY ARBUCKLE, who [illegible] as a [illegible] of the R K O [illegible] Radio Revels, is taking a new house somewhere in Hollywood.

While on the R K O lot Arbuckle met Rita La Roy. Rita is known as a [illegible] by the extras. She's got that breaker-say that whops across the silver sheet. She recently completed the vamp role in Richard Dix's "Lovin' the Ladies."

Be that as it may, Rita and Arbuckle met on the lot. One meeting led to another. This department hears tell that some romance may result. At all events Rita is helping Arbuckle select the furnishings for the new home.

"THE STORM" troupe, headed by Lupe Velez, Paul Cavanaugh, William "Broadway" Boyd and Director William Wyler, have hit the location trail to Truckee, Cal., there to shoot the big open space action. This is Lupe's initial outloud under the terms of her new Universal contract.

The picture, incidentally, careened hectically before Lupe signed on the dotted line. Lenore Ulric was asked to play the fem lead but Miss Ulric decided the part did not suit her. Laura La Plant got it. The troupe trailed to Sonora, Cal., for exteriors. The hotel where Miss La Plant stopped was being repaired. Ergo there was no heat but plenty of cold. Laura caught the latter and a feverish case of tonsilitis. The troupe returned home. Laura is just beginning to recover from the experience.

But this time the company go to Truckee where possibly hotels are repaired in the summer.

ENROUTE home from a day's work before the "Good News" Camera, Lola Lane was detoured to the James Cruze studio. She stayed long enough to sign a contract to play the lead in "The Big Fight," adapted from the stage play in which Jack Dempsey and his wife Estelle Taylor co-starred on New York's Rialto. Lola will be the only girl in the flicker. "Big Boy" Williams and Ralph Ince also highlight the cast. I think Williams enacts the Jack Dempsey part.

Lola Lane

SCREENALITIES: Mary Lewis, former Ziegfeld Follies prima donna and a Metropolitan opera warbler, has signed to make a picture or two for Pathe at a salary estimated at $4,000 per each singing minute on the screen. Listens eye-raise-y. Miss Lewis came to Hollywood some months ago. Rather roly-poly in size. Diet has reduced her to Ziegfeld weight. . . . At a party t'other eve someone mentioned a girl present who was wearing a peach outfit. Ernst Lubitsch chanced to hear the last part of the sentence. "Peach outfit!" he exclaimed. "What studio is that?" He discovered "it" was a girl. "Oh," he laughed, "I thought it was a new technicolor studio." . . . Well, I'll be seeing you.

Fighter

WAR, GIANT PRINTING PRESS, GRINDS ON IN SHERIDAN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

War, the wholesale killer, is pushed in a back seat out in the Sheridan Square. Usurping its place in the screenlight is War, the giant printing press, spilling General Orders that single out the individual and point a scrawny finger at him and say, "In the name of militarism you must die."

This finger has focused itself on one Grischa and thereon hangs the talkie, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa." Based on Arnold Sweig's novel, the film shows the keen directorial hand of Herbert Brenon. It is a decidedly melodramatic and tragic affair. But it boasts a certain power. And it has Chester Morris, young and talented, in the title role.

Grischa, under an assumed name, is condemned to die by a German military court. When he proves he's a different fellow altogether that makes no difference. He is to be shot anyway. Then a kindly German general, played by Alec Francis, whose nationality keeps him from looking the part, intervenes. But when Gustav Seyffertitz is spotted as the "supreme command" upon whom Grischa's ultimate fate rests, you know it's all up with the lad.

In with this is Grischa's romance with a girl, portrayed by Betty Compson. It is a romance that meets grey clouds. Grischa marches to his death and no clinging and tearful heroine is there. She is in a hospital—a child is to be born.

Mr. Morris pushes that lump right into your throat with his emoting. And we say bravo for his Grischa. Here at last is a movie hero who is not afraid to admit that he is afraid to die.

In reality, "The Case of Sergeant Grischa" is a backyard view of the World War, the view of a yard cluttered with prison camps. At the back gate stands a firing squad. Behind it loom the foreboding General Orders—cruel and fickle. One, recognizing no God, says an innocent man must die. Another, recognizing a God, says a clergyman must attend him on the death parade.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, March 3.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

WELL, she's had it coming to her for a long spell. She's been begging for it, but her luck asserted itself again, and the incident hasn't landed on the Page Ones. Blessed with a mess of charm and a pair of stems that Simply Leave You Limp when they are decorated by sheer hose, she has triumphed on the stage and the screen. Her weekly wage is plenty and after all these years she still is "in circulation," preferring the local Dandies to marriage.

Walter Winchell

But something has happened to her. She has shelved the smarter spots and her intimates for Harlem and the sepias, one of whom she brazenly hoofed with the other 5 o'clock in the yawning. And when the torrid tunes and tempos got hotter, she necked with him right before your orbs.

Then she adjourned to the ladies' reception room to powder her nose. The brownskin's "heart," it appears, was waiting For Just That. Cornering the celebrity in the room, the infuriated second fiddle beat her mercilessly, destroying her gorgeous frock, millinery and other decorations and then, to make her revenge complete, robbed her of her costly ice. The celebrated victim hasn't complained to the police for obvious reasons.

HEART BREAK ITEM

HIS handle is Jesepi Radealli and his tenoring will do until another Caruso ankles along, so marvelous is his vocalizing. . . . Ambitious to delight Americans, Radealli listened to Lew Leslie, the revusical producer, when Leslie found him in Milan, where he nightingaled with the Milan Opera a year or so ago. . . . Leslie brought him to this village of ours and kept him under cover and supported him.

The warbler's visit to New York got around, however, and the local impressarios tried to theft him, but he couldn't be located, and even if they could get to him, Radealli wouldn't have crossed Leslie. . . . He agreed to wait on tables in a friend's speakeasy in the slums, where he rehearsed daily. . . . He knows by heart every aria, but his "Pagliacci" is his ace. They took him out only at night for an airing, as one would take out a pet, Leslie taking no chances on his "find" getting away from him, for it was his intention to feature Radealli in his revue to "startle the town."

But the premiere night came, the night Radealli had waited for—for over a year—and the show was too long. . . . Leslie cut his appearance and broke his heart. . . . Radealli might have saved the show, too. . . . Instead they found room for Argentinita, Spain's alleged idol, whose flop was so heavy you still can hear the thump. . . . Remember the Maine!

ANKLING ALONG

THE shudder that comes with ankling the 53rd and 7th avenue pavement at dawn, which is where the late Rothstein meandered alone, nervously jingling coins. . . . The Blue Ribbon, on 44th street, probably the only restaurant in town that never rates a tumble from those who write about places frequented by celebrities, but which is where Mencken, Nathan and a score of other People Who Matter tear their herrings daily.

He has the distinction of being one of New York's toughest guys. . . . And there are few stunts he wouldn't pull if he thought it would serve his friends or affiliations. . . . In the past few years he has gone straight, violating the Volstead Act via the night club route, and probably has done several things that wouldn't exactly be legal. . . . But he has his way of thinking and won't tolerate anyone cussing around a gal. . . . He was out of town when his colleagues put on a new floor show. . . . Upon his return he closed the cuties who danced in the lewd. . . . "What do you guys think I am anyhow?" he thundered. "Let those nice producers and other birds make dough that way."

WREATH OF OLIVE

IT HAS never happened before. . . . That is, not until Marc Connolly's "The Green Pastures" came to the 47th Street the other curtain-time. . . . Never have the critics toyed with so many superlatives on one play. . . . Most agreed it is the finest thing ever done in the theater. . . . That it has grandeur, beauty, magnificence, perfection, rhythm, melody, loveliness, distinction and greatness. . . . Yet it is the oldest story of them all, all of it coming out of the Bible. . . . Marc Connolly juggled with it for three years, but the din of cheers that greeted him in the critical columns the following morning made it worth the task. . . . And when the reviewers (who were rushed for time and who were dazzled by the spectacle) continue their raves in their Sunday departments, there will be an army of belittlers who will point out that Connolly is a member of the famous Round Table at the Algonquin, and is being "log-rolled" again. . . . Which would be another major exaggeration, considering that not one of the critics is a round-tabler and besides all of them panned his last show straight into the show-morgue.

DESIRE IN WESTPORT

THE current Westport scandal concerns a lad tagged—well, no matter. . . . He has carried on terrifically with a welded woman who has a quintet of papooses and a husband who has been in a sanitarium getting cured of the heroin habit. . . . The husband has just returned to his sheck and the Chap Who Is Ca-Razee Like Anything for Her will tolerate no Goings-On. . . . He wants her to Come To Him. . . . In the meantime the husband, who has maniac eyes, is no silly-Willie. . . . Westport is breathless. . . . It may come to nothing, of course, but it looked like a one-way bullet up to yesterday. . . . E. B. White, of New York's grandest weekly, broke a non-breakable rule and gave money (to the extent of $1.25) to a panhandler the other noon. . . . But White explained everything. . . . It appears that he was generous because the guy didn't want a cuppa cawfee but, heheheh, "just loved to spend money."

OPERETTA BY HERBERT AND PITT COMEDY WEEK'S BILLS

Tuesday night, in the Shubert Alvin, Eleanor Painter, in "The Fortune Teller," continues the Victor Herbert revival, which begins with a special private performance in Syria Mosque tonight. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

"Salt Water," a comedy from the New York stage of the present season, will be given its first local performance by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt tonight.

John Willard, actor-author, conceived the idea for "The Cat and the Canary," next week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, while he was serving as captain in the United States air forces during the World War.

The attraction in the Alvin next week will be Schwab and Mandel's musical comedy, "Follow Thru," to be presented at the usual night and matinee performances.

Seats are on sale today in the box office of the Nixon for the musical revue, "Vanity Fair of 1930," which comes to that theater for a week beginning Monday night, March 10. Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield and a troup of London Tiller Girls are among its features.

TALKIES MAKE SINGER OUT OF GAMBLING CAMEO KIRBY

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Cameo Kirby, Booth Tarkington's romantic gambler of the old South, who is quick on the trigger, tricky at the cards and slick at the love-making, steps out as a talker on the Harris screen. More than that, he breaks into song every now and then without any obvious reason. Which goes to show a gambler isn't what he used to be now that the screen has gone in for singing heroes.

Cameo's picture, which is named for him and which some years back was out in silent form with John Gilbert as the card-shark hero, concerns a Mississippi steamboat gambler's romance with a belle of the Old South. There is a villain and also a Cuban vamp on hand and these two nearly wreck Mr. Kirby's romance. But comes the fluttering bluebird at the fadeout.

The picture has some picturesque settings. It also has a Mardi Gras, a duel, melodramatic moments around card tables, baying bloodhounds and a Southern moon.

J. Harold Murray appears as Kirby in this version. Other players include Norma Terris, Myrna Loy and the dark comedy chap, Stepin Fetchit.

Victor Graff's stage show is "Jazz Week." In it, Mr. Graff sings, his band gets into a novelty, and two men do some vocal harmonizing. Present also is Dick Ware, a pleasant fellow, who does some neat stepping. And gracious, we mustn't forget the Eight Coeds, who beat drums and wear high hats; nor the blonde comedienne, who sticks out her tongue and goes into a song.

AMUSEMENTS.

You can keep your skin lovely just as 511 Hollywood Actresses do

98% of the lovely complexions you see on the screen are cared for with Lux Toilet Soap

NO SINGLE BEAUTY touches hearts as a petal-smooth skin does. People are subtly drawn to the girl who has it . . . cluster about her admiringly.

Nobody knows this better than do the girls who have won the hearts of millions . . . on the screen. For Hollywood directors found out long ago that unless a girl has the smoothest of skin for the all important close-up, she can never hold her public.

As Raoul Walsh, famous Fox director, puts it: "Smooth, beautiful skin is the most potent charm a girl can have . . . and an absolute essential for stardom on the screen."

And you can keep your skin just as lovely as the screen stars do! Of the 521 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 511 use Lux Toilet Soap.

First, five or six of them began to use it . . . found out how perfectly smooth and soft it keeps the skin . . . and it wasn't long before 9 out of 10 famous stars were using this delightfully fragrant white soap.

Not only in their own luxurious bathrooms do they use it, but on location. For at the actresses' request all the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

The loveliest Broadway stage stars, too, are enthusiastic about the way Lux Toilet Soap cares for their skin . . . and oh, so grateful to it since so many of them have successfully passed the screen test for talking pictures

It has swept across the world from Hollywood to Europe

And the European stars are now using it! In France . . . in England . . . in Germany.

Are you one of the millions of women already devoted to this dainty soap? You'll be delighted with the way it cares for your skin. Order several cakes . . . today.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

ELEANOR PAINTER, Vilma Banky, Ben Bernie, Nick Lucas—all will be heard in programs over local stations tonight.

Ben Bernie, the wise-cracking maestro of radio and vaudeville fame will introduce his tempo in Pittsburgh at 10:30 over WCAE, playing a full hour program.

Nick Lucas

Vilma Banky and her director, Mr. Van Dyke, who have just returned from making a picture in Africa, will entertain the WJAS audience at 7:30. As a novelty they will bring before the microphone two cannibals who will say "Hello" in jungle language.

Nick Lucas, at the Stanley this week, will be the Warner Revue star on WCAE at 11:30.

Franklyn Baur, Firestone tenor, will sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" over WCAE at 8.

Steamboat days on the Mississippi will be recalled by the Empire Builders on the KDKA program at 10:30.

We wonder if Ripley knows that the 14 cleared channels and 14 cleared stations permitted by the Radio Commission can be assigned 87,178,491,200 different ways?

AUTOMATIC SOS

Allan Machesney, chief engineer at WCAE, informs us that ships at sea now have a device which rings an alarm in the ship radio room and on the bridge when a distress signal is picked up by an unattended ship radio receiver. The invention disregards all signals except "SOS."

* * *

The First Song of Spring Is The Navy Blues

Frocks for Women and Misses
$25.

As much a sign of Spring as the first crocus . . . navy blue. Always new, always different, yet always the trig, flattering color women love. And this year a high Spring fashion.

The new navies are brighter . . . livelier . . . and they very often take unto themselves a bit of contrasting color, as in the frocks sketched.

Other new navy fashions in silk crepe, georgette, prints.

SPEED TARIFF IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 3 (INS.)—"Pass the tariff in two weeks."

This was the cry of administration leaders today as the Senate entered another week of 11-hour workdays in a hope of speeding up passage of the year-old tariff bill. They were joined by leaders of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition since the Senate has grown tired of the bill that has been debated almost daily for the last six months.

It was the hope of administration leaders to send the bill to conference by March 15. When that is accomplished another intra-parliamentary war will develop between House and Senate over rates and administrative provisions. The Senate thus far has changed thousands of House rates, knocked out the flexible tariff provision which the House approved, and inserted the farm relief debenture plan which the House rejected. There was a feeling the House and Senate conferees might require another six weeks to iron out differences after which both branches must approve the report. The bill may reach the White House some time in May.

CURTISS PLANE WINS TEST

NEW YORK, March 3—(Universal)—Only two airplanes, one of which failed to pass a minor qualifying requirement, exhibited attributes which warranted completion of the Guggenheim safe aircraft competition for a prize of $100,000. This was made public by the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc., which sponsored the competition.

The $100,000 prize for the greatest advancement in safety factors in airplane construction went to the Curtiss Company because of the performance of its entry, the "Tanager."

Of 27 original entries only 12 sought to win. Two were damaged in preliminary flights and eight failed to qualify.

Devices recommended included automatic leading edge slots, flaps, either automatically or manually controlled, floating ailerons, long-stroke oleo landing gear, extreme range adjustable stabilizer, brakes.

WOMEN VOTERS TO CELEBRATE

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP.)—The National League of Women Voters will celebrate the tenth anniversary of federal suffrage and its own tenth anniversary Wednesday.

The main feature of the celebration will be league luncheons held simultaneously in 45 states at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time Wednesday. Three league leaders, Miss Belle Sherwin, Miss Katharine Ludington and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will broadcast speeches from a luncheon in the St. Regis Hotel, New York, over the National Broadcasting Company network to the other luncheons.

Driver Injured In Auto Upset

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 3.—When an automobile skidded on the road near New Castle, ran into a ditch and upset, Alonzo Barnett, 30, of Beaver Falls, the driver, sustained injuries to his chest and shoulder. He was brought to the hospital here. Four other members of his family escaped with slight hurts.

Washington Portrait Owned by College

Constable at Bay, Disarms Prisoner

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 3.—Constable Sam Bakulsky, of Brackenridge, was held at bay by Walter Poschen, 30, who pointed an empty gun when he went to arrest the man in his home. Poschen was disarmed.

Mechanic Hurt In Plunge of Glider

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., March 3.—(AP)—Douglas Kirby, 26, a mechanic of Port Washington, was seriously injured here in a glider crash on Manhasset Isle. Both his legs and his nose were broken and his skull was fractured.

Kirby apparently lost control of the gliding apparatus almost immediately after the glider had been snapped from the catapult. From a height of about 50 feet the glider nosedived to the ground. It belonged to the New York Gliding Club.

Franklin Man Killed In Skidding Wreck

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 3.—Arnold Biery, 25-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. E. Biery, residents of the Lakes-to-Sea highway near Franklin, was found dead in a ditch, his car wrecked against a telegraph pole at Salina this morning. Biery's machine had skidded from the road apparently. Raymond Oleson of Oil City found the body. Homer L. Biery of Kiski is a brother.

Chicago Painters' Pay $14 a Day Now

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP)—The 18,000 painters in the Chicago district have been granted a $1 a day wage boost effective today. Their daily wage will be $14 and they will continue to work a five-day week.

PRIEST TELLS OF FLOGGING

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 3.—(AP)—The Rev. J. Allan Heiser, off-campus director of Notre Dame University, was recovering here from wounds inflicted with a "black snake" lash in his office Saturday, for which a graduate student, Harold N. Simpson, 21, of Oak Park, Ill., faces a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill.

Ejection of Simpson from the university junior promenade Friday night is alleged to have led to the attack on Father Heiser.

Father Heiser told police Simpson had no ticket to the dance, that the young woman companion of Simpson already had entered the ballroom and that the student climbed a fire escape attempting to enter, setting off an alarm warning the management of intruders. It was then, the priest related, that he had Simpson taken to jail.

The youth went to Father Heiser's office and started an argument. Suddenly, the priest said, Simpson produced the whip and began lashing at him while he struggled and called for help. Simpson's bond was set at $5,000.

FAMED LEIPZIG FAIR OPENS

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 3.—(AP)—The narrow old-fashioned streets of this ancient city rang with a babel of voices from all quarters of the world yesterday, the opening day of the annual Leipzig spring fair, which is going stronger than ever after 700 years of existence. Some 2,000 American businessmen jostled a motley crowd of traders from China, Japan, Soviet Russia, all the European states and the South American republics, all bent on laying in stocks and discovering novelties for their home markets.

Besides a variety of new toys shown by 820 makers, including rocket cars and airplanes, the striking novelties include a new dictating device on the electric-magnetic principle, which records on steel wires instead of on the familiar wax cylinder used in American offices.

A telephone clock controlling the time of calls and checking the duration of long distance connections is another feature.

About one thousand exhibits are labor-saving devices for the home, and new radio "gadgets" are legion.

BIG GAS STRIKE IN FAYETTE

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—A strike of natural gas estimated at over 4,000,000 cubic feet daily and the largest in the area, has been brought in by the Behm and Freeland Company, for Washington operators, on the C. W. Cox farm in Nicholson Township, Fayette County.

The well is one of seven by this company, six producing gas and one oil. Today's well and one other were struck in the Big Injun sand, the others being in the 50-foot sand.

The local operators dispose of their product to the Victor Pipe Line Company, which turns it over to the Monongahela West Penn Company. Eight thousand acres are under lease, with about 4,000 acres being operated.

Daughter Is Healthy Now

"My thirteen-year-old daughter Maxine was troubled with backache and pain when she came into womanhood. I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help her because I used to take it myself at her age. Now she does not have to stay home from school and her color is good, she eats well and does not complain of being tired. We are recommending the Vegetable Compound to other school girls who need it. You may publish this letter."—Mrs. Floyd Butcher, R. #2, Gridley, Kansas.

NYE DEMANDS WHEAT QUIZ

WASHINGTON March 3 (AP.)—Investigation by the Senate to determine whether the grain trade has conspired to destroy the effectiveness of the farm relief act was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Nye (Rep) of North Dakota

The resolution also would provide that the Senate determine whether the Farm Board has been "fairly interpreting" the farm relief act and carrying out its purposes. It also would be directed to determine whether the grain trade has instigated efforts in the world market which would tend to depress the world market for American agricultural products and to reflect such depressions upon the domestic market for the purpose of discrediting the Farm Board.

TRAINMAN SPEEDS RELIEF TO HIS OWN COUGH!

MR. F. W. CLIFFORD

Finds REM route fastest way

Mr. F. W. Clifford of 174 Franklin St., Portland, Maine, is a trainman on the Maine Central, and railroading in Maine in the winter is no easy job. One winter while working on a freight train, he caught a very bad cough. He tried first one thing for it, then another---but without any results. Then he dropped in at Holland's Drug Store at Oxford and Mayo Sts., and asked them to recommend a good cough remedy. The druggist suggested REM and Mr. Clifford reports, "I'm glad to say it relieved my cough in a short time." REM's quick action in relieving a cough has delighted thousands. It is due, in part, to the fact that it clings to your throat and spreads a soothing, healing film, bringing quicker relief. Find that out for yourself!

CULT PRIESTESS CONVICTED

LOS ANGELES March 3 (AP) Mrs May Otis Blackburn high priestess of the mystic cult known as the Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Eleven was convicted of grand theft by a jury which began deliberation last Thursday

Mrs Blackburn was charged with 10 counts of grand theft after Clifford Dabney, oil operator alleged she defrauded him out of $40 000 The jury found her guilty of eight counts the penalty for each of which is a one to fourteen year penitentiary sentence

The Great Eleven cult as the organization became known here had headquarters in the mountains near here where a colony of followers lived The organization came under official scrutiny several months ago following the discovery of the body of a young priestess of the cult buried beneath the floor of her foster parents' house

WE have never forgotten for a moment that Chesterfield's popularity depends on Chesterfield's taste.

Take mildness, for instance; Chesterfields are mild, and yet they satisfy—and if you "know your cigarettes," you know that's not an ordinary combination. Add a delightful spicy fragrance, and that mellow tobacco richness that marks good tobaccos and good blending—and you have the simple Chesterfield formula for unfailing popularity:

PEEPER TAKEN IN CHASE, FINED

Thomas Horen, 24, of 4135 Murray avenue, in Morals Court today, was identified by two women and a girl, residents of Emerson street, as the man who had annoyed the neighborhood recently by peeping in winodws and prowling around porches.

Police testified that Horen was captured last night after a chase. He told police, they testified, he was on his way to call on a young woman at 210 Emerson street, but that no one there knew him.

Horen admitted to Magistrate Thomas D. Jones he was married. He was fined $10 with the alternative of 10 days in jail.

NATRONA STILL FOUND IN CAVE

Accused of having operated a wildcat brewery, William Kuneit, of Canal street, Natrona, will be given a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace J. Francis Heck, of Natrona.

Natrona police under Chief Paul Engleman raided the place, an artificial cave, in a hollow 500 yards in the rear of the Kuhneit home, late Saturday.

Contraband seized included, police sai , 54 cases of beer, four 20-gallon casks of fermenting beer and 200 gallons of wine. With Chief Engleman in the raid were Motorcycle Officer John Lendenski, Patrolman Michael Dunning and Constable Edward Hileman.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour, forming acrid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

Easily Tired—No Strength

But Now You Can Have Sun-Health Morning, Noon and Night Even in Dark, Sunless Rooms

If you kept your body sun-bronzed like that of a life guard at a summer resort, you would also have much of his hardy strength and vigor. You would be far different from the pale, weak, rundown, underweight and easily tired person you are today. But at this time of the year, what chance have you or any other indoor worker to take daily sun-baths?

But one thing you can do—take sunshine internally. And you will not have to swallow disagreeable, fishy, greasy liquid cod liver oil either. The wonderful scientific discovery, McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, is just as rich in the wonderful "sunshine" vitamin D as the finest grade cod liver oil, and fully as rich in body-building vitamin A. They have none of liquid cod liver oil's unpleasant features—no odor, no taste—and they are easy to digest and assimilate.

Rich in Vitamins

Rundown, underweight men and women, sickly children, invalids and convalescents thrive on McCoy's Tablets. This is not a bit surprising, as cod liver oil is hundreds of times richer in vitamins A and D than milk, eggs or butter (the most abundant food sources of these vitamins). Two McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are equal to one teaspoonful of the pure, vitamin-tested Norwegian cod liver oil from which they are made. Genuine cod liver oil extract is their only ingredient—they positively contain no habit-forming drugs, no inert medicines, no temporary "pick-me-ups."

For any sick, anemic, rundown or underweight condition for which cod liver oil is known to be beneficial, it is just as safe, just as beneficial and far more pleasant to take or give McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets instead. You don't have to miss the midday dose—easy to carry, easy to take. 60 tablets, 60 cents at any drugstore.

Husband and wife both catch serious colds . . .

"WE had to visit some friends on a bad rainy day. When we got home that night, we both were coughing in chorus. My husband had fever and complained of a pain in his chest. I gave him some Smith Brothers Cough Syrup and took a teaspoonful myself. Right away I felt better.

"In the morning we continued taking Smith Brothers—and in two days we both were just as well as ever."

MRS. M. P. FROST, RIDGEWOOD, N.J.

Smith Brothers Cough Syrup works so quickly because of Triple Action which 1: soothes, 2: is mildly laxative, 3: clears air passages.

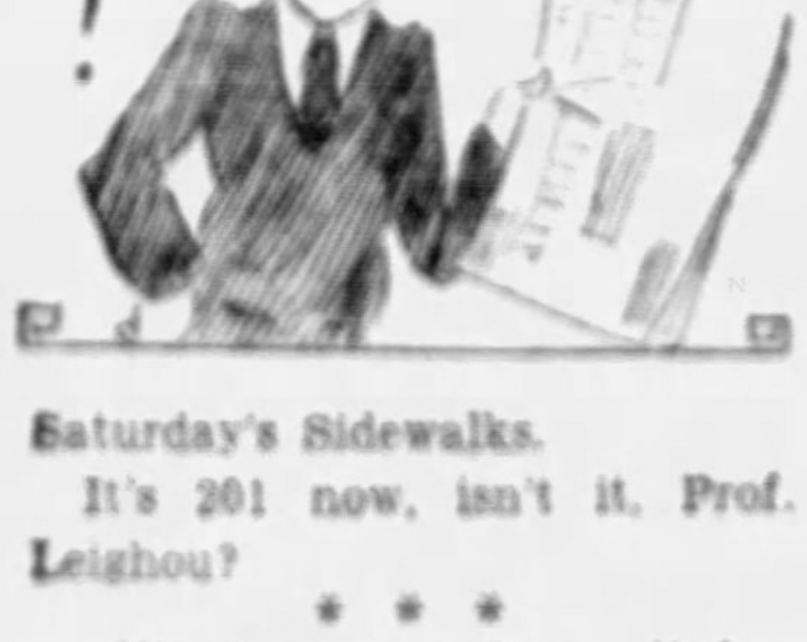
SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

THE most unusual scrapbook in existence is that of a Carnegie Tech professor, Robert B. Leighyou, who has 200 newspaper clippings, in each of which his name is misspelled—From Saturday's Sidewalks.



AH! — CLIPPING #201 !

It's 201 now, isn't it, Prof. Leighou?

We aim to supply one little revelation each day. Today's revelation is that the dainty feet de la madame (you have to be educated to understand this column) are not becoming daintier. In other words (all mincing of words to the side and let's be frank), women's dainty feet are becoming bigger!

We interviewed an expert saleswoman—Miss Evelyn McCauley—on this subject, and she confessed that the average woman's shoe today was 5½, if not 6. And there was a day when the average shoe was 4½. Things ain't what they used to be and it's all on account of the younger generation.

HOW 'BOUT SOME GOLF ?
NO GOLF FOR ME. !

The reason for this advancement in sizes is the outdoors. The girl of today golfs and plays tennis and walks and runs and dances. All these things lead to a broadening of the mind and arches.

This is a delicate subject and we hope we have not said anything offensive to the fairer sex. We do not intend to imply that all women do not have dainty feet today. As a matter of fact we know a beautiful girl who wears size 2½. She's one of the Singer Midgets.

WE WANT to apologize to the person (presumably a young woman) who wrote in for details about Rudy Vallee. We lost the letter, or something. However, we can offer a few revealing lines from a recently published interview with good old Rudy.

Girl reporter—"Do you feel yourself as a sort of minstrel—to a million queens whom you love when you sing?"

Rudy himself—"Oh, no, the minstrel was a traveling historian mainly. I feel myself only as a lover. My audience is a girl—or many girls—sometimes I am thinking of a real girl, sometimes a dream girl—but when I sing I am always a lover."

"Here's a story for you," said Mr. Steamer Flanigan, exponent of Blackstone. "A young fellow was working his way through dental school by selling newspapers. You and I couldn't tell it from watching him, but he was just a bit mentally unbalanced—"

We interrupted Steamer by pointing out that we might offend the student by printing the story.

"But here—" Steamer said. "He got married, became the father of two children, quit school, got a good job and recovered his mental balance. He's probably saner today than you. Why, I can't say."

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 3.

NOT only the week's biggest laugh. But the year's biggest guffaw come from the United States Senate. During the oil lobby hearing they discovered that senators were trading oil votes for sugar votes. They were surprised and practically dumbfounded that such a condition could exist.

Yes, just about as surprising to everybody that knows politics as it would be to discover that Herbert Hoover was born in the U. S., was over 20 years old and white. Vote-trading got 'em all in the Senate and kept them in there. (If the trades were good enough.)

A senator learns to "swop" his vote at the same age a calf learns which end of its mother is the dining room.

Barry Causes Chickie to Forsake Cruise

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce is attending business college when the story opens. She confides her romantic thoughts to her friend, Mary Blake. She gets a position in an office in New York. One of her co-workers there is Janina Knowles. Through Janina she meets Jake Munson, rich and attractive bachelor. Mary suddenly marries a poor young chemist, much to Chickie's regret. Jimmy Blake, Mary's brother, begs Chickie to marry him, but without success. Chickie meets Barry Dunne at a party given by Munson. Barry drives her home. Barry calls, takes her motoring, tells her she's beautiful and kisses her. Munson, who has been greatly attracted by Chickie, insists on taking her to dinner. She goes out often with Barry and the depth of her feeling for him frightens her. Munson makes her a present of a barpin of sapphires. Chickie tries to return the pin but Jake persuades her to keep it. Later Jake gives her a police dog and invites her to go on a yachting cruise.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

CHICKIE felt herself lifted to some glittering peak—the world outflung in brilliance before her. She saw herself stepping gracefully on the yacht, beautiful and careless, in some stunning sport clothes. She let her thoughts drift delightfully; closed her eyes, saying sharply, "I'm going! A chance like that! Any time!"

She went through her closet, counting over the dresses that might do. She would have to buy two or three outfits—white pumps, a sweater—

At breakfast the next morning she dallied over her coffee. Finally she said: "Mr. Munson is taking a party on his yacht to Miami. He wants me to go."

Jennie's face rosy, her eyes beamed proudly, as though they said, "There—what did I tell you? I declare!" She glanced over to Jonathan. He doubled up his chin, looking fixedly at Chickie. "Who else is going, Chickie? Do you know them?"

"Yes, of course—ten, altogether. Three married couples; so, you see, cutie love, lots of chaperons."

"You want to go, Chickie?"

"Oh, Jonathan! Well, now, wouldn't you if you were me? Out on the water. Oh, I'd love it—I'd just love it!"

"I suppose so. Well——" He shook his head heavily. "You think about it, Chickie. I suppose it's all right or he wouldn't ask you."

A limpness passed softly into her veins. Abruptly she knew she was counting on their opposition—indeed, half hoped for it. Their consent threw her back on her own judgment that was one moment clear and relentless; the next, beaten down by her hot leaping desires.

Barry Sullen

Not Asked to Go on Yachting Cruise

A trip like that—out on the ocean—riding with the wind. Miss that? Because people might talk? Because Janina would give her a sneering look? She should worry!

But at noon she hurried off alone to lunch. She went to the restaurant where she hoped to meet Barry Dunne. He was already there—waiting at the table where they often sat. But he didn't wink or give her a gleeful look or wax blithely talkative.

He regarded her with veiled accusation in his young, ardent face. "So we're going on a little yachting trip, Chickie?"

"Oh, Barry, you're coming!" Unconcealed joy made her eyes shine.

"I? Want me along, Chickie?"

"Why, I'd say that was mighty joyous"——

"Well—so you ARE going. It's all settled, then." He snapped his jaws sharply.

A shiver of dismay made her cold, made her heart bound. She answered with a touch of fire: "What do you mean? Why are you angry?"

"Why, I'm not—not at all. I'm a trifle surprised, that's all. It's your own business, of course."

"But you're going? When did Jake ask you?"

"He—didn't—ask me!" Biting the words out roughly.

Turns Pale

Chickie Surprised at Attitude of Boy Friend

"How do you know about it, then?" She spoke quietly, feeling his anger like a needle of flame going into her mind.

"Oh—so you didn't intend to mention it! You weren't going to tell me about it? Going to slip off quiet like."

She clasped her hands, looking down at them trembling. She could feel the blood leaving her face, sinking from her heart. She had never seen him furious like this before. Her voice trailed: "Why are you saying such things, Barry?"

"Because I'm a damn fool! That's why!" He saw then her still, white hands; the quivering of her sweet, pointed chin. A flush stole through him, drew him so that he wished to stand up and cover her with his arms. He said softly, "Chickie—I just can't understand it. I don't know what to make of you. When Bob Larkin told me you were going—that Jake was taking you along, I could have knocked him down."

"Wouldn't you go, Barry? I think it's a glorious chance."

He stared at her moodily: "Have you ever been on a long yachting trip like this?"

"No—I haven't. Oh, I don't believe what you're thinking at all. There are to be three couples, and do you suppose for a moment that Jake would ask me to go if it wasn't perfectly all right?"

Joy Vanishes

Chickie Says That She Has Faith in Munson

"I'm not saying anything. There'll be plenty of liquor along. You know that. There'll be a gay time, all right. Sure I'd go if he asked me! I wouldn't miss it. But you don't seem to want some things. You wouldn't even stay one night on that party. You ran away."

"I didn't know we were to stay. I had to get home then. This is different."

His eyes boring into hers told a thousand things—accused her, pleaded with her. Finally he said: "Do you think some things are any different because you know them beforehand?"

She got up from the table quickly, a wild stinging in her eyes. He followed. Not heeding, she dashed along Nassau street until they were both breathless. He took her arm: "Listen, Chickie, I wish I hadn't said anything. As long as you seem to know."

"Oh, I don't know how you could do it—you hurt me to death. How could you say it?"

He shot a quick, puzzled glance over her face. "Well, I'm beat! That's all. It's late; I suppose you want to go back?" He took out a cigaret, lit it, pulled at it long, absently.

She didn't move. She was afraid to speak because of the utter misery in her heart. All the beauty gone now—all the high, careless joy.

An image of Jake's handsome face with its black eyes and red, flashing smile came before her—Jake standing in the hall laughing like a boy when he brought the dog to her.

She said with sudden warmth: "I don't believe Jake Munson ever dreamed such things as you

CITIZEN BLAMED FOR CRIME BY INVESTIGATOR

Lax in Duty, Says Hoover Board Member, Here for Address; Mum to Dry Quiz

"The crime situation is due, above all else, to the individual citizen's neglect of his civic duty," declared Frank J. Loesch, chairman of the Chicago Crime Commission, in an interview here today.

Mr. Loesch is in Pittsburgh to address the Men's Club of Shadyside Presbyterian Church at a dinner in University Club tonight.

"The citizen," he continued, "has let control pass into the hands of politicians, whose tendency always is downward. If each citizen took a more active interest in bettering conditions, however limited his sphere might be, it would in the course of a very few years bring marked improvement.

CHICAGO "NOT SO BAD"

"That is the course we are pursuing in Chicago. We are endeavoring to rouse in the citizens consciousness of their duty, that control may be taken out of the hands of politicians.

"Chicago has the reputation of being the most crime-ridden city in the world. But it is not true. It is only worse in degree, except in gang murders. As to that, the situation is worse than anywhere else. I am not prepared to say just what is the cause."

Mr. Loesch predicted a brilliant future for Chicago—"provided the lawless elements which now largely control are suppressed and annihilated."

MUM ON PROHIBITION

He is a member of President Hoover's Commission on Law Enforcement, and is on his way to Washington to attend a committee meeting, but declined to discuss its work.

He would express no opinion on prohibition. He favors capital punishment, but thinks it should be sparingly administered.

"It is society's most effective remedy," he said, "against atrocious murders, such as those in the Snook and Gray-Snyder cases. It should be applied when there is deliberate conspiracy to take a man's life."

Man Fatally Shot By 'Empty' Pistol

James Harris, 30, a Negro of 1227 Day street, was dead today a victim of an "empty" revolver. Harris, police said, took the gun to the home of Mary Turner, a Negro, of 2168 Wylie avenue last night. Vincent White, 16, a Negro roomer, thought the revolver was unloaded and pulled the trigger according to police.

The bullet struck Harris in the right side. He died in Passavant Hospital. The Turner woman and White were held for questioning.

STORE BANDITS ELUDE POLICE

Police today had found no trace of the three bandits who obtained $300 in a holdup of the Ellsworth Drug Store at 5757 Ellsworth avenue, Saturday night.

Alone in the store, Sam Rosenblatt, the proprietor, was held at bay by two of the bandits while the third rifled the cash register.

Returning to her home Saturday night, Anna R. Wolf, of 5903 Rippey street, discovered the theft of a diamond ring valued at $185 and a wrist watch worth $84, according to police.

Students Arrange Fifth Annual Ball

A committee of ten medical students at Pitt, representing the four classes at the school, has begun preparations for the fifth annual ball to be held April 30. H. O. Bregenzer, chairman of the committee, will announce hostesses soon. The ball will be held at the William Penn Hotel and 125 couples are expected to attend.

Students Seeking Knowledge Spurn Distance

Distance is no bar to students at Pitt, who are emulating their progenitors, who awakened at daybreak and hiked 10 miles through mud to the little red school house in search of their three R's.

John H. Kallstein, New Castle, is one of these and J. C. Mechaux, Ford City, is another. Kallstein arises at 5:30 each morning and commutes 50 miles to get to his class at 8:30 while Mechaux travels 42 miles each morning in search of education.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Would the conviction of Dr. Snook have had less effect for the good of society had he been imprisoned for life rather than executed?

E. D. SULLIVAN, assistant manager, Fort Pitt Hotel: "As the law now stands, execution is the only punishment for the good of society. A pardon is too easily obtained and life imprisonment thereby loses its value as punishment. When life imprisonment is the sentence, you seldom find a person who feels the crime has been satisfied."

E. D. Sullivan

J. G. MITCHELL, bell captain, Carrick: "The execution of Dr. Snook was justified. Under the present conditions and laws, a murderer is practically given his freedom when a life's sentence is passed. Yes, I believe society was best served with his death."

J. G. Mitchell

EDWARD FERRIS, credit manager, North Side: "Life imprisonment means nothing for the good of society. Too much pampering of law violators with pardons have made imprisonment a farce. Until such laws are put into existence that life imprisonment means just that much time in prison, execution without delay is the only benefit to society."

Edward Ferris

M. TAYLOR, hostess, Dormont: "I think his penalty was what Dr. Snook had coming to him. It seems the only effective sentence for society's benefit. Had he been given a life's sentence, a pardon or parole within a few years would have brought him back to society to mingle with law abiding citizens. The crime would not have been paid."

Miss Taylor

G. M. ANGELOS, maitre d' hotel, downtown: "To give a lesson to society, Dr. Snook's execution was justified. Hideous crimes are being committed about us and life sentences being meted out to a few. Some escape any punishment while those who go to prison might just as well be freed in glaring freedom with which paroles and pardons are granted."

G. M. Angelos

HELEN SABAT, waitress, McKees Rocks: "I think he would have suffered most in prison. In death, Dr. Snook has no earthly suffering and society soon forgets the penalty. There are constant reminders with life sentences to keep the murderer's name before the public. But how many remain in prison? Therefore his execution seems to have been the best penalty."

APPLICATION FOR ROAD FILED

Loree Again Asks I. C. C. for Permission to Build Low Grade System to East

By GEORGE H. SNYDER,
Business Editor.

Fight for a new low grade railroad from Pittsburgh to the East was reopened before the Interstate Commerce Commission today by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson.

Henry Oliver Evans and H. T. Newcomb, attorneys, filed an application for permission to build the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad, which Loree has been trying to push through since the war.

PROPOSED ROUTE

The proposed new trackage would extend from Allegheny City to Easton, a distance of 283 miles, with branch lines from the main line at Allegheny City to North Sewickley, 31 miles, and from the main line at Pittsburgh Junction into the industrial district of Pittsburgh, 30 miles. This would make a total of 344 miles of new railroad entirely within the state of Pennsylvania.

By connecting up with other lines over several optional routes a road from Chicago to New York would be created with a distance ranging from 824 to 850 miles, miles shorter than the distance miles sehorter than the distance over existing railroads.

MOVE OPPOSED

The distance from Pittsburgh to New York would be 74 miles less than the shortest route now in operation.

Loree first made formal application for the new line on March 20, 1925. This move was opposed by most of the other eastern trunk lines. The commission denied the application, but stated that it could be re-entered with additional evidence.

Loree has had a similar application pending before the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, which has withheld approval pending action by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The cost of the proposed railroad fully equipped would be $177,740,373. Its estimated annual operating expenses would be $10,220,071.

The application states that in addition to a saving in distance the new route would have lighter grades than most of the existing lines. It is also intimated that a saving in freight rates might be possible.

NEGRO STABBED TO DEATH

A man was dead today and another was in a serious condition as a result of stabbing affrays in Homestead yesterday.

Mary Alaway, 37, Negro, of 531½ Beech way, was to be turned over to the coroner today in connection with the death of Tot Stamps, 40, of 225 Beech way, county detectives said. The woman, according to detectives, stabbed Stamps fatally when he attempted to attack her in her home yesterday. Detectives said the woman told them that Stamps had threatened to kill her last week.

An argument between Thelma Johnson, 20, and Sam Carter, 22, both Negroes, in a house at 513 Beech way, ended in the stabbing of Carter, police reported. Carter was taken to the Homestead Hospital.

Synagogue Burns Last Mortgage in 3-Day Rites

Burning of the last mortgage yesterday afternoon featured the last of a three-day celebration by the congregation of the Shaare Torah of Gates of Wisdom Synagogue, Townsend street. The special services began Friday night and closed last night, following a banquet attended by more than 400.

The services were in charge of Rabbi M. S. Sivitz, in charge of the congregation for 45 years, assisted by six visiting rabbis. The first service was opened by Cantor A. Bloom, of New York, formerly of the Shaare Torah Synagogue.

M. Glinn, president of the congregation, was declared responsible for lifting of the debt, which was reduced from $40,000.

SOCIETY GIRLS PREPARING FOR EXHIBITION OF ART

JUNIOR LEAGUE SHOWS WORK OF WALTER

Avalon Man's Paintings to Be on View in Club's New Quarters; Public Invited

Art is the newest adventure of Pittsburgh's society girls.

Today, in the recently acquired rooms of the Junior League, Clark Building, a lot of dainty fingers are being soiled by dust. Members of the league are hanging a score of the paintings and drawings of Christian J. Walter in preparation for the first art show to be given by the league here.

The opening of the exhibition will be Wednesday morning, and the exhibit will be public Friday, Saturday and Monday.

OPEN HOUSE

The invitation to art lovers of the city to visit the show is also an innovation of the League, members of which are leading society girls of the district. Hitherto a majority of their activities, other than benefits, were confined to their own lists.

The exhibit of the Avalon artist and president of the Associated Artists will remain for several weeks. It will be the first extensive activity since the young women moved their headquarters from the Women's Exchange building to the Clark Building mezzanine. The rooms, decorated by the members, were thrown open less than two weeks ago.

SUPERVISE HANGING

Miss Priscilla Hall, president of the League, Mary Barbara Shiras and Ellen McClay are behind the art movement, and formed the hanging committee.

Dedicated mostly to charitable endeavors, the League, with its larger and finely decorated quarters, hopes to expand its activities.

Included in the Walter exhibit will be a number of Ligonier paintings, tranquil landscapes, several black and white sketches, a picture or two from Florida and seasonal studies of Western Pennsylvania and Ohio pastorals.

WELFARE HOME DEDICATED

The annual four-day rally of officers and young peoples workers in the Salvation Army, which began Friday, will close tonight in the Army headquarters, 425 Second avenue.

A feature of yesterday's sessions was the dedication in the afternoon of the new welfare center and headquarters at 438 Third avenue. Among officers taking part were Col. John Bond, Lieut. Col. C. B. Campbell, Attorney George E. Alter, chairman of the Army advisory board, Mayor Charles H. Kline, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church; Commissioner R. E. Holz, territorial commander, and Col. Alfred A. Chandler, chief secretary, of New York.

A chief officers' council was to be held this afternoon, following a luncheon in the Evangeline Hotel dining room. Visitors were to inspect the new right eight-story wing of the headquarters building. The council session will be conducted by Commissioner Holz.

Officers Elected By Mission Circle

The Women's Missionary Society of the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church has elected these officers for 1930: President, Mrs. J. E. WIDOW DISPELS JUNGLE MYTHS

Characteristics of jungle animals were described by Mrs. Carl Akeley, widow of the naturalist and explorer, in Carnegie Museum yesterday. Mrs. Akeley, who remained in the wilds of Africa seven weeks following the death of her husband there, declared that the common conception of jungle animals is incorrect.

"The lion and the elephant are far from the ferocious beasts commonly believed," she said. "Unless pressed, or starving, the lion will never attack the human. In fact, few animals are man-killers. The gorilla, contrary to belief, seldom attacks humans, unless they approach too close to mother gorillas or their young. These animals are vegetarians and never eat humans. Lions of the man-eating type are few."

PETITION ASKS ANNEXATION IN STOWE

McKees Rocks to Add Part of Township; Previous Efforts Fail

The annexation of a part of Stowe Township to the borough of McKees Rocks has been revived and the sponsors of the movement are hopeful that their efforts will meet with success.

The section affected is that bounded by George street, the Ohio River, the Pressed Steel Car Company and the Carnegie Steel Company. Several previous attempts have met with failure, due to the fact that the residents of the district named have opposed the annexatian project. It is stated by those back of the present move that this objection has been removed and that certain large interests now desire to become a part of the borough.

The present campaign is being conducted silently and it is stated that petitions urging annexation have been generously signed.

MARGARET SCHMIDT

Miss Schmidt, Bread street, inspecting the talking mummy brought to Pittsburgh. It was under armed guard for a while and is insured for $100,000.

SHOW MUMMY THAT TALKS

A mummy lies in state today at the Harris Memorial theater, McKeesport.

Three thousand years ago, this particular mummy is said to have stopped talking. Taken from the Valley of the Kings, Egypt, and brought to America, it resumed operations a short time ago, learned English without trouble (according to Tampa the magician, who keeps it company.)

Elaborate preparations were made for the safe transport of this son of a pharoah. It came to Pittsburgh Saturday.

Insured from the time it reached Pittsburgh until the time it leaves for $100,000, an armored car and armed guards took it to McKeesport from the Union station.

Ventriloquism is said to be the method used in making the mummy "talk." "Some day," says Tampa, "we may find an all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing mummy, but this is the highest evolution in Egyptian mummies now on view."

Tests to determine the results of planes bombing other planes, radio communication between planes and the defense of San Francisco by air against an "enemy" battleship fleet, will be the outstanding events of the program.

The majority of the events will be staged at Mather Field, Sacramento, and will be in charge of Brig. Gen. William E. Gillmore, assistant to the chief of the Air Corps. A few of the exercises will be held at Los Angeles.

Kills Brother When Loan Is Refused

CAIRO.—(INS.)—Because he refused to lend his brother $1.50 Mohammed Fathy, 20 years old, is dead.

Mustafa, the brother, is on trial for murder. He was known as the black sheep of the very respectable family, had squandered $350 his father left him, and constantly asked hard-working Mohammed for loans.

The refusal which led to the murder was of 30 piastres which Mustafa demanded for drinks.

The case has aroused much indignation even in a country where fights to the death over a few cents are very common. The sentence for such a murder is capital punishment.

Township Commissioners Protest Against Importing Workers; Town Hall Plea

That only citizens in Allegheny County be employed on county work of a public character, was asked in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners, in the Chamber of Commerce Saturday night. The association represents 24 first-class townships in the county.

The resolution requests the employment of Allegheny County residents on all county work and asks county commissioners to investigate the importation of labor from outside the county on contracts now under way, as alleged by a North Side trade board.

Other resolutions adapted by the body were the passage of the anti-narcotic bill now before Congress, and extolling the splendid effort of Congressman Stephen G. Porter in that work.

As a means of providing immediate employment, the last resolution requests the commissioners to make their decision on the town hall site and let the contracts as soon as possible.

James E. Bryan, of North Versailles Township, was elected treasurer, succeeding the late John C. Burkhart, of Penn Township.

President William E. Armstrong, Ex-Judge Frank I. Gollmar, attorney for the state association, Secretary Edwin E. Klein, and Attorney Samuel A. Schreiner were delegated to attend the convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Township Commissioners in Allentown March 17 and 18.

Boiling Clothes Extinguish Gas, Man Dies

BALTIMORE, March 3.—Jerome Butler, 60, placed some soiled clothes in a pot of water over a gas heater and retired to a couch nearby to take a nap. The water boiled over the top of the pot and extinguished the flame. A few hours later neighbors broke into the house and Butler was found dead.

About the same time two small children, Cecilia Sonomes, 2, and her baby sister, Angeline, 10 months, were left to play in a room of their home. A few minutes later they were found by their father unconscious from gas leaking from a defective hose of a heater. A municipal ambulance was called and the children were revived.

DELIGHTFUL EXAMPLES OF THE NEW MILLINERY MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Mar. 3.—There will be no need to be bereft of your beret when summer comes, if you should prefer that perky little cap that reveals all, as far as the face is concerned, rather than peer coquettishly forth beneath the flattering shelter of a brim. This involved and breathless sentence is to tell you that the cutest little berets of supple straw have been evolved, quite as pliable as those of the flannel or fine felt variety that have been so popular along the Riviera this season. Cellophane weaves are much used, woven into braid and making a beret that will be the joy of the girl who likes to roll her own little hat into shapes best suited to her type. The beret is, in general, most becoming to the young girl, except in special versions, it is essentially not a matron's hat.

THE larger hats are just brimming over with chic. There is a languorous lovely lady effect to the large droopy brim that is quite in keeping with the ultra feminine note struck by the mode, and we feel sure that these hats will be gratefully donned by ever so many women who have a penchant for the picturesque that they have not been able to express, sartorially at least, for some time.

THE two hats shown are each delightful examples of the new millinery mode. The large hat with wide brim framing the face should find many admirers this summer. It is by Le Monnier who makes it in black horsehair and embroiders it with rows of black chenille dots such as were used on veils. The knotted ribbon around the base of the crown is of black velvet. Horsehair will be much used this summer.

THE second hat is a smart little beret of supple straw, as created by the clever milliner, Georgette. It is of navy blue and white cellophane straw woven into braid and is therefore very flexible and can be pulled into as many shapes as the original "Basque beret." It is finished at the center of the crown with a pert little bow of the braid.

Leaves Your Hair Lovely and Alluring

A "Beauty Shampoo" in 10 minutes

Quickly, Easily, at a few cents cost—you can have a Real "Beauty Shampoo" that will give Your Hair a Loveliness, quite unobtainable by Ordinary Washing.

YOU CAN SAVE TIME, expense and inconvenience, by adopting this simple method of "beauty shampooing" which gives truly professional results at home.

The beauty of your hair, its sparkle . . . its gloss and lustre . . . depends, almost entirely, upon the way you shampoo it.

A thin, oily film, or coating, is constantly forming on the hair. If allowed to remain, it catches the dust and dirt—hides the life and lustre—and the hair then becomes dull and unattractive.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a glass or pitcher with a little warm water added, makes an abundance of . . . soft, rich, creamy lather . . . which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing with it every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Ordinary washing fails to satisfactorily remove this film, because—it does not clean the hair properly.

Besides—the hair cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali, in ordinary soaps, soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why women, by the thousands, who value beautiful hair, are using Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. It cleanses so thoroughly; is so mild and so pure, that it cannot possibly injure, no matter how often you use it.

You will notice the difference in the appearance of your hair the very first time you use Mulsified, for it will feel so delightfully clean, and be so soft, silky, and fresh-looking.

Try a Mulsified "Beauty Shampoo" and just see how quickly it is done. See how easy your hair is to manage, and how lovely and alluring it will look. See it sparkle—with new life, gloss and lustre.

Present, Past and Future Wives Amiable, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

WHEN we think of the so-called "eternal triangle," we think of unhappiness and heartaches, and that it is like a square peg trying to adjust itself to a round hole.

But there are triangles and triangles, the angles of which vary very much.

In the world of fashion and fame, where fortune and ambition are so abundant, the eternal triangle, three-sided as it is, fits perfectly into that circle.

Former wives, present wives, and future wives seem to mingle most amiably. The men in the case being so rich that they can afford to be nice to each other.

"I've had him!" says his former wife.

"I've got him!" says the present wife.

LOVEJOY

By BEATRICE BURTON

Lovejoy Faints When She Finds Baby Dying

CHAPTER XLVII.

AFTER three or four minutes of waiting she heard Steve's voice saying hello. It came faintly to her across the hundreds of miles that lay between them.

"Hello, Steve," she answered him, looking over her shoulder at Tom as she spoke.

He had not moved. He was sitting staring down at his hands that were spread out on the cloth in front of him.

"How are you, dear?" Steve asked in her ear.

"All right."

"How did you find the baby? Better?"

"No. He's just as sick as he can be. He doesn't know me, Steve. He just sleeps all the time—"

"I can't hear you, darling!" he interrupted her. "Are you close to the telephone? Listen to me, Lovejoy. I've found a place here in Minden for you and the baby. As soon as he's better—"

Lovejoy never heard the end of that sentence. She felt Tom's hand on her arm for an instant. Then he took the telephone out of her hands and put the receiver on its hook with a crash.

"That bird can talk to you all he wants to," he said roughly, "but he can't talk to you about my kid. See! Tommy still belongs to me, and don't you forget it!"

It was on the tip of Lovejoy's tongue to tell him that Tommy wouldn't belong to him much longer—that as soon as she could she was going to take him out west to the house that Steve had rented for her in Minden.

"But I mustn't say a word," she reminded herself.

The thing to do was to slip away quietly with the baby as soon as he was better.

Baby Worse

She mustn't even say a word about her plans to Aunt Em.

But some fine morning later on, when the baby was better, she would bundle him up and make her escape with him. She would be on a train and miles away before Aunt Em could let Tom know what she had done.

The telephone bell began to ring again.

"Don't touch the thing," Tom said shortly.

He walked over to the sideboard. He opened a drawer and took from it the big silence-cloth that Aunt Em used on the dining room table when she set it. He rolled the telephone up in it so that its shrill ringing was nothing more than a tiny thread of muffled sound.

Lovejoy heard him mutter something about the sound of it waking up the baby. She heard him swear softly to himself.

"I wish it would wake him up," she said. "He just lies there hour after hour almost as if he were dead."

"Yes, and he's been doing it for days, remember," Tom answered her, nodding his head solemnly at her from his side of the table. Fear and torment were written in his eyes and in every drawn line of his face.

He stood up and walked soundlessly into the little hall that ran between the dining room and the two bedrooms.

In a second he came back.

"Come here!" he said. "Something's happened to the baby. He's breathing. He's breathing too fast. A lot faster than he was a while ago. You come in and take a look."

He was breathing himself as if he had been running.

And he had vanished into the dimly-lighted bedroom once more before Lovejoy was half way around the table.

She needed only one look at young Tommy to see that something was dreadfully wrong with him.

Doctor Summoned

His closed eyes were sunk in deep shadowy circles and his breath came in jerks that shook his little body. It sounded as if he had a toy whistle down in his chest.

"Oh, Tom, what's happened to him?" Lovejoy wailed, her eyes wide with terror. "Tom, what will we do?—Tom, the baby—"

It was Tom who dashed out of the room and telephoned for Dr. Arnott.

Then she heard him open the front door of the flat and run up the stairs. There came a quick patter of feet on the floor above, the sharp closing of a door. A moment afterward Tom and Norrie Shane came back to the baby's room together.

"Get Lovejoy out of the room and you stay out too." Norrie's voice was crisp and commanding. "And call up to see if the doctor is on his way."

Lovejoy got up from the floor herself and went out of the room. She was like a dazed and frightened child as she let Tom lead her down the hall and into the living room.

"You'd better lie down, Lovejoy," he said to her. "You're all in."

He stood with his back to the room, watching out of the window for Dr. Arnott. Lovejoy lay looking at him.

"God," he said once, and in that one short word was all the impressiveness and the pleading of a prayer.

The doctor came with a pair of trousers and an overcoat pulled on over his pajama suit. He was the old-fashioned kind of doctor who knows when he is needed and gets there.

He shut himself into the baby's room with Norrie.

It must have been a half-hour later that Aunt Em woke up.

She came into the room where Lovejoy and Tom were sitting, her face wrinkled and rosy with sleep, her body looking twice its normal size in a gray flannel kimono.

"Baby worse?" she asked, and when she heard that he was she started for the sick room just as fast as she could go.

Sick Since Birthday

"No, you can't go in there!" It was Tom who stopped her. "The doctor's there with Norrie, and they're doing everything that they can for young Tommy. The best thing we can do is to stay out—all of us."

He was standing in front of the empty fire-place fingering a small pink object that lay on the mantel shelf.

After a while, when Aunt Em went out into the kitchen to make a pot of her eternal tea, he showed that little pink object to Lovejoy.

It was the candle that had stood on Tommy's birthday cake.

"Just think—ten days ago that little kid was fine and husky," he said. "Aunt Em baked him a birthday cake and covered it with pink frosting. He ate some of it—just a small piece—and he loved it. He'd have eaten the whole thing with the candle thrown in, if we'd let him have it."

He dropped the candle into the pocket of his shirt.

"That was the last good feed he had," he went on. "He was taken sick the morning afterward. Aunt Em says babies often are sick in hot weather like this."

Lovejoy turned her wet eyes up to him.

Cake Blamed

"Don't any of you realize that it must have been the cake that made the baby sick?" she asked. "Think of giving a tiny year-old baby cake with pink frosting on it! Oh, if I'd only been here . . ."

She buried her face in the pillows of the old couch.

"Can't you see that that's what is killing me?" she sobbed. "If I hadn't left my baby this wouldn't have happened — I might have known that Aunt Em with her old-fashioned notions about raising babies would feed him all sorts of things to make him sick—If Tommy dies it's my fault! I should have been here on the job!"

Tom did not try to comfort her.

"You certainly never should have left him," he said bluntly. "If you got tired of me—why that was your own business. But you should have stood by your baby. At least, until he was old enough to take care of himself. . . . And another thing, if Oglebay loves you the way he says he does, he'd have wanted you to have your baby with you."

"He does," said Lovejoy. "He's taken a house in Minden for us. He's going to hire a nurse for Tommy. He wants me to have Tommy when I'm married to him."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, March 4

THE lunar aspects ruling on this day lend favorable impetus to new ventures and to the affairs of closed corporations, combines, mergers and all secret organizations. It is a fortunate time for negotiating with these and for all subtle or diplomatic understandings.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of successful contacts with secret bodies, "rings," closed corporation, etc., or may succeed through diplomatic or strategic agreements. Subtle and mysterious influences prevail.

A child born on this day may have qualities of the subtle, mysterious and strategic, gaining eminence by such methods and associations.

'Lovejoy' Awards

WINNERS in the "Lovejoy" contest for the best letters on "How to Hold Your Wife" and "How to Hold Your Husband" will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph next Wednesday.

Lillian Reads Brixton Letter to Madge

I DO not know whether my eyes strayed unconsciously to Helena Brixton's letter as I laughingly answered Lillian's jest about reading to me while I worked or whether she herself had been only waiting an opportunity to read the missive to me. At any rate she picked up the envelope which lay close to her hand and took from it some sheets of note paper modish in form and texture and written in a beautiful hand.

"I want you to hear this anyway," she said. "I'd have read it to you all when I was in your apartment but I know how Harry hates to hear anything about the Brixtons."

"I don't believe it bothers him as much as it did," I said lamely, uneasy with the consciousness that I had promised her husband to set my "freak memory" to work and remember every word of the letter he expected Lillian would read to me. If I could only convince her of his complaisance perhaps she would read it to him herself and spare me the distasteful task he had set for me.

"I hope not," she retorted, "but I certainly am not going to try any experiments yet awhile. How about it? Shall I wait with this until you have finished pressing that coat of Noel's?"

"I wish you would," I said, testing my iron and slipping the sleeve of the coat over the tiny sleeve board she had brought me. "This is almost ready and it won't take a jiffy. Then I can listen in peace without fear that I'll get interested and scorch this."

"Allah forbid!" she intoned as I dampened a piece of cloth and spread it over the place I just darned. "To scorch the lad's best suit after mending it so neatly that no one can see the traces of your needle—that would be a tragedy. Me—I shall be mum as a mouse until the coat is hung up in its place in Noel's closet. I suppose that's what you're going to do with it, isn't it?"

I nodded and focusing all my attention upon the tiny iron, I pressed the mended place, approved it, showed it to Lillian, and then, with her praise following me, hung the coat in its place in Noel's closet, and returned what Lillian had dubbed the "pressing paraphernalia" to its place.

"I'll tell Noel about this before he sees the coat," I said as I returned to my seat opposite her. "I've done some of his mending before, as you know, and I shall try to be as tactful as I can in telling him that I saw the fresh tear when he came into the room and that I thought I would better fix it while it was comparatively no trouble. I think I can tell him without hurting him," I finished doubtfully.

"If you can't nobody can," Lillian returned with prompt cheerfulness, "and I'll see that you get the chance. I'll talk Christmas dope to Mary, probably show her your present, while you chant the saga of the torn coat to Noel. Now that we've settled the mending question, let's tackle the housing one. Perhaps you have an idea or two which will help Helena out."

She took up Helena Brixton's letter, while I felt my pulses quickening. But there was not the slightest tremor in her voice as she read it, though anyone could have heard in her tones the affection that is hers for the writer of the letter, whose intimate friendship with Lillian antedates mine but gives me no chance for envy.

"Lillian, dearest," it began. "I am so filled with my news that I have been frantic all the morning trying to find time to write to you. But here I am at my desk and I have vowed that nothing shall make me leave it again until you have this letter."

"Helena always writes as though she were the hurrying, flustered type of woman," Lillian commented, looking up at me, "but when you see her—well, you know the impression she gives."

I nodded, for I well remembered the easy grace of Helena Brixton, and, despite her genuine friendliness, the air of delicate remoteness, of detachment, which was hers. But this letter showed almost as much excitement as had Marion's which Lillian had read to us all in the other room.

"I can't understand how it has come about," the letter went on, "for Sam always has insisted that he couldn't live in any other city than Toledo even if he wanted to. He has always complained of his business being tied to Toledo with a chain and that he could only get away for a day or two at a time. Whenever we've gone on vacations it never has been far from the city, and until we came East to your home he never had been so far away from his business for so long a time. I am still wondering why he permitted Carolyn to come East to school."

I shot a furtive glance at Lillian. Was she echoing that wonder of Helena Brixton's with the same uneasiness I was experiencing?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

In Case of a Second Marriage.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Miss Alice Jones married John Smith. She divorces John Smith and subsequently marries Robert Allington. Does she then sign herself Alice Jones Allington, or is it permissible, with good taste, to sign herself Alice Smith Allington? In other words, is it permissible for a woman to incorporate the name of a divorced husband in her signature after marrying again? I know that a number of more or less prominent women do this to the extent that they make use of the names of all former husbands. I am asking you for this information because I have consulted a number of works on etiquette, including some of the best known. I have also asked a number of people whom I consider well informed, but nowhere have I been able to find anything to cover this particular point. F. R. P.

A WOMAN, when she marries again, should drop all forms of the name of a husband who has either died or been divorced. It is terrible form for Alice Jones to keep the name of Smith after she has divorced John Smith and married Robert Allington. Alice Jones Allington is her formal name. As a matter of fact, in a rather wide acquaintance and travel, I have never heard of a woman who has kept any part of her former husband's name when she remarried. Do you really know many women who have done this?

At the Young Lady's Convenience

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you please be kind enough to tell me what to do? I met a delightful young man about three weeks ago and we have become very good friends. He asked me if he might call on me some evening but I could not answer him as I am working out, and I have only one day off a week. What shall I tell him? WORRIED.

TELL him just that, and if he is a sincere young man, he will make it easy for you to make an engagement convenient to your convenience, at the time and place that you suggest.

The Afternoon Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am about to be married and I am going to have an afternoon ceremony and reception. My dad and mother are going to give me away. Will you please tell me whether it is appropriate for my mother to wear a hat?

2. I am also going to have a matron of honor. Is it proper for her to wear a hat?

3. My ushers are going to wear striped trousers, double-breasted jackets. Is it appropriate for them to carry canes? B. C.

YES, it is.

2. Yes.

3. Yes; they leave them, of course, with their hats and overcoats in a place indicated by the sexton.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Little Causes of Big Divorces

THE reasons for which women divorce their husbands these days are getting sillier and sillier—more and more irrational.

It was bad enough to break up a home because your husband used the wrong fork or pinched the toothpaste at the wrong end.

But now we have the spectacle of a young wife applying for freedom with alimony, because her husband insists on staying in the house evenings, which is equivalent to having a tooth pulled because it DOESN'T ache you.

Another sensitive young thing wants to cut the tie-that-binds her to her charming spouse because he has a complex for moving pictures with thrilling and passionate love scenes. Think of it! Jealous of a few reels of celluloid!

Yet how happy you and I would be, dear heart, if our two hundred pounds of Tired-Business-Man could be dragged out to that kind of pictures! A man who can take his romantic adventures and all his thrills vicariously ought to be a prize husband.

Lots of little married women would have forgotten what love's young dream was like if they could not refresh their memories and imaginations by getting a few vicarious thrills at the movies.

Human nature MUST have some way of escaping from the realities and indulging in its dreams. Only a brand-new bride will try to censor her husband's thoughts and dreams. After a few years of domesticity a wife is only too glad if her darling will take it all out in his imagination.

Every man and woman has, somewhere deep down inside a longing for the romantic, the glamorous, the beautiful, the exotic. We are all Peter Pans at heart.

Lucky the woman who is married to a man who can get all his complexes and inhibitions out of his system just by sitting in a darkened movie theater and gazing at pictures of alluring women, of wild whoopee parties.

That's what plays and books and music and movies are FOR!

To take us away from realities, waft us upward on a magic carpet and let us roam in fancy through a land of romance and delight, where all the men are handsome and gallant, all the women are lovely and alluring, all the days are trances and all the nights are dreams.

But some women would feel that a husband was unfaithful if he looked twice at the Statue of Liberty.

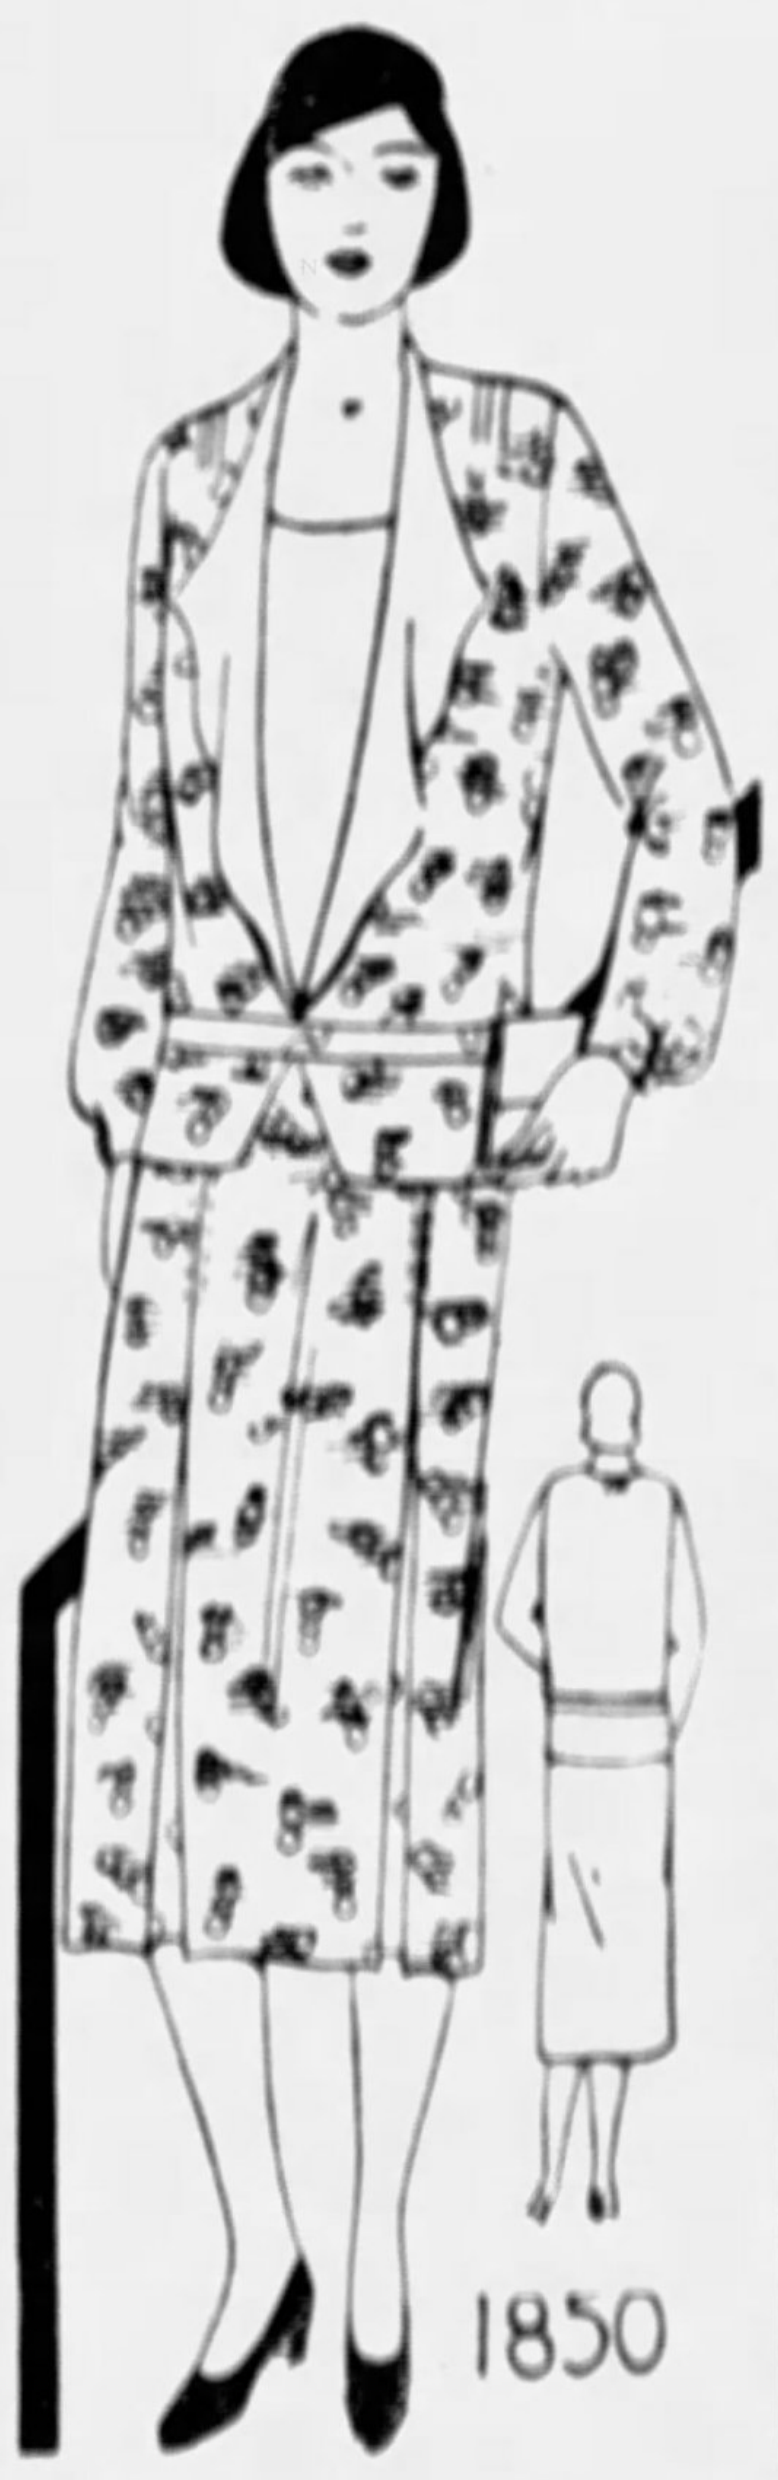
Designed for Matured Figures

Pattern 1850

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



By ANNE ADAMS.

If you are no longer slender you will enjoy this frock designed especially for larger women. The touch of softness given by flared revers is most becoming, and the length given by the vestee, skirt pleats and pointed joining of skirt and blouse, is particularly good. Note the puffed sleeves above fitting cuffs, a detail entirely new.

Pattern 1850 is charming made of printed silk crepe and trimmed with a solid color. Dark grounds with very small designs are not apt to enlarge the figure—black with chartreuse, navy blue with gray, brown with tan or green with beige. The trimming may be beige, gray or flesh.

May be obtained only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 requires $3\frac{1}{2}$ yards of 40-inch material and $\frac{3}{4}$ yard trimming.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our NEW SPRING BOOK of PATTERN STYLES is now ready. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Household Hints

To cut perfect squares of butter for table service, cut the butter into slices, then dip the knife into hot water and cut the slices of butter into squares. One slice of butter will yield four small squares.

Onion juice applied immediately will often remove scorch marks from clothes.

All pickles are improved by the addition of two or three lumps of sugar to the vinegar.

A great deal of labor is saved when cleaning silver, aluminum and so on, if the powder is applied with a cork.

CHICKIE

hint! He couldn't. He's too kind—"

A faint scorn touched his lips. "You have it your own way, Chickie. I haven't said anything about Jake so far as I know."

"It's worse than if you did, and not half as honest."

"Oh, so? Well, I'm sorry." He didn't look at her. The young mouth she liked so well because it was full and sweet and very gay shut fiercely. "Perhaps you know your own business, Chickie, but I'm not sure whether you do or not. If you want to go on a trip like this and take all the gayety that comes, why, that's all right! That's fine. Only you've never acted that way . . . ."

Hot tears shot into her eyes, she said bitterly: "What's the use of living if things are like this . . . ."

He looked at her intently. Seeing her drooping and white like a sad, beautiful flower, his senses quickened. He took her hands eagerly: "Listen, Chickie—why so miserable? Lots of things in the world besides a trip on a yacht."

"Well, I wanted to go. I just wanted it like anything. Oh, I think it's too frightful to be always looking for hideous things!"

Janina Sarcastic

He could scarcely keep the buoyant note from his voice: "You aren't going, then?"

Her lids kept blinking. She said bleakly: "It's 1 o'clock. I'll be late. I wish I didn't have to go back to work."

When they reached her building he said insistently: "Please tell me, Chickie. You aren't going?"

"Oh, I don't know what to do! No matter what you say—I don't believe such things. I don't!"

As she came into the office, Janina's eyes met hers with a soft, knowing smile. Later she said: "Well—rather gorgeous, isn't it? Oh, don't look so startled. Ida was telling me. Have you arranged to get the time off?"

"I haven't arranged anything!"

"Well, you better, my dear! Better have it all fixed up! There won't be any running home to papa this trip!"

Chickie answered, flushing, but with a sublime effort to be superficial. "What trip is this you speak of, ole thing?"

"The trip that hasn't any comeback, lil' violet! I shan't be pitying you much longer!"

Chickie managed a look of pitying disdain, walked off quickly, sick with agitation. Once during the afternoon she looked across the alley. Barry Dunne came swiftly from the shadow. He leaned with both hands on the window sill. His lips drew together. To her astonishment, a thrill, like a soft breeze, swept through her thoughts.

But at 5 o'clock she went through the building and out a side door. She didn't want to meet him. She didn't want to meet Jake.

Decides Not to Go

In the kitchen, Jennie was sewing—pale pink crepe and lace. She was making a camisole.

"For me, sweet Jennie?"

"Who else? I might as well. I have the goods. You'll need plenty on such a grand trip as this."

She said abruptly, startling herself: "I'm not going! It's all off. Well, you see—I can't get off! We're terrible busy. Oh, I don't care! There's lots of time."

She spent the whole evening writing a letter to Jake Munson. When she finished it was but a stiff, timid, pathetic thing—quite different from her blithe chatter.

"Dear Jake—You are so kind to want to take me on this glorious trip and I really would just love to go. But seein' as things is as is I can't. Mother isn't very well. She is terribly afraid of the water and would be worried all the time. Please don't think me ungrateful, but it's just impossible for me to go.

CHICKIE."

She didn't even notice the resentful tear that blurred the last line. She folded the sheet hastily, thinking dully: "Well, that's ended! I wonder what I've done."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

That Tired Feeling

DR COPELAND

If you have too little red blood or blood that is impoverished, it is hard to carry on. Life seems to be all uphill work. You feel tired much of the time, you are cold, you have no endurance nor ambition.

The circulation of the blood is a wonderful thing. It is constantly circulating through every part of the body, through the lungs, through the heart, everywhere. About one-thirteenth of the body weight is supplied by the blood. If you weigh 169 pounds, you possess about 13 pounds of blood. A boy of 78 pounds has 6 pounds or about 3 quarts of blood.

The blood contains red and white cells, or corpuscles. There are about five millions of red cells in a cubic millimeter of blood. It takes 25 millimeters to make an inch, so you can imagine that a cube, 1 millimeter to each side, represents a pretty small space. In one single drop are 150 million red cells.

The redness in the cells comes from the "hemoglobin," or coloring matter in them. These cells carry oxygen from the lungs to every nook and cranny of the body. In some mysterious way the oxygen combines with the hemoglobin, and the amount of purifying oxygen a cell can carry depends on the quantity of hemoglobin in it.

You can see that when these red cells possess only half of the normal amount of hemoglobin needed, the body is going to get only half of the oxygen it needs. The blood is then pale and the human body suffers.

Undernourishment and impoverishment of the blood is the cause. Anemia, malaria, blood-poisoning, poisoning from the use of drugs and narcotics, bad burns of the body, and other troubles cause destruction of these red blood corpuscles.

It takes some time to build up the red cells of the body to normal after such bodily ailments. The nourishment and welfare of every tissue of the human body demand an abundance of rich blood. It cannot be rich unless the lungs are widely opened to receive plenty of fresh, clean, invigorating air, and the stomach is furnished with nourishing and digestible food. Breathe deeply. Fill your lungs with unadulterated, fresh air.

And added to this, you must have clean water to drink, clean houses to live in, clean clothing to wear, and clean bodies. The skin will not be in a healthy condition to do its work—for the blood circulates here too—if bathing is not made a regular habit. Certainly the exposed parts of the body need constant washing every day.

All these things done, your strength and ambition will return, your skin will be more colorful, your step will quicken and life will seem more worth while to you.

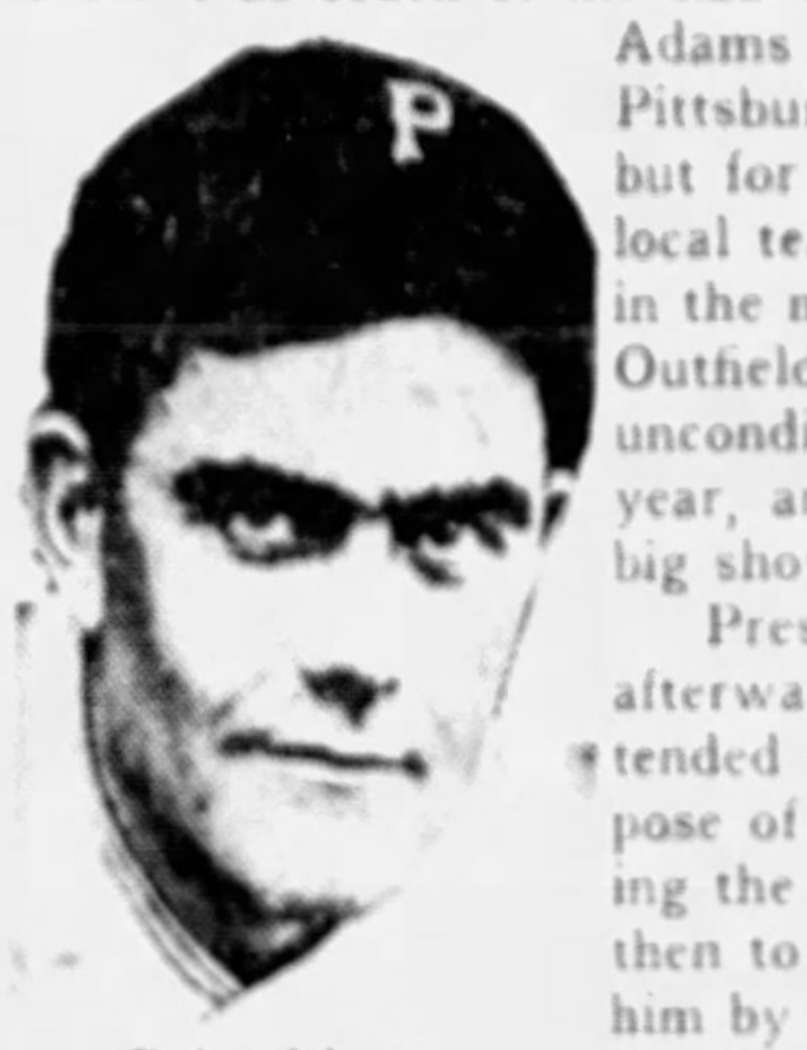
BABE MISSES CHANCE AS SLAB TUTOR.



Babe Adams

THE appearance of Jean Dubuc, former major league pitcher, at the training camp of the Detroit Tigers in Tampa, Fla., to serve as coach of the slab condidates, recalls that old Babe Adams would have been retained by the Pittsburgh Pirates in a similar capacity but for the internal strife that tore the local team apart in 1926. For his part in the memorable flare-up, Adams, with Outfielder Carson Bigbee, was released unconditionally on August 13 of that year, and that was his farewell to the big show.

President Barney Dreyfuss said afterward that the local club had intended to use Babe merely for the purpose of finishing occasional games during the remainder of the 1926 race, and then to create a sort of pension job for him by making him permanent coach of the Pirate pitchers. As it was, however, Babe had to go. Otherwise, he might still be one of the side figures in the fast company that once numbered him among its leading lights, and in which he outlived all other hurlers of his time.

DUBUC, first with the Reds in the majors in 1908 and 1909, and later on the Detroit staff for five years under Hughey Jennings, is 41 years old and has been out of the select set for a long time, but Manager Bucky Harris believes he can improve the Tiger pitchers, particularly in the use of the slow ball, of which he once was a master.

Jean has already saved one Detroit flinger from going to the minors. John Prudhomme won only one game last year and recently was ticketed for the sticks, but Dubuc pleaded for his retention in the belief that he will be able to make a pitcher of him. Prudhomme, though a flop in his first season, has height, weight and build that impress Dubuc favorably, and the veterans says he can see no reason why he should not, with the proper tutoring, develop into a winner.

SPEAKING of old pitchers, Urban Faber is making his usual slow and careful start at the White Sox training camp in San Antonio, but Manager Donie Bush is counting upon him for another good season with more confidence than he places in some of his younger men.

Urban Faber

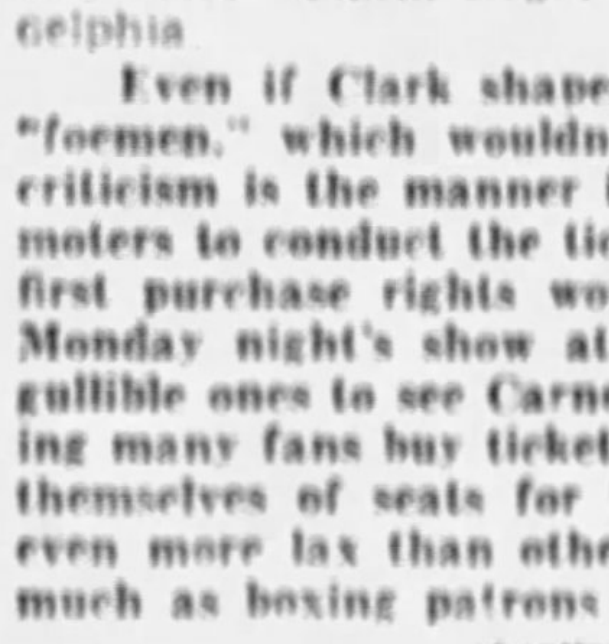
Only two flingers older than Faber remain in the major leagues. They are Jack Quinn, of the Athletics, who will be 45 on July 5, according to the dope books—and they have been accused of giving him a long count—and Grover Alexander, of the Phillies, who has just turned 43.

FABER will be 42 on September 6. He is one of only four surviving spitballers, the others being Quinn, Burleigh Grimes and Clarence Mitchell. This will be Urban's seventeenth consecutive season in the majors, but he was good enough to win 13 games against the same number of defeats last year, and Bush is convinced that he still has a lot of fine pitching in his system. It was the Pittsburgh club that first brought Faber into the main tent. The Pirates drafted him from Dubuque for 1910, farmed him back to that club, recalled him in August and tried him again in the spring of 1911.

CLAUDE HENDRIX also had joined the Bucs that spring, and it was eventually decided to keep Hendrix and let Faber go, with the result that Urban was released to Minneapolis in May. Later he drifted to Des Moines, from which club the White Sox bought him for the 1914 season for $3,000.

In his 16 campaigns on the Comiskey payroll, Faber has won 229 games for the White Sox against 168 defeats, a percentage of .577. His best seasons were those of 1921 and 1915, when he won 25 and 24 games respectively. In only two years has he lost more games than he won.

HOCKEY managers are not of one mind on the matter of liquor rules during the playing season. Take Lionel Conacher and Lester Patrick, skippers of New York's two big league teams, for example. Conacher follows a free-and-easy policy, though not permitting abuses, whereas the tightest kind of lines are drawn by Patrick.



Lionel Conacher

"Drink if you feel the urge," Conacher tells his players, "but I want you to do it while I am looking. I don't want you to do it behind my back. If I catch one of you at it I'll punch the everlasting daylights out of the man who double-crosses me."

PATRICK, on the other hand, will not stand for anything of the sort. "I won't have it," he says. "If a player is a drinker he isn't on my team, and that's all there is to it. I don't like too many liquids of any sort. Certainly, a player may smoke, provided it is done in moderation. But sleep, digestion and wind are not the most important adjuncts to the hockey player. His continued success depends upon his legs more than upon anything else. Why, do you know, there are dozens of little muscles in the foot alone? And every one of them comes into play when you skate."

WHILE in Pittsburgh last month, Chairman Frank Wiener, of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, declared that the purpose of the commission was properly to supervise the boxing game and not to conduct sideshows, adding that Primo Carnera would not be permited to box in this state unless he consented to meet a worthy opponent. Tonight will tell what sort of judge the chairman is in passing on a "worthy opponent," as Carnera is being allowed to meet Roy (Ace) Clark, Negro heavyweight, in Wiener's home city, Philadelphia.

Even if Clark shapes up better than the Italian giant's earlier "foemen," which wouldn't be very hard to do, one feature open to criticism is the manner in which the commission permitted the promoters to conduct the ticket sale. It was announced in advance that first purchase rights would be given to patrons who attended last Monday night's show at the same club. As the usual rush of the gullible ones to see Carnera was assured, that had the effect of making many fans buy tickets for the show a week ago in order to assure themselves of seats for tonight. In that respect Pennsylvania was even more lax than other states that have stood for Carnera, inasmuch as boxing patrons were in a sense made to pay twice for the

The entire soccer card in Western Pennsylvania yesterday was wiped out because of unsuitable weather conditions.

BUCS IN FIRST BIG DRILL

FIVE OF NINE GAMES TO BE PLAYED HERE

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech's varsity football card for 1930, released for publication today through the office of Der Maxie Hannum, public relations counsel at Tech, is a typical Overendian bit of artistry, and is designed to carry the name of Carnegie to all sections of the country, save the West Coast and the Scandanavian.

Bob Waddell

It is a schedule that will give even the astute Mr. Robert Waddell and Wally Steffen many a sleepless night, but one that will cause the finaucial minded Mr. Overend to seek his repose with nothing but love and good feeling toward his fellow man.

Carnegie will play nine football games next fall, five of which will be held in the Pitt Stadium. The Skibos will appear in Buffalo, Philadelphia, Cleveland and South Bend, and maybe, just maybe, they'll go West again for a show in the Rose Bowl. Figger that out yourself.

SCHEDULE COLORFUL

In the terse style of Brother Hannum follow the features of the card:

1.—The trails of four traditional foes will be crossed on the barred field.

2.—The opening game will be played away from home.

3. There will be one game after Thanksgiving Day.

4.—Three new foes will appear against the Plaid.

The schedule follows, words by Overend and music by Hannum: September 27—Buffalo University at Buffalo, N. Y.; October 4—Thiel College, Pitt Stadium; October 11—Georgia Tech, Pitt Stadium; October 18—Notre Dame at South Bend; October 25—Western Reserve, at Cleveland; November 1—New York University, Pitt Stadium; November 8—Pitt, Pitt Stadium; November 22—Temple University, at Philadelphia; November 29—Wash-Jeff at Pitt Stadium.

CAGE RACES HOT

Following last week's play among the basketballers, the championship race situations are in somewhat of a turmoil. Westminster, with triumphs over both Duquesne and Grove City, is sitting pretty, both in the Conference and district title chases. Pitt confined its efforts to kicking over Carnegie Tech and then going East to flop the Army for the third year in a row.

Allegheny rivaled Pitt and Westminster, winning two games. First the Methodists took Geneva and then they set down Thiel. Bethany also beat Geneva, which didn't do the Covenanter cause any great good.

The Dukes, afte losing to Westminster, hopped toward the East and lost to Manhattan and New York City College.

TARTANS DROP FINAL

Carnegie brought its season to a close by bowing to Geneva's Covenanters. The Tartans remained consistent to the last, and had it not been for a triumph over Penn State, would have wound up a campaign without victory.

ST. VINCENT'S PLAYS

LATROBE, Pa., March 3.—The St. Vincent's College basketball team will close its season tomorrow night when it clashes with the Butler Y team at the Latrobe armory. The game with Butler will make the seventeenth game for the Bearcats. Crowe hopes to make it the tenth victory before the uniforms are hung up for the year.

TOMORROW—A NATURAL PROFILE OF WASHINGTON

L. WANER SLOW IN RECOVERING FROM KNIFE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 3.—The Pirate training camp this morning took on the right hue as more than 40 athletes rushed hither and thither to be on hand for the first big workout of the preparatory season. What a scramble it was with the late arrivals getting all fixed up for their first frolic.

The second squad, led by Scout Willie Hinchman, landed at Paso Robles on time. Others docked during the day or evening, so that this morning Manager Ens was able to order a dandy roll call.

The first thing on the program after the players dressed for the battlefield was a meeting, where Ens will give instructions to the big squad. Ens wasn't sure at breakfast time whether he would order one or two workouts. He said he felt that one long session would be quite the thing on the first day. If the weather is propitious the players will limber up for something like three hours beginning at 10:30 Pacific Coast time.

L. WANER UNDER WEIGHT

Considerable concern was expressed over Lloyd Waner, who came in with the others. Lloyd, it develops, was ill just before he boarded the train at Kansas City. After returning from Pittsburgh to his Oklahoma home, following his appendicitis operation, the little star did not pick up in any marked manner—in fact, he didn't gain any weight.

When Lloyd arrived here yesterday afternoon he weighed 132 pounds. That figure is about a dozen pounds below his playing weight, and 12 pounds to the wee centerfielder makes a terrific difference.

"I am not a pound heavier than I was on the day I came out of the hospital," said Lloyd, although he was not discouraged. He disclosed that his stomach was in bad shape, giving him considerable trouble. Apparently it is too soon to feel the benefits of the operation, but there is no doubt Lloyd is worried lest the operation did not reach the stomach ailment that has bothered him for the past two years.

P. WANER ENTHUSIASTIC

In contrast to the condition of Lloyd, Brother Paul could not restrain his enthusiasm as he disembarked. Less than 30 minutes after the arrival, Paul and George Grantham were in the big swimming pool where the star rightfielder executed a series of fancy dives. Paul is a dandy on the diving board. Later he was seen in one of the hotel lounging rooms doing backsprings for the edification of the Buccos.

The elder member of the Waner act also underwent the knife this winter. Paul had his tonsils removed about a week after Lloyd's operation in Pittsburgh. Evidently this operation was a huge success, for Brother Paul was cutting up like a colt from the time he reached the scene until he re-

MAYBERRY MAY HALT RODGERS

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Can Howard Mayberry, grizzled ring veteran of Donora, who recently halted the bid of Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, for ring fame by out-generaling him in a 10-round bout in the Moose Temple, when all of the dope pointed to a victory for the rangy younger man, repeat two triumphs over Jackie Rodgers when they meet in the same ring Friday night?

Mayberry

Ask the average man on the street that question and he'll probably tell you that Rodgers, with seven straight victories to his credit, should take the "old man" like nobody's business. But will he?

In their first bout, more than a year ago, at McKeesport, Mayberry was fouled and badly hurt at the very start, but he came back and at the finish had Rodgers on Queer street. In a second meeting, at the Moose Temple, he handily outboxed his dusky foe.

MAY UPSET DOPE

That was in the days before Rodgers hit his present winning stride and was dropping decisions to every Tom, Dick and Henry. He seemed to be content to box in lackadaisical fashion. Now, though, he is a rushing, crowding, punching demon. There are those who will tell you that he ought to be able to punch Mayberry through the latter's defense of gloves and knock him kicking. Howard, however, is one of those cagy veterans who are extremely difficult to hit solidly and it is a question of how Rodgers will carry on if this seasoned campaigner happens to stand up under his hardest onslaughts for a half-dozen or so rounds.

On paper, it looks like a setup for Jackie. But, on past performances, it is one of those things wherein the favorite has everything to lose and nothing to gain. Rodgers has a big bout in the making for the reopening show at Motor Square Garden on

SARAZEN COPS GOLF TITLE

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 3—(AP)—Gene Sarazen, of New York, won the fifteenth annual Florida West Coast open golf tournament yesterday with a 72-hole score of 282.

He started the final round three strokes behind Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., but uncorked a brilliant 69, one stroke under par, and when the final scores were posted, he held a three-stroke lead over Turnesa, who was second with 285.

The victory was worth $1,000 to Sarazen. He also received a gold medal and will have his name inscribed on the Morton Plant trophy.

In third place, two strokes behind Turnesa, came Johnny Farrell, New York. He in turn led Bobby Cruickshank, another New Yorker, by a single stroke. Harry Cooper, Los Angeles, who scored a fine 65 Saturday, finished fifth with 290.

TWO CORSAIR ROOKIES OUT

By Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 3.—Two rookies were missing this morning when Manager Ens assembled his squad of ball tossers. The two absentees were unsigned lads who came here for workouts. They are Tommy Heath, Ventura High school boy, and Hal McTavish, semi-pro performer from Santa Barbara.

Heath, just 16, and the youngest player to report here, made a big impression on Manager Ens. Vice President Sam Dreyfuss sent the kid receiver on his way rejoicing by telling him that the Pirates would like to have the first crack at his services when he finishes his high school course. Tommy, a likable lad, said he would be glad to cast his lot with Pittsburgh, but he wants to remain in school now. He was brought to camp by Larry French, who also resides in California.

McTavish was not so fortunate. This powerful recruit has been catching and playing first base. Manager Ens decided he could not use him and did not think he could place him.

The Pirates do not have any farms in this district and it costs a lot to send a rookie eastward. McTavish was not signed to a Pirate contract, so a release was not necessary.

In giving out this information Dreyfuss also disclosed that Floyd Young, the Dixie boy who became ill on the way to training camp, had been sold outright to Columbia, of the South Atlantic League. The Pittsburgh Club owns Columbia, which means that Young is a young Pirate and will advance if he is as good as his boosters say he is.

In Bill Hinchman's party, when it landed here, were Hinchman, Pie Traynor, Paul and Lloyd Waner, Mrs. Lloyd Waner, George Grantham, Fred Brickell, Adam Comorosky, Marty Fielder, Larmon Cox and Burl Pharr.

Fiedler, manager of the Johnstown Club last season, will handle the Columbia farm for the Pirates this year. Marty is himself an infielder and he will work out with the Pirates. Meantime, he will get together with the Pittsburgh directors on the matter of recruiting his team for the year. He resides in Los Angeles.

Cox and Pharr are outfielders. The first-named starred for the Port Worth Club, of the Texas League, last season. Pharr is a semi-pro from the wide spaces of Arkansas. He was recommended to the Pirates by Claude Linton, former Pirate catcher, who lives in the same part of Arkansas.

Most of the Pirates, including Manager Ens, attended a barbecue given in their honor yesterday. The athletes were whisked 15 miles to the Hillman Ranch, where they enjoyed the festivities. But the Buccos refrained from taking part in any of the rough riding.

Facts and Fancies About Our New Bucs

(This is the third of a series of thumbnail sketches of the new Pirate players sent from the Paso Robles (Cal.) training camp by Charles J. Doyle, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph staff correspondent. Others will follow in rapid order.)

NO. 3.—JIMMY MOSOLF, OUTFIELDER.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 3.—The depth of baseball's appeal never has been sounded, but we have many striking cases that give a general idea as to how the sport fascinates our youth. Take the instances of the sons of millionaires who did not have quite enough ability to stay in the big leagues, but would have sold their birthright for a mess of baseball, and there are many other examples to the point.

Jimmy Mosolf

Jimmy Mosolf is not a millionaire's son by any means. The name originally was Prussian, but Jim's mother was born in Ireland and he seems to have inherited much of the Irish love for sport. In high school, at Tacoma, he was a star in every branch of sport, but as he entered the University of Washington he ran afoul of eligibility laws. It seems that Jim played a couple of baseball games in the timber league, even as other boys have done and for this reason he was prevented from taking part in college athletics.

This turn might have discouraged some boys, but Mosolf was set on getting an education. He was deprived of working his way through on school athletics, so he had to look to other pursuits. Thus he went into professional baseball on a large scale, making enough money in the summer to pay his college fees in the regular term. As a result, he soon will get a liberal arts degree with the prospect of getting a law degree within two years. So it will be seen that Mosolf has accomplished much for a boy of 22.

Jimmy's ambition is to be a marine lawyer and with this end in view he will sail the seas for a year as a part of the course. Indeed, he already has put in two months on the water. The international flavor that goes with marine law appeals to Jim, but nothing counts as much as baseball right now.

A high spot in the lad's life was felt in 1926. In that year the city of Tacoma was installing a mammoth power proposition which was to be started by President Coolidge, who pressed a button in Washington. Jimmy was chosen by the city to go to Washington on the big occasion. His popularity as a student and athlete won him the distinction. He made a short speech to the President, who, he said, asked him questions for 15 minutes in Coolidge's private sanctum.

Mosolf, a big star at Wichita last year, is one of the most promising youngsters in the Pirates' camp. He looks like a great hitter and he is fast. He is an outfielder, but Manager Ens intends to work him around first base also.

Both schools are [illegible] having been contestants in last year's tourney.

Last year, after [illegible] by New Brighton and [illegible] Township, Uniontown was [illegible] out in the semi-finals by Bellevue. Ford City drew a bye in the first round and lost to [illegible] 26-10-22 in a nip and tuck game in the second.

TEAMS DARK HORSES

Both of tonight's contesting fives are regarded as being dark horses. Were they not meeting in the first round both would be considered good bets against any other teams in the tourney, but now that one must fall by the way-side, the outcome remains much in doubt.

Tomorrow another lower bracket contest will be run off with Coraopolis, Section XI title winners, clashing with New Kensington, victors in Section I, playing.

Fifth Avenue and South Hills resume their duel for the City League title by playing the second, and what may be the final game of the series in the Stadium tomorrow afternoon. Fifth staged a great second half comeback to win the first encounter last Friday, and is favored to end it all by taking the second game tomorrow.

Record Score Set In A. B. C. Tourney

CLEVELAND, March 3.—(INS)—With a record score thus far in the tournament of 2,729 to shoot at, 82 five-man Cleveland booster teams will resume bombardment here today at the American Bowling Congress against "King Louie" and his army of nine pot-bellied maples.

After two days of steady fire at the championship play, the Cleveland Hardward Shipping Room quintet emerged today with the highest team total to date. Those pin-artists rolled the respectable score of 2,729 in a series of 828, 893 and 1,008, which incidentally beats the first A. B. C. five-man record of 2,720, set 30 years ago.

Today's play in the bowling festival here will get under way at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. A second shift will take the runways at 8:00 p. m. and a third at 10:30 p. m. The shifts represent 82 five-man teams.

tired. But Paul always is much livelier off the field than Lloyd.

Grantham looks like a million dollars following his troubles of last summer. George has been taking special treatment for the past several weeks and he thinks he is in dandy condition again. The Altoona greyhound is as brown as a berry, but Boots invariably looks like a champion from March until August. Then he runs into some sort of a physical setback as a rule.

First Baseman Gus Suhr was in the focus of attention although Suhr and his actions are not strange to most of the Pirates who had been competing against him in many previous springs. Gus will jump right into first base play with Grantham on second.

Ens said he probably would refrain from putting his first string infielders through any set course today. He wants these boys to get loosened up gradually, owing to their long ride.

Capt. Pie Trainor was the picture of health as he landed. Pie weighed in at something beyond 180 pounds. He needs all the extra weight he can get, for he goes at a furious clip in the middle of the race and therefore takes off a lot of poundage.

Boxer Babe Herman Recovers After Kayo

BUENOS AIRES, March 3.—(INS)—Babe Herman, American middleweight veteran, was said to be out of danger today following his knockout in a bout with Justo Suarez, Argentine champion, Saturday night.

When the Babe failed to respond to his handlers' efforts to revive him following the knockout it was believed he had fractured his skull in falling and he was rushed to a hospital. There he remained unconscious for many hours and fears were held for his recovery, but it was stated today that he was making good progress.

Doubles Bowling Record Is Broken

KANSAS CITY, March 3.—(INS)—The world record for a two-man bowling team rolling in a sanctioned league and on A. B. C. alleys was held here today by Ed Kelly and Barney McCoy, of the Fairfax Airport team. Kelly and McCoy rolled 1,450 in a match here yesterday, which was nine pins better than the recent mark made by Leo Mueller and Jess Young, of Minneapolis.

And a victory for Mayberry under the circumstances surely would merit the reward for him.

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—Pittsburgh's Pirates, crippled by injuries, took a 3-to-0 beating from the Chicago Blackhawks in a National League hockey match here last night.

Hib Milks was out of action and the Pirates made few threats to score. Herb Drury played a whale of a game for Pittsburgh, but had little help. Chicago scored three goals in the first period and played just hard enough after that to keep the Pirates at bay.

The contest was uninteresting for the most part and provided little for the small crowd to cheer about. The victory, coupled with the New York Rangers' tie at Detroit, put the Hawks back in a tie for second place in the American group.

The Pirates blossomed out with a nice attack near the end of the contest, but the net result was to give Chuck Gardiner, Hawk goalie, an opportunity for a great play. Drury and MacKinnon had the puck in front of the net and worked in close enough for a shot. Drury tried it and had Gardiner off his feet and out of the cage. MacKinnon took the rebound and apparently had a wide open shot, but Gardiner sprawled back into the cage and saved. Drury had another shot just as the game closed. The lineup:

Shaw Protests 'Foul Tactics Of Boxing

LONDON, March 3.—George Bernard Shaw broke into print again, protesting against the "foul tactics of boxing."

"Fouls in boxing have become the regular thing," he told an interviewer. "It will become a serious matter for the sport. Newspapers have the remedy in their own hands. I think it would make matters better if they would drop boxing from their columns for a period of 20 years.

"That might bring boxers to their senses and we might get a clean and decent sport. It is wrong, however, to give Americans all the blame for introducing the rough element into the sport. I have only seen two fights in the last 30 years. At the last one a British boxer deliberately led with his head. The referee ignored it, so who can wonder at the sport's roughness?"

Wittenberg May Rejoin Conference

COLUMBUS, O., March 3.—(AP.)—The Buckeye Intercollegiate Athletic Conference has unanimously adopted a resolution to the effect that whenever Wittenberg is prepared to live up to both the letter and spirit of the Buckeye rules, it will consider Wittenberg's application for readmission.

GIANTS LIKELY TO SIGN EDDIE ROUSH SOON

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 3.—(AP.)—Eddie Roush, veteran outfielder, finally has opened negotiations with the New York Giants in an effort to iron out a troublesome salary dispute. The chances are that Roush will be signed within a few days, according to club officials.

Making up for time lost because of recent rains, the Giants went through a long workout yesterday. The big surprise of the day was the assignment of Mel Ott, clouting outfielder, to second base. Ott played second for a few days in spring training last year, but was in the outfield all through the regular season.

Camp Notes

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, is enjoying a new experience: he has so much good material for several positions that he hasn't yet decided what to do with it all.

Especially around second base and shortstop is Robbie embarrassed by too many candidates. Glenn Wright, Gordon Slade and Jack Warner all are avowed candidates for shortstop and Jake Flowers, Mickey Finn and Eddie Moore would like to play second base. Wright, of course, has the inside track for shortstop provided his arm holds up, and Flowers is setting the pace for the second basemen.

SUSCE AFTER BERTH

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Four youthful but rugged catchers today began a battle to decide which would be selected first string backstop for the Phillies. The death of Peck Lerian just as he had developed into one of the best in the league left Manager Shotton without a first class receiver and he has been shopping for one for months.

Heinie Groh Purchases Canton Club

CANTON, O., March 3.—(AP.)—Heinie Groh, whose bottle bat and smart third basing made him famous first with the Cincinnati Reds, and then with the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, has purchased the Canton Terriers, of the Central League.

Groh wired acceptance of terms from his home in Rochester, N. Y. He will manage the club and play an infield position. He succeeds Jimmy Hamilton, who won the Central League flag and then beat Quincy of the Three-Eye League for the Class B championship of the Middle West last year.

BUSH TO SWING AX

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 3.—(AP.)—As the third week of training opened today, Manager Donie Bush prepared to start bolt the rookie list of the Chicago White Sox.

It is commonly believed the unlucky ones will be the greener members of the hurling staff. And added to these may be Lanky George Cox, whose arm again shows signs of giving out on him as it did last season after he had turned in some impressive spring training work.

DOUBLE DUTCH WINS

AUTEUIL, France, March 3.—(AP.)—Double Dutch, 5-year-old by Sansonnet, youngest thoroughbred in the field, won the Bougival stakes, at two miles and three furlongs here yesterday and paid 5 to 1 in the betting. Prince Du Sang was second and Humar third.

doubtful privileges of seeing the fast Venetian in action.

THE incorporation of coaching courses in the college curriculum as part of Hugo Bezdek's plan for physical education on a broad scale at Penn State has the hearty indorsement of such a veteran athletic authority as Ernie Hjertberg.

Coaching courses have been curriculum features at Ohio State, Illinois and other institutions of learning for some time, but the Bezdek idea is the first instance of their being credited toward a college degree, and Hjertberg votes it a splendid step.

Hugo Bezdek

HJERTBERG, formerly head coach of the Swedish Olympic team and of the Irish-American A. C. in New York, is planning to start a summer course himself exclusively for track instructors at Rice Institute in Houston, Tex. "Let me tell you that the coaching in the American colleges isn't all that it should be, especially in track," he is quoted. "It is true that college men have been successfull in coaching football, but the reason for that is that football is in the main a college game. The best track coaches we have—Lawson Robertson, Harry Hillman, Steve Farrell and Harry Gill—are not college men. Moreover, it is ridiculous to hire former star athletes as coaches for no other reason than that they have made names for themselves as individual performers, since so many factors enter into the making of a competent teacher."

Remarkably Active for a Man His Age

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says Warren Cook of 595 W. 207th Street, New York. "I found out that by taking ACIDINE three or four nights a week, I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to sit right, or make me miserable from the indigestion and gas I used to have so regularly."

Sick, sour stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in the throat and gassy belching usually come from too much acid when your stomach doesn't digest the starchy food you eat. Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect it will do it without help. That's why more than two million people are now using ACIDINE regularly, to enjoy good appetite and freedom from distress and pain after eating. You can get ACIDINE at any drug store.

Wherever you go Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency...join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

"It serves him right," we say when the filthy spitter is caught in the act. For spitting is an outrage against public decency. And yet, thousands continue to smoke cigars rolled by dirty, yellowed fingers that tip the ends in spit! For more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof...immaculate...foil-wrapped... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

Arch enemies in the Allegheny County League come together tonight at Columbus Temple when the Fintex passers entertain the J. J. Veronas in the second engagement of the season between the two Hill District quintets. In the first battle between the two clubs, staged a week last Thursday night, the Fintex passers emerged winners in a contest that required four extra periods to determine the victor.

Tonight's battle promises to be a repetition of the first contest inasmuch as both teams will take the floor in the pink of physical condition. The Veronas, still in the running for the second half title in County League fight, must win tonight to keep on the heels of the Goldensons and Lefayettes who are deadlocked for first place. The Veronas still feel they have a better team than Fintex and will be out tonight determined to turn the tables for the defeat suffered in the first encounter.

Interest in the contest is high despite the fact that Fintex is all but out of the running for the title. The game is a "natural" if there ever was such and another capacity crowd is expected to be on hand.

In the preliminary contest the Lou Gordon Juniors, rated the best club in their class this season, will go after their nineteenth successive victory of the season. This team, former junior A. A. U. champion, is playing under a severe handicap, having lost the services of three of its sterling performers in Shorty Levine, Marty Reiter and Lou Skeegan, who are members of the Fifth Avenue High School quintet.

Dribbles

The Goldenson Vanities, boasting a record of 16 successive victories, will go after additional laurels in Cleveland next Saturday and Sunday when they compete in a tournament sponsored by the Cleveland [illegible] Basketball Association in Public Auditorium. Meyer Goldenson, sponsor of the South Side girls, received an invitation to compete in the tournament which will include sextets from all sections of the tri-state district and immediately wired his acceptance. Helen Kasputis, manager of the local girls, has made arrangements to take her entire squad to the Forest City early Saturday morning. Those who have followed the Vanities feel certain the Pittsburgh team will make a strong bid for the coveted laurels.

The Ray E. Schneiders, champions of the West Penn League, who were nosed out by the Community House passers Saturday night, will face another tough opponent tonight when they tackle Harry Lawrence and his South Side Falcons at the North Side Moose Hall. Next Saturday night the Schneiders meet another aldermanic quintet when they oppose the J. J. Veronas at Columbus Temple.

Pressed Steel Car appears at Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and Westinghouse at Reich's in the two C. & I. League games carded tonight.

Eddie Klein, former Duquesne Lafayette star, is showing his old-time form since breaking into the Fintex lineup. Klein will be available for service tonight in the big tie with the Veronas.

Duquesne Light faces Philadelphia Company and Equitable Gas tackles Sales & Service in the two Philadelphia Company League games at Fifth Avenue High School tonight.

GREYOLA WINS AGUA DERBY

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mex., March 3.—(AP)—Making her first appearance under the colors of Raoul Walsh, Hollywood film director, Greyola, the lone filly among 13 3-year-olds going to the post, yesterday won the Agua Caliente derby, finishing a scant length ahead of the field.

The daughter of the famous grey Lag, whose purchase from the Coburn stables was announced Saturday at $15,000, brought home the Victor's stake of $29,200 to her new owner, running the mile and a furling in 1 minute 51 4-5 seconds.

Greyola went to the front on the first turn and never was headed, although Longus, a New York horse, put in the field by William Hoffman, of Ventura, Cal., staged a stirring finish to threaten on the home stretch. Tonio Rock, from Fred Almy's ranch, Green Valley, Ariz., pulled up third, a length and a half behind the winner.

Horse Disqualified, French Bettors Burn Track

MARSEILLES, France, March 3.—(AP)—One man was killed and many were arrested at the race track here yesterday when bettors, angry over the disqualification of the horse that won the sixth race, set fire to the pari-mutuel booths and destroyed and sacked the paddock, the grandstands and the bar.

Police reserves and firemen were called out, but did not get the fire under control until the principal buildings and the stables had been destroyed.

May 30, New York Rowing Association, Harlem River; June 21, Schuylkill Navy Day, Philadelphia; July 4-5, Central States Regatta, Cleveland; July 4, New England Amateur Rowing Association, Boston; July 4, People's Day Regatta, Schuylkill, Philadelphia; July 26, Southern Amateur Rowing Association, Baltimore; August 1-2, National Regatta, Charles River, Boston; September 1, Middle States Rowing Association.

FRAT POLITICS HIT LEVINE

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—General dissatisfaction and unrest among Wash-Jeff football followers over recent developments, evident for some time, has been accentuated in the past few days through the athletic council stepping in and naming a captain, and by the announcement that the annual game with Bucknell is to be played on November 15 at the Pitt Stadium.

The naming of Walter Levine, of Lock Haven, to the gridiron leadership over Andy Cochrane is well received, in itself, as Levine has been regarded as the logical man. But supporters of the team take issue with the authorities on the manner in which the selection was made. They point out that members of the council are not in a position to determine the qualifications of the men eligible for the captaincy, and that appointment should have been made by Head Coach Bill Amos.

It is also apparent that the deadlock between Levine and Cochrane was due not so much because players wanted Cochrane, only a substitute line player, for captain, but because they did not want to break an unwritten rule which has for 34 years provided a fraternity man as the gridiron leader. Levine is popular, capable, and well liked, but he is a non-fraternity man.

CARDS START DRILLS

BRADENTON, Fla., March 3.—(AP)—Trying a different wrinkle of the entire squad reporting at one time and failing to give the pitchers an extra week of practice, the St. Louis Cardinals were due today to begin the limbering up exercises. The main contingent from St. Louis were expected to step from the train into uniforms and get the feel of the turf at the same time as they took the kinks out of their legs.

BRITONS AWAIT FIGHT FILM

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—Declaring that the British public wants to see the complete film of the Sharkey-Scott fight, Wardour Films Limited, which has exclusive rights for the film in this country, announced today it had taken legal advice and had insisted that every foot of film taken shall be sent over from the United States.

"We realize how great is the desire of the public to see the whole of the fight so that they may judge for themselves whether the fight was fair and the strict rules of boxing observed. They will see the complete picture," said Arthur Bent, managing director.

Lord Lonsdale, head of the British Boxing Board of Control, said:

"I cannot express any opinion until I have seen certain people in London. If I said anything at this stage it might be misleading. I received a short cable from Miami telling me the result of the fight and something about foul blows, but shall want to know more."

It is assumed he is waiting a report of Lionel Betison, prominent member of the British Board of Control, who went to Miami to see the fight.

ROSENBLUMS WIN

CUMBERLAND, Md., March 3.—The Cleveland Rosenblums defeated the Cumberland Knights of Columbus, 30-28, in an interesting game here yesterday. Husta and Dehnert were the outstanding players for Cleveland, while May, Long and Cavanaugh were Cumberland's best bets. The Rosies led at half-time, 14-13. The line-up:

Cleveland—30		K. of C.—28
Barry	F	May
Shurlock	F	Long
Lanchick	C	McMullen
Husta	G	Cavanaugh
Dehnert	G	Dorsey

Lassman Rescues Drowning Girl at Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 3.—(AP)—Miss Vera Erickson, pretty 18-year-old girl, was rescued from possible drowning Saturday by Al Lassman, former New York University football star.

Lassman, a member of the winter social colony here, plunged into the surf at the girl's repeated calls for help after Marcell Englehart, another swimmer, had failed in attempts to bring her to shore.

MATSUYAMA WINS

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS)—Kinrey Matsuyama today boasted a victory over Welker Cochran, three-cushioned billiard star. He defeated Cochran in a 14-block Sunday tourney. Matsuyama played to [illegible] points per block against 50 for Cochran and won eight of the 14 sessions.

TWO SANDLOT LOOPS MEET TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS.

With the West Penn and Central leagues both meeting at Honus Wagner's store tomorrow evening, indications are that these two banner circuits will have eight-club rosters when the managers complete their deliberations.

The West Penn has the Verona Community, Cheswick, Wilmerding, Universal and North Bessemer returning to the loop, which, with the Homestead Aces, a newcomer, will furnish plenty of opposition. Jack Fertig's aggregation is expected to have much to say about that title race.

Other clubs also have signified their intention of attending the meeting. All forfeits must be posted at the session. Officials hope to close the league list tomorrow evening.

The Central will have its second get-together. With the Roosevelt Club, Fintex, Soho Board of Trade, the Jimmy Cosletts, the Etna Furnitures, the Union Pressmen, the Typographical Union team, which will have a national championship series here this summer, all ready to go and with applications from the Iroquois Club, there is reason to feel the Central is to be a great league. Managers with teams in this class should attend the session.

Both meetings will be called at 7:45 p. m. The City League will have its meeting this evening and President Harry Yerx expects to complete all pre-season business. Its teams will post forfeits. The city loop looks far stronger than in previous years and is likely to go over big.

WARNER SCOFFS AT RUMORS

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., March 3.—(AP)—Coach Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, veteran Stanford football mentor, today scoffed at rumors which credited him with devising a so-called "C" formation to substitute for his well known "A" types of offensive gridiron play.

While admitting he planned to experiment with a new formation in spring football practice, the Stanford coach denied there was anything revolutionary about the proposed system.

"We intend to experiment with a few new plays this spring," said Warner. "They will call for a slightly revised formation, but one that is distinctly not new. If these plays prove successful, they will be used in conjunction with our regular system, not as a substitute for it."

The new plays, as outlined by Warner, call for a balanced line in place of the unbalanced front rank of the "A" and "B" formations.

Ends will play two yards out from their tackles instead of close up, while the wing halfbacks will plug the hole between the tackles and the ends, rather than flanking the latter. This arrangement is expected by Warner to facilitate the boxing of opposing tackles and better clear the way for the successful use of the reverse play.

The other two backfield men will hold the same positions they do in "B" formation, with the fullback some six yards directly in the rear.

Sport Vignettes

From far-off Paso Robles come inspired epics about the wonderful playing of Ben Sankey at shortstop for the Pirates . . . . Meanwhile Dick Bartell continues a holdout . . . . Can it be that these screeds are meant to swing the doughty Richard into line by making him fear for his job? . . . . Take off your bonnet to Billy Linder, former local amateur boxing star, who refuses to let Cowboy DeLuca, his welterweight protege, enter the main bout ranks just yet . . . . Billy realizes his Cowboy is not ready and so has turned down a windup with Dominick Profio at the Moose Temple . . . . After all, there still are managers who will not rush young prospects to the slaughter . . . . The Cowboy looks as if he might come along, but right now he is not yet geared for the 10-round grind . . . . In physique he is a reminder of Harry Greb at a corresponding period in the latter's career . . . . DeLuca ought to be thankful he has a manager of the type of Linder . . . . Gene Stanton, the young Cleveland heavyweight, is a former Monessen (Pa.) lad, having left that town when a bit of a youngster . . . . Carnegie Tech's basketball team won't lose any more games this season, and the local hockey team won't drop any more home games . . . . They've closed their seasons . . . . The ballyhoo having run its course, the Yankees now will up and sign the Babe . . . . Some people are gluttons for punishment and others don't mind being captain of a college football team two years in a row . . . . There's the case of John Dreshar, of Carnegie Tech, for instance . . . But, then, the Tartans don't have to play Southern Cal. next fall . . . . Looks as if Sammy Mandell, the clever lightweight champion of the world, is near the end of his fistic rope . . . . He took his second bad beating from Jimmy McLarnin in a bout at catchweights in Chicago Saturday night, and Jimmy is the same lad he smothered with a dazzling display of boxing in New York a few seasons ago . . . . Recently Manuel Quintero, a young, second-rate southpaw, fought a draw with Sammy in Florida and then Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, gave him a tough tussle in Cleveland . . . . Sammy probably realizes he is near the closing chapter and for this reason is gobbling up what he can . . . And he always has before him the final big shot with his title at stake, against Al Singer, this summer . . . They'll draw a tremendous gate in New York and Sammy then can retire comfortably on his fortune . . . . Every hard fight in the interim will soften up the veteran so much more and insure victory for Singer, a really brilliant and hard-hitting youngster, who has gained recognition as a "second Benny Leonard," which is high praise indeed . . . . Leo P. Flynn is burning up because Rene De Vos has been matched with Mickey Walker in a bout for the world middleweight title in Madison Square Garden, New York, March 21 . . . . DeVos has lost three fights in a row, to Ace Hudkins, Doc Conrad and Dave Shade, who is managed by Flynn, while Shade has been a consistent winner . . . . Leo wants to know if the only way a man can get a crack at a champion is to be a fellow who never wins a fight and hasn't a chance . . . . And don't forget that Shade gave Walker merryolell in a 15-round bout in New York several years ago and just lost the decision by going to pieces in the last round.

Business Marks Time In This District

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

AFTER showing a fair degree of improvement over the slump at the close of 1929 business seems to have come into another period of marking time. According to all seasonable precedents activity in this district should show an upward trend during March so that the present situation is not regarded with any great degree of concern in most lines of activity.

The steel trade recovered more rapidly than most people expected during January and the first two weeks of February. Production gained from about 50 per cent of capacity to 75 per cent.

The slight break in the upward trend which has become apparent during the past week may be due to the fact that steel mill activity had been gaining a little faster than the general rate of improvement in business.

Automobiles Slow

THE automobile trade still is using only a small part of its normal steel requirements. Dealers report that their cars moved into public hands far more rapidly in February than in January but the producers are still following a policy of caution.

Ford and Chevrolet have been the busiest makers of cars this year and these two organizations are still the major consumers of steel for automobile purposes.

Local automobile dealers enjoyed a good market during the recent periods of exceptionally mild weather. This is taken by some as an indication that the coming of real spring motor car weather may develop a good consumer demand.

Glass Quiet

THE hesitancy in automobile production has affected the glass industry to a greater extent than it retarded the steel business. Normally about half of the plate glass production is used for automobiles. This demand is now at a low level. Plate glass producers, besides moving little glass into consumption, have recently had disheartening news from Washington on the Senate action on the tariff. The trade has hopes that the present status of the glass tariff may be retained when the joint commmittee of the House and Senate meet to iron out the differences in their two bills.

With building at a low rate the window glass trade is also in an unsatisfactory state with little immediate hope for improved conditions.

Westinghouse Busy

THE industrial picture is by no means entirely gloomy so far as this district is concerned. Westinghouse Electric is working at a good rate. Westinghouse Air Brake and its subsidiary, the Union Switch and Signal Company, are also busy.

A. T. & T. EARNS $12.67 SHARE

NEW YORK, March 3.—A record year in many respects was disclosed in the annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for 1929, released for publication today, in which a review of the growth of the Bell system was related to the 469,801 stockholders by President Walter S. Gifford.

Net earnings per common share available for dividends were $12.67 as compared with $12.11 in 1928. Total assets, exclusive of intercompany duplications, increased $400,000,000 to $4,228,430,088, creating the first "four billion dollar enterprise" in the United States.

It is stated by W. S. Gifford, president, that business of Electrical Research Products, a subsidiary of Western Electric Company, which is controlled by A. T. T., is limited to making arrangements for commercial use of contributions to the progress of electrical science such as modern, high-speed submarine telegraph cables and recording and reproduction of sound for use in connection with phonographs and talking motion pictures by concerns operating in fields in which they are applicable. "American Telephone and Telegraph Company," Mr. Gifford said, "neither directly nor indirectly through Electrical Research Products or otherwise owns any stock in any motion picture enterprise or any other commercial undertaking operating in these fields."

United Founders Exchange Offer

NEW YORK, March 3.—United Founders Corporation is offering to exchange two shares of its common stock for three shares of American Founders Corporation common. An additional 2-70 share of United Founders common would be paid in adjustment of scrip dividend, payable May 1 on each three American Founders common shares.

Cal. Daily Crude Production Lower

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—California daily crude oil production for week ended March 1, totaled 723,250 barrels against 801,250 barrels previous week, a decrease of 78,000 barrels.

Reichsbank Report.

BERLIN, March 3.—(AP)—The Reichsbank report as of February 28 shows these changes in reichs marks: Gold and bullion increased 24,180,000; reserve in foreign currencies decreased 14,601,000 [illegible]

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Local Market Steady

STOCK MARKET PRICES HIGHLY IRREGULAR

Range Widens as Sharp Struggle for Control of Movement Is Waged

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP.)—A sharp struggle for control of the price movement between opposing speculative forces brought about widespread irregularity of price movement in today's market. A sprinkling of public utilities, chemicals, tobaccos and specialties were pushed up to new high levels for the year, while selling pressure brought about rather sharp recessions in a number of steel, motor and railroad shares.

Liquidation of stocks was inspired, in part, by the decline in wheat prices, the reported falling off in steel mill operations, and the slowness in the recovery in many important lines of business. Some selling also came into the market on the theory that the recent rapid advance in many issues had impaired their technical position and that a corrective reaction was due.

LAMONT OPTIMISTIC

Secretary of Commerce Lamont said he expected good business within two months. The National City and some of the other monthly bank reviews stressed the irregularities in business and pointed out that practically all indexes of production and trade were running much below a year ago. Directors of the Warner-Quinlan Company cut the quarterly dividend in half, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company led a long list of corporations which reported 1929 earnings in excess of those of the previous year.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and was in plentiful supply at that figure. Time money rates were unchanged but an easier undertone was reported in the market.

CARBON STRONG

Columbian Carbon was an outstanding strong spot, soaring nearly 7 points to 195¾, which duplicates the year's high. U. S. Industrial Alcohol ran up 4⅜ points. Diamond Match 4 and Air Reduction, Warren Brothers and Brooklyn Union Gas 3 each, the last three touching new highs for the year.

Atchison was marked up 3¼ points and New York Central and Delaware and Hudson 2 each but Pittsburgh and West Virginia dropped 6½ and Hocking Valley 4. U. S. Steel common sold down more than 3 points to 180¼. Auburn Auto dropped 5¼ points and Eastman Kodak, R. H. Macy and United Aircraft 3 each, but partial recoveries were made from the low levels. Nash Motors sold below 50 for the first time this year.

BARNSDALL NET $3.20 A SHARE

NEW YORK, March 3.—The Barnsdall Corporation and subsidiaries report for the year ended December 31, 1929, consolidated net income of $7,205,161 after interest, depreciation, depletion and intangible development costs, equivalent to $3.20 a share on 2,247,602 combined Class A and B shares outstanding against $4,030,861, or $3.13 on 1,288,592 average combined Class A and B shares outstanding in 1928.

E. B. Reeser, president, in his remarks to the stockholders, stated over-production of petroleum in the industry continued and stocks increased at a rapid rate throughout the year. He pointed out that conservation efforts encountered serious resistance during early part of year.

"Toward end of the year, however," he continued, "production of crude oil petroleum was approximately balanced with consumption. Refining division of oil industry is an unsatisfactory condition, prices for refined products at refineries being generally unfavorable. Because of conditions existing in the refined oil market the corporation's refineries were operated during past year at only about 50 per cent of their capacity."

I. C. C. to Settle Oil Rate Question

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The District Court of Appeals today affirmed an order of the District of Columbia Supreme Court which directed the Interstate Commerce Commission to take jurisdiction in a controversy on freight rates on petroleum and petroleum products in Montana.

The question arose after the Board of Railroad Commissioners of Montana directed a reduction in freight rates on petroleum products. The railroad sought relief from the commission which declined to act and the matter was taken to the courts.

GULF STATES MERGER OFF

NEW YORK, March 3.—Plans for merger of American Rolling Mill Company and Gulf States Steel Company, on the basis of an exchange of stock, have been definitely abandoned.

This was announced by Calvin W. Verity, vice president of American Rolling Mill Company.

The Eaton interests, of Cleveland, who recently acquired a large block of Gulf States stock with the intention of eventually including the Southern Steel Company in the new Republic Steel combine, intended to press their project, it became known today. They are reported to have secured the assent of other large stockholders, and probably will oppose the recent proposal of the management to change the by-laws of the corporation to require a two-thirds instead of a majority vote to lease the property.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

Ford Motors, Ltd.

Guaranty Trust Company on March 11 as depositary of American shares of Ford Motor Company, Ltd., will distribute a dividend of approximately 37½ cents a share to holders of American depositary receipts of record March 7.

Warner Quinlan

Warner Quinlan Company declared a dividend of 25 cents, payable April 1 to record March 15. The company previously has been paying 50 cents quarterly. The company states the reduction in the usual quarterly rate of 50 cents will enable it to better conserve its cash and take fuller advantage of extremely low gasoline prices since it purchases a substantial part of its requirements in the open market.

American Tank Car

General American Tank Car Corporation declared regular quarterly dividends of 1 per cent in stock and $1.00 in cash, payable April 1 to record March 15.

Sherwin Williams

Sherwin Williams Company of Canada declared an extra dividend of 5 cents on the common stock and regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred, all payable March 31 to record March 15.

Eastern Steamship

Eastern Steamship Lines declared initial quarterly cash dividend of 50 cents on common, placing issue on $2 annual basis, and regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on first preferred and 87½ cents on no par preferred, payable April 1 to record March 11.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP)—The curb market continued to work higher today, despite considerable opposition from the bear crowd. The market faltered somewhat during the morning in sympathy with reactionary tendencies on the "big board," but strong support for leading utility shares turned the market upward before midday.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

SMELTERS' 1929 PROFIT UP

NEW YORK, March 3.—Net income of the American Smelting and Refining Company amounted to $21,831,583 in 1929 and showed substantial improvement over previous years, according to the annual report of the company made public today.

This total, which is after deduction of all charges, taxes, bond interest, depreciation and depletion compares with $18,586,203 in 1928 and $15,477,769 in 1927.

Earnings per share of present common stock after split-up and after deduction of preferred dividends were at the rate of $10.02 last year. Per share earnings on the basis of the present common stock were $8.24 in 1928 and $6.55 in 1927.

Total current and miscellaneous assets of $94,465,065 at the close of 1929 were more than four times the current and miscellaneous liabilities of $23,376,888.

SUN LIFE NEW INVESTMENTS

NEW YORK, March 3.—Common stocks added last year to the investment list of the Sun Life Insurance Company of Canada included Air Reduction, American Can, General American Tank Car and Kroger Grocery & Baking Company. The Sun Life made material purchases of these four issues.

In the investment of additional funds in 1929 the company naturally increased its holdings in a number of companies in which it was already a substantial investor. In more than one outstanding corporation it is the largest known investor. Instances of this position are the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and the Consolidated Gas Company of New York. At the close of 1928 the Sun Life held 89,497 shares of American Telephone. At the same time its holding of Consolidated Gas were placed at 220,702 shares; during the early part of last year the latter investment was reputed to have increased fully 20 per cent.

The American Water Works and Electric Company, Inc., reports consolidated gross earnings of $54,119,004 for the year 1929, a new record and a gain of $3,074,314 over gross for the year 1928.

Balance for dividends, after all charges including reserves for renewals, retirements and depletion, totaled $7,821,479, equivalent, after payment of $1,200,000 preferred dividends, to $4 a share on the 1,657,093 shares of common stock outstanding. In 1928, balance for dividends aggregated $6,209,496, equivalent after the same preferred dividend requirements to $3.50 a share on the 1,432,162 shares of common stock then outstanding.

National Building Activity Picks Up

NEW YORK, March 3.—Big building activity for the nation as a whole gained added strength last week from the announcement of a large volume of proposed heavy construction and engineering projects, the value of which totaled $141,194,000, the McGraw-Hill construction daily reports. This figure compared with $50,706,000 in the preceding week, and with $66,350,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Residential building plans showed the largest weekly total since the beginning of the current year, and hospital construction, likewise, recorded its largest week since January 1.

Container Corp. Plans Expansion

NEW YORK, March 3.—F. G. Becker, vice president of the Container Corporation of America, when asked regarding the program of expansion contemplated by the corporation stated that negotiations for the acquisition of an important company in the boxboard field were nearing completion.

He stated that no application to increase the present amount of Class A common stock outstanding had been made and that no additional amount of authorized Class A common stock over and above the present authorization of 600,000 shares would be required for this acquisition.

LOCAL MARKET QUIET AND NARROW

Fractional Changes in Prices Noted in Main List; Lone Star Firm

Trading was quiet and price changes were narrow at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The leaders which dominated the trading last week were handled in small lots during the first hour and in no cases were the fluctuations more than a point.

Lone Star Gas was steady and sold around the figures prevailing Saturday. The stock made no response to reports of huge merger plans involving gas companies in the southwest and mentioning Lone Star in connection with a probable hook-up with United Gas.

The heavy industrials showed no change from the general levels in which they ranged the greater part of last week. United Engineering showed a small fractional decline while Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was up ¼. Both issues of the American Vitrified Products Company appeared in the market, but neither showed any change. Penn Federal Corporation preferred came into the market unchanged at 88, the first time the stock has been traded in since last December. Rustless Iron was unchanged and volume of dealings in the issue was comparatively small.

Silver at New Low On Chinese Rumors

NEW YORK, March 3.—Current rumors that China may follow the action of India in imposing duties on silver imports caused silver prices to fall to new lows and at the same time brought sharp recoveries in Chinese silver exchanges.

British, Dutch and Spanish currency declined to the lowest levels of the year in the foreign exchange market today.

Lead Prices Cut By Am. Smelter

NEW YORK, March 3.—The American Smelting and Refining Company today reduced the prices of lead from 6.10 to 6.00 cents a pound.

Picture Cost of Living Down, Forty Folk

By B. C. FORBES

America's two main cash crops, wheat and cotton, both are far below a year ago and so are most products of the soil. But whether city families are yet reaping benefit from current low wholesale prices is not so certain. At best it takes time for a declining market to reach the ultimate consumer.

CHICAGO wheat after its sensational dip below the $1 mark experienced a perfectly natural rebound but it is still 15 cents a bushel under a year ago. Corn is 15 per cent cheaper and oats almost as much while rye is down 35 cents.

Cotton was close to 21 cents a pound at the opening of last March; now it is only slightly above 15 cents, a drop of 25 per cent.

BUTTER which commanded better than 50 cents a pound a year ago now brings slightly less than 35 cents. Eggs have fallen from 46 cents to 26 cents—a serious matter for many rural families.

Coffee has been cut in price practically half, grades worth about 17 cents at wholesale last year now bring less than 9 cents while the drop in better grades has reached 10 cents a pound. Cocoa is off more than 2 cents a pound. Sugar at wholesale is fully 20 per cent cheaper.

Beef has gone down some but pork has held its own.

Other commodities ruling below the level of 12 months ago include rubber (down 40 per cent), gasoline, silk, copper, lead, zinc, silver (now at the lowest price on record).

IT was long contended that full-tide prosperity could be enjoyed only during a period of rising prices for commodities and manufactured goods as a whole. This theory was in large measure disproved during the "Coolidge boom" in stocks, in industry, in business, in employment. Prices maintained a remarkably steady average level during the years immediately preceding the unprecedently violent Wall Street collapse of last fall. Yet prosperity had reached a level never before attained in this country.

Therefore it may be rash to assume that the recent decline in many classes of commodities dooms any early substantial betterment in business or in securities.

THE stock market itself has lately been foreshadowing—if it is functioning correctly—considerable improvement in general conditions. Average quotations closed the week close to the high point reached since the panic. They gained ground every day after Monday and the final session gave an impressive exhibition of confidence.

Then, too, although an extraordinary large number of financiers, brokers and others actively interested in Wall Street are enjoying vacations far from New York, it is noteworthy that the volume of activity has been increasing. This suggests a growing disposition among the public to enter the market in a modest way.

The writer discovered during a southern journey that the prevailing attitude toward the stock market is one of "watchful waiting," with however a quite widespread intention of investing in stocks rather than in bonds or real estate once it has been definitely demonstrated that the market has overcome the effect of the panic and is headed upwards. Unquestionably a continuance of the current irregular advances would before long attract considerable outside buying.

Meanwhile among professional operators bears are quite as numerous as bulls despite easy and abundant money. They emphasize the gravity of the drop in farm prices, but the bulls reply that wheat passed out of farmers' hands months ago and that only speculators now are involved. The bulls contend, too, that the farm will yet prove its worth.

UNTIL recovery in industry, business, agriculture and employment becomes rather more pronounced, prudence suggests a cautious policy.

NEW OFFERINGS

Dow Chemical Company $3,500,000 10-year 6 per cent sinking fund gold notes priced at par and accrued interest to yield 6 per cent. Offered by the Union Cleveland Corporation and others.

East St. Louis and Interurban Water Company (subsidiary of the American Water Works and Electric System) $2,500,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series "D," and priced at 93 and interest to yield more than 5.47 per cent. Offered by W. C. Langley and Company and Halsey, Stuart and Company.

Italian Bank Rate Now at 6½ Per Cent

ROME, March 3.—(AP.)—The Stefani News agency announced that the discount rate and rate of advances of the Bank of Italy would be reduced from seven per cent to six and one-half per cent beginning today.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 3.—Bonds were firm but dull in today's market. Buying inquiry was directed largely toward the investment rails, many of which made further progress, but accumulation was of moderate proportions and the list still looked rather thin.

Money turned easier with call loans renewing at 4 per cent against 4½ last Friday.

When Charles Dickens Visited in Pittsburgh

CHARLES DICKENS (1812-1870), famed English novelist, with Mrs. Dickens visited Pittsburgh for three days in March, 1842. He arrived via canal boat—the usual means of travel from the east before railway service began in 1852.

The young writer was a guest of the Exchange Hotel at the corner of Penn Avenue and St. Clair Street (now Sixth). He said that it was one of the best hotels he had found in America. Pittsburgh, however, was not as similar to Birmingham, England, as he had expected, although he wrote that he was impressed by our manufacturing activities. Later in that decade Pittsburgh industries expanded extensively and the community was soon widely known as the "Iron City."

The Farmers Deposit Bank, then ten years old, started on St. Clair Street, only a few doors from Dickens' hotel, and took an important part in the business developments that began about that time.

A New Will for New Conditions

Time frequently changes the plans and obligations of a man for the future welfare of his family. His old will may be inadequate to meet the necessities of present conditions.

PERHAPS your will now reads that your family shall receive outright the money and property you will leave. This was a very common provision only a few years ago.

But in the light of present conditions you, like other prudent men, may wish to safeguard your wife and children against financial hazards by re-writing your will, and naming this Company as Your Trustee.

Your new will can provide that the property be held in trust by this Company during the lifetime of your wife, to go to other beneficiaries thereafter.

It can set apart funds to insure your children's support and education, or to insure that your daughters will always have independent means.

It can provide that your son's portion of the estate be managed for him until he reaches years of business discretion.

These are a few of the possibilities. If you wish, we shall be pleased to discuss with you the business aspects of protecting your family's future.

THE fact which came in for greatest notice during the day was the evident lack of snap in the buying which developed in the course of the session. The market was without definite trend and was disposed to blow alternately hot and cold. Monday, however, has been almost invariably a day of uncertain movements since the recovery got under way in mid-January. For that reason the speculative fraternity was inclined to withhold judgment on the immediate outlook for the market. Yet the action of some of the recent leaders, as for example steel common, tended to prompt a good deal of realizing.

Until today the bulls had frequently been moved to call attention to the fact that trading was well off in volume when the market was inclined to reaction and conversely was most active when operations for the rise were in progress. From the opening this morning, however, it was worthy of note that the greatest volume was in order when selling pressure predominated. It was during the forenoon when prices were generally around their lowest levels that the pace of trading was sufficiently active to force the tape some 13 minutes late.

RELATIVE weakness in American and Foreign Power was ascribed to selling based on the theory that official announcement of contemplated new financing is near at hand. Early last week report was current that the company was preparing to issue between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 in debentures. The purpose of the issue, it was understood, was to provide funds for liquidation of indebtedness owing to the Electric Bond and Share Company in the form of advances made in financing various acquisitions made by the subsidiary over a period of time.

From the statement which accompanied the action it appeared that the Warner-Quinlan board considers the cut in the quarterly dividend due at this time as a temporary move dictated by prevailing conditions. At any rate in declaring the payment of 25 cents a share instead of 50 cents which had been in force heretofore, the company stated it believed conditions will so change in the near future that resumption of the regular rate will be warranted. It was further declared that the company hoped before the end of the year to order an extra of 25 cents a share to offset the present reduction.

SEVERAL of the dividend paying specialties give distinct signs of moving higher. For example in today's session Gotham Silk Hosiery established a new high for the year under the sponsorship of the same interests which for some time past have been entirely conversant with the company's affairs. These banking interests incline to the opinion that the management will be successful in 1930 in bettering the highly satisfactory showing made last year. Gotham Silk pays $2.50 annually in cash and is in strong financial condition.

A few students of the food stocks feel that United Biscuit is selling out of line with others in this group. The Biscuit industry, of course, will reflect the low wheat prices and the inventory position of United Biscuit in this division is reported to have been built up at favorable prices. Last year the company earned well over $4 a share and indications now are that this showing will be improved upon during the current year. It is thought that a price above $55 a share would be justified to place the issue more in line with National Biscuit and Loose-Wiles.

U. S. INCREASES PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—Production of manufactured goods during January in the United States was considerably greater than during December and at the end of January unfilled orders for manufactured goods were on hand in greater quantity than either at the end of December, or of January a year ago.

Stocks of raw materials on hand at the end of January, it was added were greater than a year ago, but stocks of finished manufactured goods were slightly smaller. Both estimates related to conditions in manufacturers' storehouses.

B. & O. Rail Merger Plan Is Dismissed

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A slight clearing of the docket relating to railroad consolidations was made today by the Interstate Commerce Commission in announcing the formal dismissal of an application by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for authority to take over a number of eastern lines. The commission asked for the dismissal some time ago, and the railroad indicated that it would acquiesce.

Gold Standard for Persian Government

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Persian government has decided to change its monetary system from the silver to the gold standard and, until the change is accomplished, will supervise buying and selling of all foreign currency in Persia, according to cablegram received by M. D. K. Meftah, Persian minister.

No. 32

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to execute an agreement with the Secretary of Highways acting for and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in connection with the improvement of State Highway Route 330, a portion of which is located within the City of Pittsburgh, formerly Overbrook Borough.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, for and on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, are hereby authorized and directed to execute an agreement with the Secretary of Highways acting for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in connection with the improvement known as State Highway Route 330, a portion of which is located within the City of Pittsburgh, formerly Overbrook Borough, said agreement to be in the following language:

AGREEMENT

Made and entered into this .... day of .... 1930, by and between the Secretary of Highways acting for and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the Commonwealth, of the first part, and the City of Pittsburgh, in Allegheny County, by its Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Works, hereinafter called the City, of the second part.

WHEREAS, By Act of Assembly No. [illegible] approved May 1st, 1929, certain moneys were appropriated to the Department of Highways to be expended among the Cities of the Commonwealth for the improvement, construction, reconstruction and maintenance of City streets which are not on the route of the State Highway System, but which are continuations of State Highways extending such Cities, or running through such Cities, or which furnish the shortest or most convenient route through such Cities for the traveling public, and

WHEREAS, The total sum of $217,453.59 has been allocated to the City from said appropriation by the Department of Highways for the purpose of reconstructing or improving said streets forming a continuation of State Highways through the City, as provided in said Act, and

WHEREAS, The sum of $27,473.96 has been set aside from the City allocation from the said appropriation for the purpose of constructing and reconstructing Stewart avenue, Fairhaven road and Library road from the Baldwin Township-Pittsburgh City line, Station 175+73 to a point 24 feet south of the south curb line of Maine street, Station 201+50, on said Library road, which has been designated as the shortest or most convenient route for the traveling public through the City, and

WHEREAS, The Department of Highways has made a survey of existing conditions, and as a result has designated Stewart avenue, Fairhaven road and Library road as the shortest or most convenient route for the traveling public through the City of Pittsburgh, forming a part or section of Route 330, the portion of which to be improved under the provisions of this Agreement being fully explained as follows:

From a point on the dividing line between Baldwin Township and the City of Pittsburgh on Stewart avenue, thence in a general southerly direction over the Fairhaven road and Library road to a point 24 feet south of the north curb line of Maine street.

WHEREAS, It is desired to construct and reconstruct the said streets as heretofore designated for the purpose of safely and adequately accommodating the traveling public in and through the said city, and

WHEREAS, The Department of Highways has entered into a contract for the construction of said State Highway Route 330, and on or about December 21, 1928, the Borough of Overbrook likewise entered into a contract with S. J. Groves & Sons Co. for the construction of an additional width to said state highway as located within said territorial limits of said Overbrook Borough, and

WHEREAS, The estimated cost of said contract thus entered into by said Overbrook Borough was $23,[illegible] with provisions therein that the State could, if it so desires, increase the amount of said contract in an amount not exceeding 15 per cent, the total cost of said improvement being the said sum of $23,[illegible] plus 15 per cent thereof, or a total amount of $27,473.96.

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH: That the City of Pittsburgh hereby authorizes and directs the Secretary of Highways, out of the moneys allocated to the City of Pittsburgh for street improvement purposes in connection with State Highways, to pay to the said S. J. Groves & Sons Co., contractor, the cost of said work that had been agreed to be paid by Overbrook Borough, said payments to be made upon certificates of approval of the work by the Secretary of Highways and in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned contract.

Said highway, when completed and accepted by the State and the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, shall be maintained in its full width by the City of Pittsburgh as any other city street.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the City of Pittsburgh has caused this agreement to be executed by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works thereof pursuant to an Ordinance of Council approved .... 1930, and the Secretary of Highways, for and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, has hereunto affixed his hand and seal of said Department of Highways.

No. 46.

AN ORDINANCE—Making appropriations to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the City of Pittsburgh and for meeting the debt charges thereof for that portion of the fiscal year beginning March 1, 1930, for a period of ten months, ending December 31, 1930.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the revenues of said City derived from taxes and other sources for that portion of the fiscal year beginning March 1, 1930, for a period of ten months, ending December 31, 1930, are hereby appropriated in the sum of $22,647,834.22 to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the City of Pittsburgh and meeting the debt charges thereof during the said period beginning March 1, 1930, for a period of ten months ending December 31, 1930, and all unencumbered balances of appropriations remaining open upon the books of the City Controller at the close of the fiscal year shall be and the same are hereby covered to be cancelled except such amounts as shall be specially requested by letter from the Director or Chairman of the special activity having the matter in charge certifying that the amounts requested are required for the purposes for which specifically appropriated, or such amounts as shall be directed to be carried over to the fiscal year 1930 by resolution or ordinance of Council.

SECTION 2. No liability shall be incurred against any appropriation item in excess of the unencumbered balance thereof, and said appropriation items shall be administered subject to and in conformity with the following terms and conditions.

(a) The heads of the several departments shall prepare their several payrolls for audit by the Controller in accordance with the terms of the ordinance establishing the respective positions and rates of compensation, and no payroll shall be approved for payment by the Controller unless the incumbents and the rates of compensation agree with the items of said ordinance, and unless the payroll show the appropriation account or accounts chargeable with the compensation of each employe included thereon.

(b) There shall be affixed to all payrolls a certificate made by the person preparing such payrolls to the effect that there is a time record on file in said department certified to by a person or persons having knowledge of the facts showing the character of service and exact time of employment of each person named in the payroll and that the distribution of time as shown on the payroll is in accordance with such time records.

(c) No transfer shall be made from one appropriation item to another except by resolution or ordinance of Council, and such resolution or ordinance shall in each case set forth the reasons for such request and be accompanied by a certification from the Controller stating that there is a sufficient balance unencumbered and available in the appropriation item from which the transfer is to be made.

SECTION 3. No obligation shall be incurred by any department of the City government, other than for salaries or wages or for necessary expenses of employes when engaged upon City business, except through the issue of an order stating the service to be rendered, work performed, or supplies, materials or equipment to be furnished together with the estimated cost of the same. The Director of the Department of Supplies is hereby authorized and directed to provide upon requisition by the head of any department all necessary supplies, materials, equipment and machinery for such department, provided, however, that no requisition of any department shall be filled by the Director of the Department of Supplies in excess of the unencumbered balance of the appropriation properly chargeable, and that no order shall be issued by the Director of the Department of Supplies, or by the head of any other department of the City government, until it has been approved by the City Controller. Payments on account of direct purchases shall be made from the amounts hereinafter appropriated therefor respectively. Purchases made by the Director of the Department of Supplies to go into stores shall be paid for from the fund provided for such purpose, and when and as directed by the City Controller said fund shall be reimbursed from other appropriations to the extent of deliveries made from stores.

SECTION 4. For purposes of administration and accounting control the code symbols indicated herein shall be considered as part of the appropriation titles:

DAILY TRUE STORY

The Brass Box

"WELL, now that you've got the education your father wasted his money on," said Mrs. Case, "what are you going to do?"

Delia Case looked at her stepmother and shrugged her pretty shoulders.

"You must do something. I don't believe in dancing all around the mulberry bush. I believe in being outspoken."

"You are," Delia asserted.

"Well, what are you going to do?"

"Have a little vacation. I had to plug pretty hard this last year. I want to rest a bit and look about."

"We might as well be frank about it. You want to look about for a husband," Mrs. Case said, as if that were the final word.

"Being funny won't help, Delia. In the first place, when your father left you that money—which should have come to me by rights—"

"You got half of it," Delia said, quietly.

"When he left you that money for an education, you should have used it to buy some clothes and gone about. You would have been married by this time and off—"

"Not off your hands, Marion. I never was on your hands."

The girl's stepmother flushed at this. They never quarreled outright and they never were in sympathy. Delia had never called Mrs. Case mother and when she called her Marion Mrs. Case felt that it was a danger sign.

Mr. Case had divided his small property equally between his daughter and his second wife; the old-fashioned home, built on Case Point overlooking the bay more than a hundred years before, was to ultimately go to Delia, but his second wife was to enjoy its shelter just as long as she desired or until she should marry again.

Dreams Plans

And while Delia had been away Mrs. Case had dreamed dreams and planned plans. If she could get Delia married off and away she might also marry—the old place could be fixed up like a country estate if she could get a man with money.

Mrs. Case lacked diplomacy, as may be guessed.

Delia had plenty and acquired more in college.

"A girl of your age wants to marry," Mrs. Case said, trying to appear solicitous for Delia's welfare.

"Why, yes," Delia agreed. "I want to marry when I find a man whom I want to marry."

"Of course," her stepmother said, feeling somewhat relieved. She would see to it that Delia had plenty of opportunity.

Delia was happy to be home again, despite the fact that she never could find any affection for the stepmother, although she did respect the woman in many ways. She had been good to Delia's father and Delia wasn't one to forget.

For some weeks Delia did two things—she fixed up the big room in the south wing which had been used as a store room, and she dreamed dreams of Horace Summerville, a professor of history at the college.

Delia had fallen in love with Horace. The only trouble was that Horace never suspected it.

Perhaps he did and steeled himself against it, knowing that he could not afford a wife in his present financial status.

Brass Rummage Box

Mrs. Case was pleased enough. It enabled her to keep the main part of her house according to her own fancies and means. Up in the great attic Delia found stores of things, great handloom woven rugs to go before the fireplace and stacks of interesting old books to fill the long empty and dusty shelves. Colonial furniture once chucked up there as "ugly and old fashioned" was brought down and used.

Delia asked Mrs. Case one day if she knew where some curtain knobs and some picture hooks could be found.

"Whenever I want anything, from stove lids to carpet tacks, Delia," Mrs. Case said, "I dig into that hideous old brass box in the tool shed, the one under the bench. Look out for spiders, the place is full of them."

"Of course," said Delia. In her little girlhood days she had often rummaged through the old brass box, a catch-all for small hardware in the Case family for many a generation.

Meanwhile Mrs. Case was planning. Delia would soon have a birthday. Why not get Adelaide Anderson, Delia's closest friend in town, to help arrange a surprise birthday party? There were a dozen eligible men who would come.

Delia had a good time at the party.

Mrs. Case was decidedly happy over it because Mr. Cornelius Evans had seemed to be quite interested in Delia. Mr. Evans was in town visiting relatives. He lived in the city and was in the importing business.

Mr. Evans called the next day. Delia was curled up on an old colonial sofa in her big south wing room, reading some old yet exciting accounts of the pirate Cassova, who had once sailed up and down that very coast in front of the house.

Meanwhile Mrs. Case had been making inquiries about Mr. Evans and was informed by his local relatives that he was quite wealthy. She urged Delia to be nice to him.

"He hasn't suggested matrimony," Delia said.

"He will."

"He needn't. I wouldn't marry him if he were made of money."

"But 40 isn't old, Delia."

Mrs. Case was right. Mr. Evans did propose, only he proposed to Mrs. Case, to her secret delight and surprise.

Strange Proposal

She accepted him but demanded secrecy for the present. She had plans.

"After all, Delia," she said, "if you couldn't love Mr. Evans it would be silly to marry him."

"I knew that all along, only he hasn't proposed. I had an idea that he was more interested in you."

A little later Mrs. Case went to her stepdaughter.

"You love living here," she said, "and I don't care for it. Of course I've a half interest in the place for life, but as I want to go away it seems to me you ought to pay me something from your share of the cash for my interest in the place."

Delia thought it all over. She would be happier in the homestead without her stepmother. On the other hand, to pay Mrs. Case for her interest in the old place would leave Delia rather short of funds; the income would scarcely be enough.

But a girl could manage some way. So Delia gave her stepmother the money. Mrs. Case signed off all claims and went to the city where she married Mr. Evans.

Delia laughed a little bitterly, told herself that she had been a sap to fall for such a trick, but there was nothing to be done about it.

And Delia kept right on dreaming about Horace Summerville. She wished she could see him. She wished more than that.

Writes Horace

Then she thought of a plan. The old books! She would write to Horace Summerville and tell him that she had a quantity of old books, many of them historical. Could he come and see her? She crossed out the "her" and wrote "them." She explained that if any were valuable he would know and she might sell them.

Old Mrs. Tatcher was glad to come and live with Delia for the sake of a home.

Prof. Horace Summerville arrived.

He was delighted with the old house and he raved over Delia's big living room and study with its pure colonial stuff.

The books interested him greatly.

On his third day Horace said: "The chances are that some of your ancestors were Cassovas and the name changed to Case."

"That's all right with me," Delia said.

"Some of the old Cassovas were pirates," Horace went on.

"I suspected that myself when I read some of those old books and papers."

He sat by the fireplace, as it was a damp, rainy day. Delia brought in luncheon.

"I was always crazy about you, Delia, at college, but of course it wouldn't have done to let you suspect. Now that I have resigned and am on my third volume of Queer Bits From History I can afford to tell you."

"If you have any more interest in me, Horace, than I have in you, that's just too bad."

"Think of having you—and a place to write like this!"

"All right, think of it, Horace."

"But—but I'm proposing."

Worth Fortune

"Marriage, Delia. Don't you know that I love you?"

"I—I hoped so," she confessed.

Horace jumped up and embraced her. The big book under his arm fell on one of the ancient curtain knobs and snapped it off.

After the embrace Horace said he was sorry he broke the knob because it was so valuable an antique.

Delia said: "There are a lot more in the old brass box. It's full of everything except money."

"Good glory, what a find! That's the Cassova chest!" Horace exclaimed.

"No, the Cassova chest, the book said, was of gold and was sunk off Seal Island," Delia corrected.

"The book was wrong. This is the chest the old pirate Cassova had made from melted gold ornaments. It's worth a fortune by weight, and two fortunes to any wealthy collector or museum."

Delia told him all about how smart her stepmother thought she was.

"I'll bet she's furious now," Horace said, "because the papers have had long articles about your sale of the supposed brass box that was solid gold."

Delia and Horace are living happily at the beautifully renovated old home.

LONDON CONFERENCE BLUES

Our intentions are quite good
And we'll do just what we should Toward making warships obsolete....or limited;
But gents, I must say WE,
Against losing our NAVEE,
Remain, to put it mildly, most inhibited.
(Chorus—All.)
Oh, we'll disarm if you'll disarm;
But lest we come to woeful harm
We're forced to wonder with alarm:
Will you disarm if we disarm?
(Second Delegate.)
Now, my friends, you must admit
That this time is just a bit
Premature to reach conditions of perfection;
I think war should be debunked,
And that Navies should be junked;
But my country, suh, would be without protection.
(Chorus.)
Oh, we'll disarm if you'll disarm...
(Third Delegate.)
For peace that is eternal
My country's got maternal Affections, and we want disarmament complete;
But now, delegates, the dope
(You may understand I hope)
Is that we won't feel quite safe without a fleet.
(Chorus.)
Oh, we'll disarm if you'll disarm;
But lest me come to woeful harm
We're forced to wonder with alarm;
Will you disarm if we disarm?
(Note.—To produce the full realistic effect, the foregoing should be repeated with any variations you can think of for about one more month.)

Taxicab Move Awaited; Competition Is Stifled

The next move in the taxicab situation is awaited. The position of the strikers, who, lacking one vote, unanimously rejected a proposal to return to work on a plan which grew out of conferences in the office of Mayor Kline, is as it was in the beginning. That of the cab companies, which made some concessions, remains unaltered insofar as union recognition is concerned, and that point appears to be the chief obstacle to peace.

But whatever the next move may be it should be one that will involve reasonable discussion of the problem as was the case when the trouble was carried into the office of Mayor Kline. Rational consideration of the issue is the only method by which it will be worked out to a solution, except on a basis of force, which was tried and failed. That failure may have occurred in any event, but it is certain that it was contributed to largely by the weak protection to private property and public interest given by the police in the early days of the strike, a contributory cause of the situation getting so far out of their hands that they were unable to cope with it when they finally gave it their serious attention.

Mayor Kline still has a duty in the matter. In the interest of safety he ordered the cabs off the streets. He answered that problem practically although perhaps not strictly legally. There still remains work for him to do in getting cabs back on the streets again under such conditions as will not be dangerous to either passengers or pedestrians.

A side light on the cab situation is contained in the fact that the Yellow and Green were able to convince the Public Service Commission that there was no room here for a third large company. Whatever the influence, the commission refused to allow the Red Cab Company, individually owned and operated in a small way, to incorporate. The owner had intended to make his organization a corporation and expand his fleet of cabs.

That is a matter in which the city should have intervened in behalf of Red Cabs. The cab situation now is a virtual monopoly, with the owners of one company being largely interested in the other. Yellow and Green no longer are real competitors as they were before Parmelee Transportation Company of Chicago took hold of the Pittsburgh taxicab business. If they were it is hardly likely there would be a strike now.

Pittsburgh should have competing taxicab companies. But the Public Service Commission will not permit it. Why? If it will not allow another company to compete, it should order the Yellow to divest itself of its interest in Green, thus making them again competitors.

Worth Many Millions

Persia's Peacock Throne.

A CHAIR COVERED WITH DIAMONDS, RUBIES, PEARLS.

This is the well known "peacock throne," now kept in the Gulistan Palace at Teheran, in Persia.

It is one of two peacock thrones in which the rulers of Persia have sat, gradually losing their power, dwindling away, since the day when young Alexander conquered and drove them out.

But while their POWER has diminished their childish pride in this throne, encrusted from top to bottom with precious stones of great value, has NOT diminished.

The last individual to sit on this throne, and be crowned, was Riza Shah Pahlevi, the energetic Persian, who used to be employed in the stables of the British Embassy in Persia.

He saw his opportunity in the great war, and like some other profiteers, profited by the occasion to seize the throne and place himself in the ancient line of Shahs.

By this time, as he parades up and down with his soldiers, people bowing and kneeling, he undoubtedly considers himself as good a Shah as ever ruled and exploited Persia.

It would be interesting to know what the two great peacock thrones, one of them stolen from India by one of the Shahs, would be worth, if they could be brought to the United States and chopped up into ornaments for ladies.

Enormous rubies, emeralds, diamonds, pearls, some of them perhaps false, thanks to the ingenious methods of dishonest servants, but most of them real, probably would be worth a great fortune.

However, it is not the diamonds or rubies, or the chair in which you sit that gives power, it is the quality of your soldiers, the quality of your own mind.

Strong iron, as the wise Solon told Croesus, is better than much gold. The British have strong iron, so they are the real rulers of Persia and could bring this throne home to the Prince of Wales if he wanted it.

However, he would say "No, thank you."

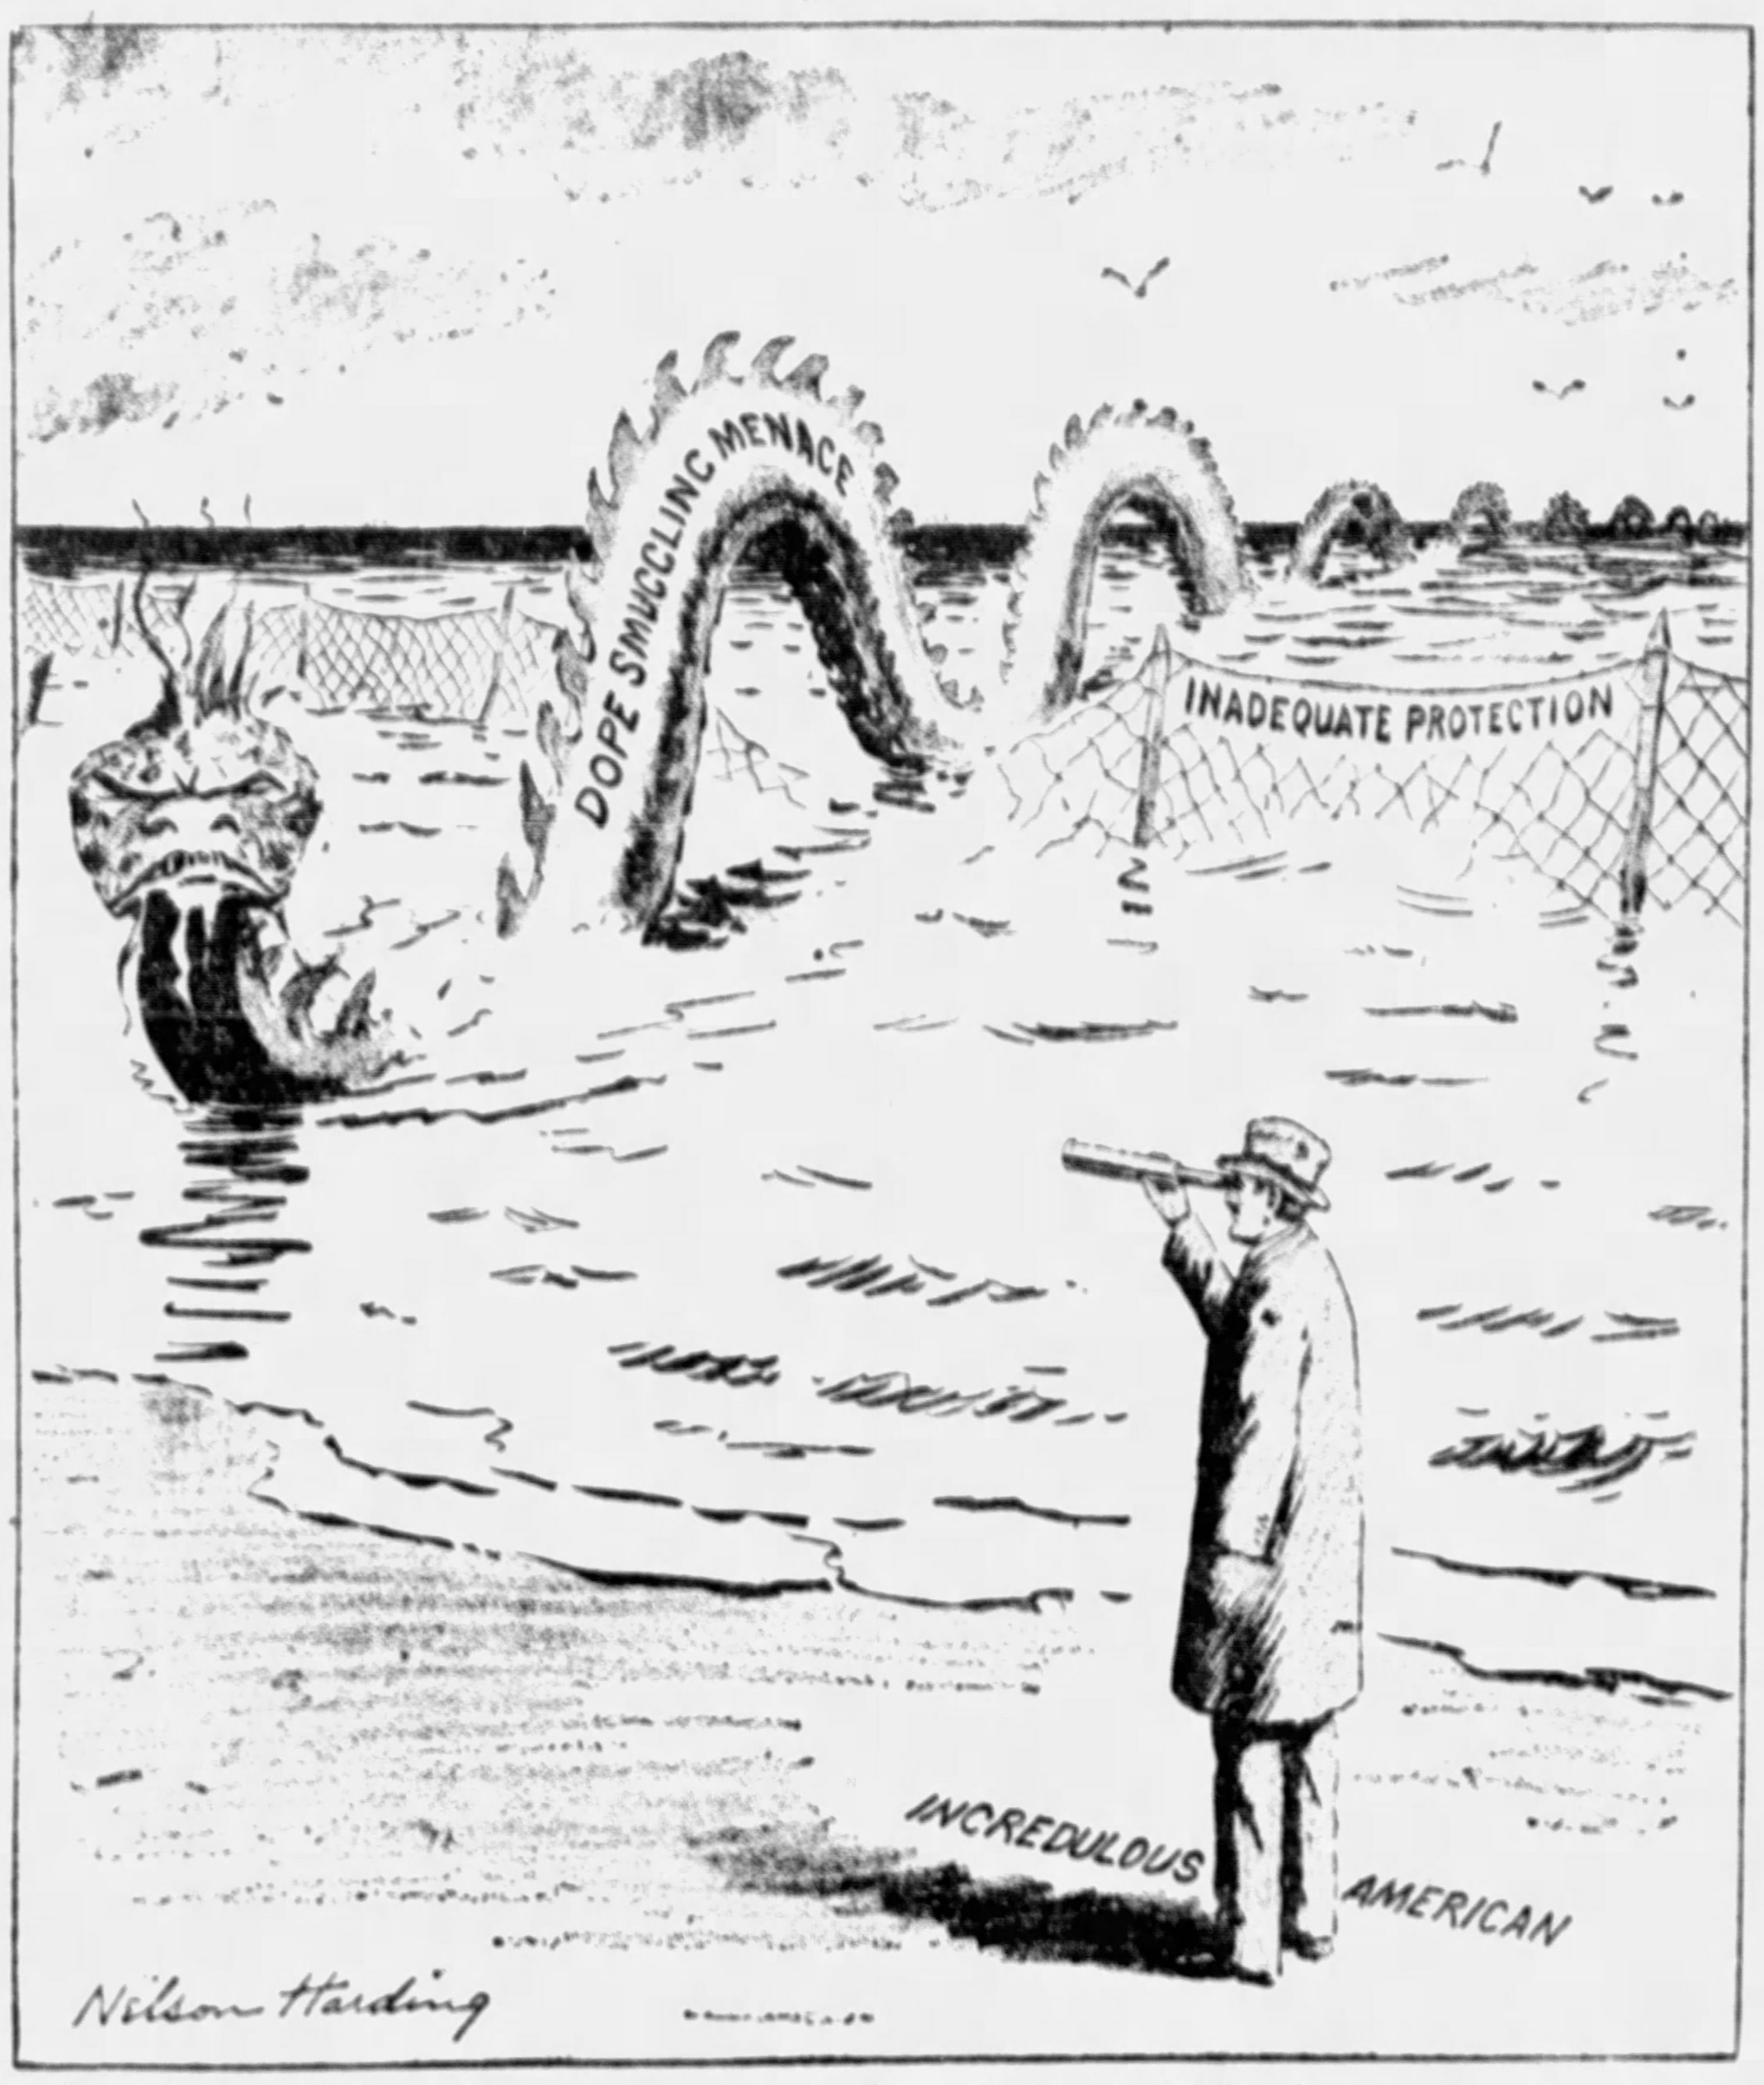
It's A Real Sea Serpent! -:-

Drawn by Nelson Harding



No myth or fabled monster is
This evil creature from the sea,
But one that is in very fact
The menace it appears to be.

While skeptical Americans
Stand apathetic all too long,
Imported evil slithers through
Weak barriers that should be strong. —N. H.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Aimee Crashes Pictures

AIMEE SEMPLE M'PHERSON is the latest celebrity to warm up for the 10,000-foot celluloid sprint.

She will be exquisitely at home in the talkies. Sound is nothing new to Aimee.

"Bugs" Baer

It starts with Aimee in a green bathing suit that is more color than material.

Her next appearance is in the Mexican Desert wearing a tasty bouquet of cactus. The villain, Don Jose Gila Monstro, whose business is raising red ants for picnics, falls in love with Aimee, but is arrested by mistake while smuggling Chinamen, opium and alcohol across the Rio Grande.

He is one sinister cabellero and threatens to toss a piece of blotting paper into the silvery Rio Grande, thereby drying up that magnificent dribble and bringing drought, taxes and more amendments to the farmers of the Imperial Valley.

He is one of those tough hombres who wouldn't be in heaven five minutes before he would be a hermit. He is an addict to the mucilage on the back of postage stamps and invites Aimee to his chateau which has a flat roof for shooting dice.

Don Monstro and the hero eye each other like John D. watching his diet. For there is neither east nor west, nor border, nor breed, nor birth, when two strong men stand face to face, even though one of them is Polly Moran.

They manage to reach Pomona, Cal. Aimee says it might have been worse. It might have been double Pomona.

There, far from civilization and modern accessories, is a broadcasting station. Aimee asks for succor and six of them are killed in the rush.

There is a short, desperate scene between Rin Tin Tin and Paul Whiteman's orchestra. This is not a prima facie case because the only eye-witness is Ben Turpin.

Don Monstro is revengeful. He never forgets an enemy or pays a friend. His outlaws sentence the hero to a slow death buying a Hollywood bungalow on instalments.

A FEW NOTES ON MANAGEMENT

By Herbert Kaufman

DICTATORIAL charts and graphs wreck as many concerns as INACCURACY.

When enterprise undertakes to operate under arbitrary statistical control, it begins to derive more inspiration from past performance than current prospects.

It's well to study yesterday's figures, but it's more important to oportunize today's REALITY.

If your SHOE bill isn't bigger than your PANTS bill, you're making contact at the WRONG end. The hub never learns anything at FIRST hand. It's the TIRE that meets the bumps, and finds where the RUTS lie.

The brain whose thoughts are always revolving on the AXIS instead of riding on the RIM, can't be expected to realize actual "road conditions."

Remember that Washington directed the crossing of the Delaware from a ROW-BOAT, not a telephone. Alexander worked in the FIELD, not in the files.

Business commanders who don't haunt the FIRING LINE will soon be hunting a HIRING line.

The mouse-trap maker, who waited for outlet to WEAR a path to his door, may have produced a SUPERIOR article, but he didn't sell HALF so many goods as SEVERAL competitors who sent printers' ink and samples out into the highways and buy-ways of trade to INTERCEPT demand EN ROUTE.

Executive wall flowers aren't nearly so popular with the balance sheet as the "dancers" out on "the floor" teaching their men the NEW steps.

THE viewpoint from the LOFTIEST skyscraper is distinctly limited.

It's the SKY-RIDERS scooting from market to market—the territory cross-checkers scurrying around on limited trains—not the limpets clinging to ONE environment—who foresee the NEXT area for expansion and catch TIMELY warning of the loose screws and rattling bolts of organization.

When you know your best customers ONLY by signature, it won't be long before they become your LOST customers.

Caesar marched at the FRONT of his legions. If he had READ more reports and LED fewer attacks, Rome would have crumbled years before stay-at-home incompetence delivered the empire to the go-getters watchfully waiting for over-confidence to demote SENTINEL genius.

Responsibility is perilously entrusted to asses with the God-complex which insists upon making ALL opinion in the image of their OWN.

Anybody suffering from such a virulent case of I-trouble that he can't perceive merit except in a FLATTERER, is simply pushing self-respecting, upstanding confidence onto the payroll of a square-shooting rival.

Wherever banana oil is the SOLE lubricant that eases the lock of promotion, and a boss REALLY believes that he's as good as his lickspittles say, the red-ink well, conferring with sad experience, is forced to conclude that he's about to become GOOD FOR NOTHING.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

I AM not afraid of dying,
But I'm very much afraid of not living enough.
I don't care how long I live,
But I want to live all the life there is while I'm at it.
By this I do not mean having "a good time."
I mean having a real time.
I want to see life as it really is.
I want to see myself as I really am.
I want to discover all the truth
Which it is possible for me to discover.
I want to ask questions—
And test out my answers, even if they're wrong.
I want the courage to defy everything, even myself.
In my search for the true life—
No matter what it costs!

I know it will cost plenty.
Plenty of pain and discomfort.
But I fear comfort far more than discomfort.
I have seen men so trapped by comfort . . .
So fooled by success . . . so hamstrung by happiness . . .
I don't want to be cheated that way.
And I have seen men strangled by their own fear
And smothered in their own complacency—
So I will seek danger, until I can laugh at fear.
And court humiliation, to prick my complacency—
For no price is too great to pay
For the chance to live enough!

I don't know whether there is another life.
But I do know there is this one—
And, though this life is a mystery
And largely beyond my control,
I have observed this much—
I can play the game as I will!

Play it safe, or gamble—
Take it or leave it alone—
Hide away like a gopher—
Or strut my stuff as a king—
And I choose the role of king!
Then, if I'm two-timed on eternity,
I'll at least have had the glory
Of living enough for an hour.

I have only one prayer . . . but it's constant—
Keep me alive, while I live!
Keep me inquisitive . . . defiant . . .
Restless and reckless and hungry . . .
Standing the gaff—if only
I can hit on all eight till the end!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a guy that was buying a new airplane to run around in, and he says to the salesman, "But, say, won't that noise of the motors kinda make me deaf? I'm going to do a lot of riding in this thing right along, you know."

"Why, no," says the salesman. "After the first week you won't notice it. You won't hardly hear it at all after a week from tomorrow."

"Well, I ain't in any hurry to start my trip," says the guy. "I'll just let my man drive it around without me for the first week, or even 10 days, if you say so."

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

AT the other extreme, bacterial spores have survived prolonged exposure to the temperature of liquid air (190 degrees C.) for six months.

Bacteria can live for very long periods in the spore stage, perfectly passive, waiting as it were in a trance for an opportunity to emerge and grow and divide.

They have been kept for three years in this condition and have been fully capable of revival at the end of that time. Taking the normal life-span of a bacterium as 20 minutes, these spores slept during the time of over a hundred thousand generations of active bacteria.

H. G. Wells.

It is as if a man had passed into a trance ages ago, before ever the Pyramids were built—even before anything at all was built, for he might have been one of the earliest flint-chipping men—and woke blinking and rubbing his eyes at the present day to go about his accustomed occupations.

In this quiescent, resistant state bacterial spores wait on the ground, in the sea, in the air for an opportunity to hatch and grow. They have been found frozen in icebergs. They have even been found in hailstones, which shows that they float very high in the air.

If they are lucky enough to settle in a suitable spot they grow and proliferate, in some species with almost miraculous speed. A flask of sterilized broth, inoculated with bacteria by dipping an infected needle into it, may become visibly turbid in 24 hours' time.

Every cubic inch of the broth will now contain some eighty thousand million organisms.

A striking peculiarity of bacteria is that they have no trace of a sexual stage in their life-history. Even in the lowest protozoa and algae there are primitive kinds of sexual union, blending of cell with cell. But nothing of the sort has ever been seen in bacteria.

They proliferate by dividing, and then can do so vigorously and indefinitely without ever betraying that need for the refreshment that sexual union affords.

Considering the great number of different kinds of bacteria that are known, the forms that they may assume are very limited.

Their names are based in part on the shapes of their bodies. A rod-shaped bacterium, for example, is called a bacillus (or stick), aspherical bacterium is a coccus (or berry), and a curved or wriggling bacterium is a spirillum.

Some bacteria have long, lashing whips—either one, or a tuft at one end of the body or a number bristling all over the surface of the creature.

And they may stick together in bunches or clusters or chains whose shape is characteristic of the species. But, nevertheless, their range of form is very limited. Often quite distinct species of bacteria look so much alike as to be distinguishable only by the effects that they produce.

There are, for example, three kinds of bacteria almost indistinguishable in appearance, with globular bodies that form little chains: the first causes the souring of milk, the second flourishes in our blood and causes a rapidly fatal infection, while the third is a perfectly harmless creature nearly always present in the healthy human mouth.

It is because of their physiological diversity that the bacteria are remarkable. There are bacteria which show the profoundest departures from the normal chemical method by which animals and plants get their energy.

Their engines run on unusual fuel. Some get energy by oxidizing simple inorganic compounds—for example, by turning the inflammable, foul-smelling gas sulphuretted hydrogen into sulphuric acid.

Others have to use sodium thiosulphate to make sulphuric acid. Others, again, can energize themselves by burning ammonia.

And by means of these devices the creatures can build up the complicated organic substance of which their bodies, like any other living body consists, from such simple ingredients as water and carbon dioxide.

As a further curiosity, there are bacteria which can live, like yeasts, without oxygen, and there are even bacteria which shun oxygen and are poisoned by it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 3.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and happy over the arrival by post of the original of my favorite "Skippy" drawing and off through town to the picture framer. Then to the depot to see the mighty spatted hunters R. Long and I. Cobb off for North Carolina.

While window shopping stopped to buy a two-pound box of candy and after it was wrapped learned it was $4 a pound and had but $6. So told the saleswoman I would call later but did not say when. And Floyd Gibbons came along and told the hilarious story of the lady and the egg.

In the evening with my wife to a Lower East Side cafe and five men sat at a nearby table acting suspiciously and the morning papers told of them later holding up the place. Home and a letter from Chic Sale asking me to write an introduction for his new "I'll Tell You Why" book which I shall be happy to do.

When a lone, strange lady is admitted to the private offices of important New York executives these days a private secretary usually remains in the room. This is a precaution resulting from blackmail intrigue facing many who have seen ladies in private. They were informed later by lawyers their clients were targets for "improper advances." And what did they propose in way of settlement?

An exciting bit of drama unfolded in one of the fashionable luncheon resorts one day last week. And not without its comic relief. Amid the hum of well-bred conversation suddenly arose a shrill feminine scream. A smartly gowned woman stood up and shrieked: "There is the man who betrayed me!" A wedge of waiters escorted her to an ante room and while she was being calmed seven sheepish cavaliers crawled from under tables and made for an exit.

It recalls the old tale of the yap wagon passing Forty-seventh street and Broadway one morning. An excited passenger, leaping to his feet, shouted: "There's the fellow who got my watch!" In 10 seconds flat the corner was deserted.

"A fellow never realizes how many schoolmates he had until he becomes famous," postcards F. D. K.

An ace spot for pickpockets in other days was across the street from the Ben Hur chariot race sign atop the old Normandie Hotel. The sign in today's glittering galaxy would not turn a head or lift a chin, but then it stopped sidewalk traffic. And while gawkers gawked, leather lifters lifted.

The Ben Hur sign was reputed to have cost $27,000. A sign today often costs a quarter of a million. And is as often lost in the magnificent lustre.

The recent passing of that noble old Roman, Capt. Jim Churchill, removed one restaurateur who beat the Broadway game. When prohibition came he closed Churchill's but acquired a long lease on his famous corner which brought him an annual income of $50,000. Nearly all of the cafe men of his period buckled in bankruptcy.

Capt. Churchill had a den adjoining his office known as the Blue Room. It was papered with I. O. U.'s of hail fellows well met whom he befriended in days when he was a big figure in Broadway's dear old camaraderie.

Scientists say they have isolated the influenza germ, but judging from a red-nosed sniffler who peppered in this afternoon the dang thing is loose again.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU like to give advice to others as to how they should live, yet you exemplify few of the virtues you require of others. You have many frailties, but you do not consider them serious. You won't acknowledge that you have bad habits, disagreeable to your friends.

You are always scolding the members of your household for doing things that annoy you. You never quiz yourself on your own shortcomings which are, to say the least, displeasing to your family.

Think back a few days and you can remember that you have said many things that conditions did not warrant.

In objecting to what others said, perhaps you said and did things far worse than the occasion warranted.

In making corrections are you not too severe and sometimes unjust?

But is it right for you to abuse your family because others may have abused you?

Stand for your rights among those who try to over-power you, fight those who fight you, but don't make your family suffer.
